Eligible Veterans Urged To Apply for Benefits

The veterans' administration reports that there are a number of veterans who may be entitled to educational or training benefits through the state or federal government who have not made applications for such assistance.

Veterans falling in this classification may apply to the guidance center for assistance and information.

Vet Needs Papers To Secure Benefits

The veteran's administration requests that veterans applying for educational and training benefits furnish copies of separation notices such as certificates of discharge in order to simplify preparation and issuance of certificates of eligibility. Any separation notice automatically furnished by the service branch at the time of separation, such as form 100 for army personnel and form 553 for navy personnel, will be accepted.

Any veteran now enrolled in school and receiving veteran's benefits who has not supplied the veteran's administration with a separation form may be delayed in receiving his certificate of eligibility and entitlement, causing a delay in the payment of his subsistence allotment.

AWS to Auction Year's Leftovers

Over two hundred varied articles gained ownership yesterday as furtive bargain hunters contributed over $50 to the AWS annual auction of lost articles held in front of the Side.

Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, will sell the remaining lost and found articles today at a rummage sale held from 10 to 12 and from 1 to 3 in the Co-op.

Climaxing the day's events was a grand surprise—a gift order for a pair of nylon stockings that sold to Gloria Montag for $1.10.

The first item of value to be sold by auctioneers Bob Moran and Dick Savinar, was a Schaefer fountain pen valued at $8 that sold for $2.60. Three field jackets changed hands, one jacket selling for $5, and the others for $1.20. Over four dozen girl's bandanas, some of them closely resembling the dishrags for which they were sold, were auctioned off at prices ranging from five cents to twenty cents. One real silk bandana is still unsold. Gloves and mittens accumulated from last fall term went to the highest bidders at ten and fifteen cents. One pair of clean white rabbit fur mittens was sold to a masculine bidder for $1.50.

Jewelry sales predominated with several Mexican rings and novelty pieces, including a friendship bracelet, selling from 25 cents upward. One

Books bargains were popular, and several valuable accounting handbooks sold from prices beginning at half the original cost of the book. There are still many books left in the "Lost Library," ranging from popular thrillers to medical books, and including Dr. Ernest Moll's "Appreciation of Poetry."

A large variety of cigarette cases and compacts were sold from prices ranging from a dollar upward.

Still left unsold were a pearl ring, a turquoise ring, and several language and English composition books.

The money gained from the sale of lost articles will be contributed towards an AWS scholarship fund.
