Dr. Carroll C. Calkins Accompanies Sage; Speaker to Appear in Odeon Stage Show

By GLORIA SMITH

According to a cablegram received today by the committee for faculty enlightenment, The Honorable Charles S. Politz and assistant Dr. Carroll C. Calkins will arrive in Eugene in time Sunday evening via Jet-propelled plane to present Politz' address at Odeon, annual student creative art show.

"I am sure," the committee chairman said, "that Mr. Politz' address, 'Sex, Ladies and Gentlemen, Must Out!' will be of interest to students as well as faculty members."

The Odeon program will begin at 8 p.m. in the music school auditorium.

The Honorable Charles S. Politz and assistant will be greeted at the Eugene airport by a committee of faculty members and students who will conduct the two scholars to the Mirror room of the Eugene hotel, and then to the Odeon program where Dr. Calkins will present the address.

Slides Lost

Although the stereoptican slides for illustrating the lecture were lost en route, the committee agreed that this would not decrease the value of the address.

"We feel that this opportunity for faculty enlightenment has come about at an appropriate time in that the Odeon program is providing an excellent medium for the lecture," the committee chairman said.

The Odeon art exhibit and tea will be presented from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on the Gerlinger sun porch and the program will begin at 8 p.m. at the music school auditorium.

Plastic Arts

Included in the art exhibit will be painting, sculpture, architecture, ceramics, and fine arts. The stage performance will present music, dance, and poetry.

For the first time in the four years Odeon has been held at the University, a magazine will be added. It will contain a selection of

Manuscripts Due May 15 All Undergrads Eligible

May 1 is the deadline for entering the annual Marshall-Case-Haycox short story contest. Manuscripts must be turned in to Room 4, Journalism building, W. F. G. Thacher, professor of English and advertising, announced Friday.

All regularly enrolled undergraduates of the University are eligible to submit an entry. The prizes are $50, first; $30, second; and $20, third.

Entries must be in duplicate, although a clear carbon copy will be acceptable. A piece of paper bearing the author's name must be enclosed in an envelope on the face of which appears the name of the story. The envelope will then be turned in with the manuscript.

The contest is sponsored annually by three Oregon alumni, Edison T. Marshall, Robert O. Case, and Ernest Haycox. It was originated by Marshall in 1916, the year after he left the University. Case and Haycox joined him later in financing the scholarship.

Judges for the contest are: Lillian Stelle, Eugene, an alumna, with experience as a professional writer, Hoyt Franchere, assistant professor of English, and Mr. Ed Turnbull, of Shelton, Turnbull, and Fuller, printers of Eugene.

Campus streets are being repaired this week by city maintenance and construction workers. Thirteenth street had several badly broken stretches of pavement.

Women's Chorus To Sing April 30

The Women's Choral club of Eugene will present a well-rounded program of classical and popular music in McArthur court at 8:15 p.m. April 30.

The group, consisting of 74 voices, is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Maud Densmore. Musical direction is handled by Glenn Griffith of Eugene high school. The club, active in Eugene for about 10 years, gives concerts every fall and spring.

The funds derived from the performance will be used to buy equipment for the Girl Scout summer camp at Lake Cleawox, near Florence. Girl Scouts are in charge of ticket sales.

George Hopkins, professor of piano at the music school, will be guest soloist. He will play selections from Chopin, Debussy, and Elmerco.

Accompanist is Margery Scober Wilson. Main contralto parts will be sung by Marguerite Saunders, while Doris Siegenthaler, Rea Rice, and Elizabeth Walker will sing the featured soprano obligato parts.

Ball Petitions Due

Male Chorus Limits to 25; Women May Employ 30

The maximum limit for each men's chorus participating in the Junior Weekend All-Campus Sing has been raised from 20 to 25 men, it was announced yesterday by Chairman Dave Fortmiller.

The minimum number of male voices for each living organization will remain at 15. Women's choruses will be limited to a minimum of 20 and a maximum of 30 voices.

Annual Affair

The Sing, which is an annual part of the University Junior Weekend, has been scheduled for the evening of May 10. Over 35 living organizations will take part in this year's program, according to Fortmiller.

A new limit of three minutes for each chorus will insure a more quickly moving program than in former years, he stated.

Response Good

"A gratifying and enthusiastic response is being shown toward the Sing this year," declared Fortmiller, "with selections from the various living organizations ranging from popular to classical songs, and including many spiritual and fraternal numbers."

Members of Fortmiller's committee are Betty Householder, junior in liberal arts, and Barbara Harr, sophomore in liberal arts. Bill Yates, freshman in journalism, is handling publicity for the event.

Outing Club Schedules Trip to Fern Ridge Dam

A bike hike to Fern Ridge dam will be held today by members of the Outing club and all other students interested in bicycling. Students are asked to meet in front of Gerlinger hall at 12:30 p.m. with their bike and box lunch. Fishing, boating, and swimming will constitute the afternoon's schedule.

Druids Formulate Plans For Food Conservation

Details of plans laid by Druids, junior men's honorary, for promotion of President Truman's food conservation program will be announced early next week, Bass Dyer, Druids' president announced Friday. Druids is organizing the campus campaign in cooperation with Charles Howard, professor of law.

The purpose of the campaign will be impressed on all University students and campus living organizations which can aid in the drive, he said. "This nation-wide campaign is more than an economic necessity," he stated.

Mr. Howard, who has recently returned from the famine area in Europe, is furnishing information for the drive. Millions in other lands are threatened with starvation, he explained Friday, and the University can aid the nation's effort by following this rule:

Cut waste and eat less wheat products, fats and oils—substituting foods that are plentiful. Reduce the use of bread and other wheat foods by 40 percent; fats and oils by 20 percent.

Figures released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicate that the curtailment of wheat products ordered by the government should save about 45 million bushels of grain by June 30, 1946. New methods by which grain now being used in the feeding of livestock and poultry would be conserved for use as human food may increase this total.

Irrepressible Law School Men Plan Take-Off On Junior Weekend Queen Coronation Fete

By Harry Belt

At a School of Law student body general election Friday, the following professional law students were elected to the Law School Junior Weekend royal court for May 4: Frank Meldrum, queen; and Gene Brown and George Luoma, princesses; John Winkler and Bill Bernard, flower girls.

The elections were held despite great protest by the candidates, but Law School traditions hold that all nominations and elections carry an unwritten law of compulsory acceptance. One candidate, Jim Buell, managed to escape nomination by claiming an Act of God prevented his compliance with the honor. Buell's intimate friends alleged, however, that he must have been up to some mischief.

Bryan Goodenough, spokesman for the law school, described each of the candidates, their qualifications, and their reactions to election.

Queen Frankie

Queen Frankie I is a quiet, studious fellow who is said to possess queenly charm and poise, but his physical qualifications are doubtful. The Queen exclaimed that his reign would have more than the usual pre-war type of Law School junior weekend serenity. A BA stooze was heard to refute this.

Spokesman Goodenough came to the lawyer's defense by saying the BA stooze came under sections 22-136 and 99-1021 of the Oregon Compiled Laws Annotated, 1940 edition, and therefore his utterances were unqualified. Goodenough further stated that the lawyers were entitled to their Junior Weekend "fun" due to their limited participation in social activity at all other times of the year.

Princess Brown

Princess Gene Brown, who first threatened assault and battery against the party who nominated him, sufficiently calmed down after his election to register his innermost reactions to the honor.

Princess Brown's qualifications were based primarily on his para-troop activities during war years, according to George Rossman, who sometimes interprets some of Spokesman Goodenough's more loquacious statements.

Immediately after the elections, Brown was primarily concerned with the dresses to be worn by the royal court. His gargantuan size makes it difficult to secure enough of the special material to be used for the purpose of covering him in keeping with good taste without running afoul of the latest OPA regulations.
