The International Handicap

(Synopsis: Raz-Ma-Taz lost his kingdom (which included Ali-Ben-Gay's sire, Ali-Oop) on an election bet to an Indian Maharajah named Ah-Poo-Poo. Raz-Ma-Taz, forced to earn his own livelihood, came to the U. S. and became a Hearst columnist, writing under the nom-de-plume of Hed Tallock).

(Chapter Two)

Ah-Poo-Poo had not remained idle, for (with the aid of U. S. Lend-Leased trucks) he had taken everything but the nine old women (who immediately signed a non-aggression pact with Great Britain) back to his palace in India. Ali-Oop, because he understood Arabic commands, became the Maharajah's favorite steed.

Within three months Ah-Poo-Poo's secretary and prime minister had moved to the royal stables to make room for Ali-Oop, who was quartered in the east wing.

By some strange physiological quirk, Ali-Oop fell madly in love with one of the sacred cows in the village. She paid him no heed at first, but gradually she became aware of this handsome, prancing foreigner, and (no doubt quite bored with her virtuous existence) after a somewhat lengthy courtship, allowed herself to enter wedlock.

In October of 1941 she gave birth to Ali-Ben-Gay, and in so doing precipitated a national crisis. The Moslems were convulsed and though it a huge joke, while the enraged Hindus blamed the British and clamored for national independence. In the meanwhile, young Ali-Ben-Gay flourished, although within seven weeks he had succeeded in driving his mother insane.

Ali-Ben-Gay attracted much attention (partially due to the fact

The Bums overcame the Sigma Phi Eps in a tight game to win, 3-2, in the softball highlight Monday. The Phi Delta Theta beat the Campbell Clubbers, 6-2 and in other games, SAE took the measure of Sigma Alpha Mu, 10-3, and the ATO house swamped Pi Kappa Alpha, 16-8.

Behind the fine twirling of "the Duke" Dennison, the Bums were held to a tight score of 2-1 until the last inning when a single by Puffinbarger led to another run, making it 3-1. Coming home in the last half, Carlson, catcher for the Sig Eps connected to make it 3-2. Deller, pitcher for the losers, held his opponents to five hits, while Dennison allowed only four hits.

Metzker, pitcher for Phi Delta Theta, helped win his own game, banging a homer, while allowing the losing aCampbell Club, but five hits. iPtcher Moseby of the losers gave up eight hits, even though Robson right fielder, collected a homer.

SAE's pitcher, Jim Popp, held the boys from Sigma Alpha Mu to four hits to win his game. Losing pitcher, Buchwach, allowed seven hits, which were enough to beat him.

The ATO'ers were far superior to their rivals, Pi Kappa Alpha, as they collected 20 hits from losing pitcher Belknap. Hume, pitching for the winners gave up nine hits, but aided by Joe Hall with a homer, went on to victory.

Koch Back; Squad Game This Week

The 1946 Webfoot grid squad settled down to its fifth week of spring practice yesterday as Head Coach Tex Oliver continued grooming his men for Thursday night's intra-squad tilt on Hayward field.

Oliver has not released full details in regard to this week's tilt, but it is expected that the contest will have more of the appearance of a regulation game than was the first intra-squad scrimmage.

Present at yesterday's workout but not in grid uniform was Bob Koch, letterman fullback from the 1941 Webfoot eleven. Koch has just returned to the campus following a three-year stretch in the Naval Air Corps but will not start school till fall. He will be around for a few weeks, however, working out daily in an attempt to get back into shape for the fall season.

Interest continues in the outstanding talent available for the two ball-carrying posts—left half and fullback. The 1941 Letterman Jimmy Newquist maintains his hold on the number one left half spot with a fine display of downfield running. It is probable that he will retain that position throughout the spring session as Jake Leicht is on the track squad and not participating in the spring grid program.

Bill Behrens, sharp-passing back up from Ventura J.C., has been playing understudy to Newquist. Behind Behrens is Norm Van Brocklin of Oakland, Cal., another excellent passer, who has also displayed some fine running form the past week.

Bill Sills, 160-pounder from Portland, has also shown up well both in practice and in the first intra-

The Oregon Ducks, playing before a large crowd, smashed their way to victory over the Cougars of Washington State, five to two, Saturday afternoon. It was Oregon's second win in three matches this season.

Jim Zeiger and tSan Anderson of the Ducks delighted the packed gallery with their sparkling playing. Coming from behind they won five straight games to take the first set, and then proceeded to methodically run their opponents ragged in the second set.

The number one men of both teams, Zeiger of Oregon and Evett of Washington State played a very fast cutting match with Zeiger finally triumphing. Sixteen games were played in this one set before Zeiger could overcome Evett.

Bob Carey, playing the No. 3 position for the Ducks, had to play three sets to win his match from a stubborn Cougar, Bob Kittleson.

Next Saturday, May 4, at 1:30 p.m., the Oregon Ducks will play host to the eBavers of Oregon State. The Ducks lost to the Beavers in their first encounter played at Corvallis by the narrow margin of 4 to 3.

Webfoots Grab All But Two Firsts In Meet

Running up 113 1/4 points to Portland university's 9 1/4 and Willamette university's 8 1/2 points, the Webfoot cindermen surprised local track fans by its impressive victory Saturday on Hayward Field.

The Ducks swept first places in every event except the shotput and pole vault. Experts had predicted a close meet between the three schools, but Colonel Bill Hayward's men completely upset the dope bucket in their impressive win.

Partially redeeming themselves after their unimpressive performance against Oregon State in the relays two weeks ago, the Oregon harriers are now a definite threat in the conference race.

The Ducks captured a total of thirteen first places while Portland and Willamette battled against each other to win one event apiece, the Bearcats' Paul Cookingham, hefty shotputter, copped his event with a heave of 42 feet 6 1/2 inches, while the Pilots' Tom Steele cleared 11 feet to take top honors in the pole vault.

Oregon's Hugh Stapleton, Jake Leicht, and Gordon Allbright led their teammates in the impressive victory by capturing two first places each. Never-tiring Stapleton led the milers with a time of 4:48.9. Later in the day, Stapleton came back to win the two mile in 10.58.

Practically conceded the 100 and 220 yard dashes before starting, Jake Leicht came through in expected fashion by copping the hundred in 10.1 and 220 in :23.2. Speedy Jack McCracken turned the tables on teammate Carl Maxey by taking second place in both of the races. Previously, Maxey had taken McCracken in the other runs and time trials.

Allbright was not pressed in either the high or low hurdles and won both events in the comparatively slow time of :17 for the highs and :26.8 in the lows.

This Saturday the Ducks face the strong Washington Husky cinder team that trounced Oregon State Saturday at Seattle 71 2-3 to 59 1-3 points. Outstanding Husky trackmen as revealed by their performance Saturday are Lee Schlosser, sprinter; Lyle Clark, record squeezing high and low hurdler, and Don Wold, Washington's counterpart of Oregon's Hugh Stapleton. Wold captured first in the mile Saturday with the impressive time of 4:26 and came back after a short rest to garner his second first of the day by running a 2:02 half mile.

TROUBLE MAKER. Quentin Greenough, Oregon State's fine center of pre-war days, is back on the Corvallis campus as assistant line coach and probably will have plenty in store for the Ducks next fall.

OSC Blends "T" With Regular Stiner System

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis — Work on the new "blend" formation is receiving heavy emphasis in the Oregon State spring football practices this week. The "blend" is defined by Coach Lon Stiner as a combination of the regular Oregon State system of T formation football and was introduced by the veteran Beaver coach this spring.

The T seems to fit in very well and add deception to Stiner's famous optional running-pass play. After watching the "blend" in scrimmage action, Line Coach Jim Dixon commented: "If used effectively, this formation will give someone a headache next fall."

Stiner is following his usual spring practice policy of holding short scrimmage sessions under actual game conditions several times a week instead of emphasizing weekend regulation length games. Intra-squad contests are planned for the Orangemen later in the spring.

The tough nine game round-rob-
