

Law School Judges Sort Entries in Theme Contest

By HARRY BELT

All last weekend a strategy committee of four law school student judges sorted and weighed several hundred entries in the "Write a theme for the law school weekend" contest. Joe Walker's, second year professional law student, theme "Straw Fair" was selected as the most outstanding due to its superior originality. Theme contest judges were Ed Dennison, Ralph Currin, Neil Brown and William Maters.

Law Dance Scheduled

With selection of the weekend theme, General Chairman Ray Coulter and his committee of expeditors made final plans for the law school junior weekend dance, one of five major attractions scheduled for May 4 and 5.

Gene Conklin and Don Walker, strategists in charge of securing the most appropriate location for the annual law school junior weekend dance announced that the locus in quo would be the county fair grounds on the outskirts of Eugene. A regular full-fledged barn dance will be held for the barristers and their favorite girl friends or wives.

Surprise Music

Dale Helikson and Alva Granquist, strategists in charge of melody reported final music arrangements will be kept secret until dance guests arrive at the fair grounds. William Bernard, close friend of Miss Granquist, has reported that he has confidential information indicating that melody strategists have been negotiating with Bob Crosby, Glenn Miller, Gene Kruppa and a local "Dark-horse band" composed of nationally outstanding musicians who have settled in the Eugene-Springfield-Wendling area.

Murray Agate, Elmer Sahlstrom, Frederick Dahl, Donald Turner and Jim Griswold, were named in charge of the law school's dance date application bureau. Unlike most date bureaus, the law school's date bureau is charged with refusing dates, not finding them.

GUS ARNHEIM

He later appeared in Chicago and made personal appearances on short engagements at Cincinnati, New Orleans, and Kansas City. Recently Arnheim opened at the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel which was the rendezvous of the film colony.

Junior Coeds Seek Schwering Award

All junior girls interested in applying for the Dean Schwering scholarship may file applications with the dean of women until Friday, May 3. This scholarship is awarded on the basis of need and scholastic record to a deserving junior girl who will be a senior fall term. The money for this award was obtained through exchange dinners between sorority houses, women's dorms, and the co-operatives this year.

Russian Luncheon Enjoyed By Group

The Tiffen Table group held their annual luncheon Thursday noon in the home economics apartment. The club, consisting of twelve University faculty women, were served a Russian luncheon prepared by the girls in Miss Mabel Wood's food classes.

Borsch (a beet soup), salmon salad, whole-wheat rolls, and Pas-ka (a traditional Russian Easter dessert), were on the menu.

Members of the group present were Mrs. Edna Landros, Mrs. Ottilie Seyboldt, Dr. Marian Miller, Mrs. Astrid Williams, Miss Mary Perkins, Miss Harriet Thomson, Dr. Leona Tyler, Mrs. Mabel McClain, Mrs. Clara Fitch, Miss Mabelle Hair, and Miss Wood.

Five Sororities Initiate 20 Coeds

Five sororities have initiated a total of 20 girls since the Emerald's April 16 report of Greek initiations. Sigma Kappa and Delta Delta Delta lead the list in the latest compilation, with five new members each.

The new initiates are: Sigma Kappa Helen McFettridge, Donna Neville, Betty Green, Marge Colt, and Lee Huls.

Delta Delta Delta: Marjean McElvain, Joan Rambo, Judy Graham, Lorraine Kennedy, and Shirley Kissling.

Delta Zeta: Diane Barnhart, Geraldine Dostalick, Maxine Knorr, and Mary Beth Stranahan.

Alpha Gamma Delta: Beverly Powell, Ruth Bogan, and Pat Crowell.

Pi Beta Phi: Bernie Layton, Ann Meilstrap, and Mary Lou Klepper.

Government Furnishes Topography Maps to UO

The United States Map service has recently supplied the anthropology department and geology department with topography maps which will be valuable in teaching and research, according to W. D. Smith, head of the geology department.

These maps, the work of the army engineers, were restricted during the war and have only recently been released for use in the classroom.

ATO SWEETHEART

The role of the butler, "Matey," in the University theater production of "Dear Brutus," is ably handled by Jack Miller. Jack described the character he portrays as a pilferer on a minor scale who wants to be a pilferer on a major scale, and hinted that as the play develops, he succeeds.

A transfer from the University of Cincinnati, Jack entered Oregon last fall term and has been active in campus dramatics since then, with parts in the "Time of Your Life" and "Out Flew the Web." He has always been interested in drama as a sideline but his serious intentions are in other fields. He started college majoring in law, then switched to science and now is in the school of education. He combined the last two interests by deciding on an ambition to teach science and social science someplace in Oregon.

Marge Has Pin

Twenty-four-year-old Jack likes to travel, play bridge and tennis with Marge Allingham, who plays opposite him in "Dear Brutus." By some strange coincidence, Marge wears his Alpha Tau Omega pin and they play lovers in the show.

Jack served with the field technicians in radar work attached to the army signal corps for several years. He was active in this country as well as Panama, South America, the West Indies, and Canada. He worked for a time with the Crosley corporation in Cincinnati before entering the University and also attended Moorhead Teacher's college in Kentucky.

DRUID FOOD SAVERS

The conservation program Thursday is a part of a Druid drive to carry out the nation-wide program laid out by President Truman. Basis of the drive is to have all living organizations cut the use of bread and other wheat products by 40 percent and the use of oils and fats by 20 percent.
