

Juniors Plan Many Events For Mothers

Meetings Scheduled Between Festivities

Along with many events planned for the joint enjoyment of mothers and students during Junior Week-end festivities, there are several which have been scheduled for mother alone. These Mother's Weekend activities give every member of the Oregon's Mother's Club an opportunity to assist in planning and organizing the Mother's Club future program.

Three Meetings

These three meetings are scheduled for May 10, 11, and 12. On Friday, May 10, the Executive Board of Oregon Mothers will meet in Gerlinger, Alumni Hall, from 2:30 to 5 p.m. The annual business meeting of Oregon Mothers will be in Guild Theater of Johnson Hall on Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon, and the Oregon Mothers State Board of Directors will gather for breakfast at the Eugene hotel on Sunday, 8:30 a.m.

These meetings are to be held at times which do not conflict with any of the many entertainments presented for mothers' pleasure. All the committees and organizations giving such entertainments are perfecting them now, for top-flight performances. Two of these performances are the Amphibian Pageant at 3:30 on Friday and the Orchestral recital at 7:30 Saturday evening.

Open House

Plans are continuing under the direction of the Hospitality committee for departmental open houses, Saturday from 1 to 4:30. It is hoped that various professors will be present at that time to explain the workings of their departments to mothers.

Living organizations are also continuing with preparations for Mother's Day dinners with their sons and daughters.

Comical Festival Delights Freshman Drama Major

Mary Hoch, Former Bond Drive Star, Plays Restrained Role in 'Dear Brutus'

"I think 'Dear Brutus' is a very clever and unusual play because it touches on fantasy and results in rather comical circumstances," said Mary Hoch, who plays the part of quiet, restrained, Mabel, in James M. Barrie's delightful play.

A freshman drama major, Mary worked for several years after being graduated from Jefferson high school in Portland. She combined her musical and dramatic talents to contribute to many of the bond drives during the war, and is continuing her voice study at the University music school.

Worked as Stenog

Besides her radio work, Mary held a job as stenographer and secretary for a Portland construction company, which sponsored the programs on which she appeared.

Her dramatic interests go back to her high school days and she played the lead in "Young April," in her senior year.

In "Dear Brutus" she plays opposite Norman Weekly, who is in the role of Jack Purdie.

Mary enjoys swimming, dancing, hiking, and "I make a stab at playing tennis," she added, rubbing her sore arm.

Post-college Days

When asked about post-college days, she said, "I would like to go into some phase of radio or television work where I could com-

Assembly to Open Food-Saving Campaign; Famine Relief Said Vital For World Peace

Famine Meal Due Tonight

As a graphic portrayal of conditions in Europe, all living organizations on the campus have agreed to serve a "famine dinner" this evening, that marks the opening day of the University food conservation drive.

The menu for the "famine dinner" consists of a light potato soup, a small square of cheese, corn-pono, and a small serving of marmalade, according to Bass Dyer, president of Druids, junior men's honorary, which is sponsoring the drive.

Sponsored by Druids

Druids is sponsoring this drive in conjunction with the national food conservation program announced by President Truman last week. The president appealed to the nation to aid the starving peoples of our allies in Europe and later hinted that unless United States wheat and fats consumption are cut in the next sixty days, and unless war-time commitments are kept, food rationing may be once again clamped down on the nation.

The U. S. department of agriculture has released figures which show that the average American has been consuming food at a daily

Music School Gives Award

Dean Theodore Kratt of the school of music presented Derald Parks and Treva Rice, Eugene high school students, with the Maude Densmore music scholarships to the music school before a large audience at McArthur court Tuesday night during the annual spring concert of the Eugene Women's Choral Club.

Two scholarships were awarded this year because the one given last year was not used, Dean Kratt said. Miss Densmore is chairman of the choral club, which sponsors the music scholarship contest annually.

Under the direction of Glenn Griffin the woman's chorus, more than 70 voices strong, presented a program which combined the popular and the classic. The concert was given for the benefit of Lane County Girl Scouts.

The event featured George Hopkins, professor of piano, whose numbers included "Lagunita" (Elmerco) the two Debussy favorites, "Clair De Lune," and "Golliwog's Cake Walk," and two Chopin selections, "Berceuse" and "Polonaise in A-Flat." As an encore Mr. Hopkins played "The Musical Snuff-box" (Liabow).

A contralto solo by Marguerite Saunders, "Carmencita," was presented to the audience as well as four parts of the chorus in the "Echo Song" (DiLasso), in which a small division of the chorus sang the "echo."

A trio composed of Doris Siegenthaler, Rea Rice and Elizabeth Walker, sang a soprano obligato to "Country Gardens" by Percy Grainger. Marjorie Scobert Wilson is the choral club's accompanist.

Letters for Mothers

All students who did not receive Mother's Day letters may secure them in the Co-op, Jean Watson, Mother's day chairman, announced Wednesday. Miss Watson urges all students to send letters home.

Reserve Officers Form New University Chapter

A University chapter of the Reserve Officers' association will be formed at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Bamboo room of the Eugene hotel. Dr. F. Glenn Macomber, school of education, will preside as temporary chairman.

Officers will be elected for a permanent organization and several important announcements will be made, according to Dr. Macomber.

War Crimes Court Holds Notorious Alum Who Led Jap Foreign Policy Planners

By LAURA OLSON

Yosuke Matsuoka, war criminal!

An Oregon alumnus and Japan's foreign minister in 1940-41 under Premier Prince Konoye, Matsuoka is one of 28 Japanese leaders to be indicted. The indictment was presented to the Far East international military tribunal by Chief Prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan.

The Japanese were charged with trying to rule the world in an axis conspiracy with Germany and Italy. Charges against the defendants were: waging aggressive war and ruthlessly seeking their ends through murder, inhumanities and plunder.

Law School Grad.

Matsuoka graduated from the University of Oregon law school in 1900. This was the time when the law school was located in Portland, and occupied several rooms in the upper floor of the Good-enough building, S. W. 5th avenue and Yamhill street. Dean Richard Thornton was the only full-time instructor. The remaining members of the faculty were made up of Portland lawyers. The course covered two years and classes were held at night.

According to O. L. Price, former publisher of the Oregonian, Matsuoka was rated second in the class. "He should have had first place," Price stated, "but in those days the instructors thought it would be better to have an American first." When Matsuoka took

Clyde Walker Opens Drive

The food conservation program on the campus will start rolling at 11 o'clock this morning when Clyde L. Walker, executive vice-chairman for the Jobs for Veterans organization in Oregon, speaks before the regular Thursday assembly in McArthur court.

The assembly, sponsored by Druids, junior men's honorary, will feature the discussion of the food situation and the famine in Europe.

Gunn to Speak

Also on the program will be Rex Gunn, freshman in journalism, who will give his speech, "One Hour of Sunshine," which won second prize at the Pacific forensic speech contest held recently at Stockton, California.

Walker, who comes to the campus as a representative of the office of Joe Carson, state chairman for the food conservation program, is a graduate of the University in the class of '38. Majoring in political science, he was active on the campus as a member of Alpha Tau Omega, Scabbard and Blade, and the track team.
