

Roberta Quigley to Play Trouble-making Vamp

Drama Major Started Footlight Career In Collegiate Roles While in High School

As Joanna, the vamp of "Dear Brutus," Roberta Quigley plays a willowy sort of clinging vine. She further describes Joanna as "the sweet little innocent type on the surface but she's the cause of many a headache in the play."

A junior drama major, Roberta has had experience in University productions of "The Corn Is Green" and "The Skin of Our Teeth." She appeared in college plays while she was still attending University high school in Eugene and also played in the Very Little Theater production of "Kiss and Tell."

Valley Resident

She lived in Albany and Portland before moving to Eugene seven years ago.

Her comment on "Dear Brutus": "It's fun to do because it seems to touch on universal human nature. It makes you stop and think about yourself, too."

According to Roberta, "Dear Brutus" is Barrie's satire on human life touching on the theme, "it takes all kinds of people to make up a world."

Can't Resist

"Even though rehearsals do take lots of time, work, loss of sleep and social life, we just keep going back for more," she continued.

Roberta's ambitions are in the field of radio where she would like to work on the production end. "The stage is my real goal I guess," she added, "but I realize that it's pretty tough to crack."

Three ATOs Not So Jolly

Blaming their illness on the house manager, three prominent ATOs, Ed Allen, Jim Morrell, and Pete Miller, landed in the pill palace yesterday morning suffering from stomach disorders. Claiming to have the most unique and notorious room in the infirmary, the men of Ward 9 are more concerned with inanimate objects than their stomachs. They are weeping for lack of visitors, complaining about the 6 ft. beds to fit 6 ft. 3 torsos, and insist that they are suffering more than the 40 other ATOs.

Taus With Scholar

Ward 9 holds three ATOs and one scholar, Bob Robinson, who succeeded in having the only visitor Wednesday afternoon. They say one scholar, because they claim to have politicians, athletes, lovers, and alcoholics in their ward, and didn't want the reader to be confused.

Trying to trace the cause of their illness, they have narrowed the field down to the soap on the dishes, the dog that died the night before, Fred Beckwith, or the Emerald caption, "ATO Sweetheart and ATO to Star in Dear Brutus."

Boys Want Chow

Poached eggs with tea (that is!) went over big with the boys, but food is more what they want. In parting the boys requested that we tell the readers they are not

"goofing," but are really intent on getting well.

Others whom the nurses are having less trouble with are: June Clayton, Pat Percival, Ruby Matthews, Barbara Weisz, Vivian Val-lad, Gloria Stannard, Selma Syme, Barbara Kvern, Wally Heider, James Kolts, and Herbert Leonnig.

Zoologist to Present Films On Marien Life

Dr. Ivan Pratt, associate professor of zoology at Oregon State college, will present a moving picture filmed at the Marine Institute of Biology at Coos Bay Friday at 4 o'clock in Room 303, Deady.

The pictures were taken last summer.

Personnel Dean Sees Scholarship Applicants

Back at the University after spending several days in Portland is Karl Onthank, of Personnel Administration. Dean Onthank, Mrs. Golda Wickham, dean of women, and Mrs. R. R. Huestis, president of the state of Oregon's Mother's association, were in Portland interviewing applicants for the Oregon Mother scholarships.

In Portland Dean Onthank attended a meeting of the executive board of the Oregon Mothers. He also sat on an oral examination board for the workman's unemployment compensation commission.

University Friend Dies After Illness

Frank Chambers, Eugene business man, died Monday. Mr. Chambers had been ill for some time. He was known to many of the students and faculty members of the University as a "supporter of endowments and enterprises of the University of Oregon."

A large grant of land in "Amazon bottom" was presented to the University by Mr. Chambers and his daughter Mrs. Mary Chambers Brockelbank. The land will be the site of homes for veterans. Mr. Chambers also made contributions to the library and other University facilities.

Leslie Brockelbank, former Oregon student and granddaughter of Mr. Chambers, was married the Sunday preceding his death.

Prom Workers to Meet

All members of the junior prom committee are urged to attend an important meeting today at 4 p.m., in the McArthur court offices, the committee chairman announced Wednesday.
