

ASUO Politicos to Get Starting Gun at Meet Today

Annual BA Meet To End Today

Forums Well Attended
Dr. Victor Morris Says

The closing sessions of the fifth annual Student-Business conference will be held this afternoon at the business administration school and YMCA hut.

The purpose of the meetings is to bring students into direct personal contact with successful businessmen in the hope that an interchange of ideas will be helpful to both.

Several of the speakers at the conference have expressed satisfaction with the results. Thomas Winn, Eugene accountant, said that "students should attend every session of the conference that they possibly can. It is contacts like these between students and businessmen that enables students to form opinions and get ideas that they would never get out of textbooks."

Well-Attended

Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, reported that "the initial sessions of the Student-Business conference have been very well attended. Much more interest has been shown than at any previous conference. Students have been very free with questions and have manifested a wider interest than heretofore."

Program Today

The program for today will include four general topics. The first of these will be a talk on secretarial work by Mrs. Margaret M. Sharp at 2 p.m. in Room 106 Commerce. Mrs. Sharp is from the general extension division in Portland.

In Room 107 Commerce, at 2 p.m., John Byrne, of the Equitable life insurance company in Eugene, will speak to students on insurance.

Phi Chi Theta

There will be the usual fifteen minute intermission at 3:15 when Phi Chi Theta, business administration fraternity for women, will serve refreshments in the YMCA Lounge.

Sigma Delta Chi Pledges Four Men

Pointing them out as pledges to Sigma Delta Chi, national men's professional journalism honorary, traditional white aprons and large placards bearing the name of their organization were donned by Jack Craig, Homer Rohse, Roy Metzler, and Arnold Seeborg Monday. The men were pledged to the fraternity at a meeting of the organization Tuesday.

Initiation for the new members will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in Alumni hall. Winter term pledges also being initiated are Scotty Mindolovich, By Mayo, Tommy Wright, and Leonard Turnbull.

Wendell Webb, managing editor of the Salem Statesman, was elected professional member of the organization at the Tuesday meeting, Charles Politz, president announced.

Ted Hallock, left, and Marge Cowlin will be nominated for the Number Two positions on the Independent and Greek tickets, respectively, at the annual ASUO nominating assembly in McArthur court today.

Classes to Nominate Officers At Separate Assemblies Today

Gil Roberts, on the Independent party ticket, and Tom Kay, representative of the Greeks, will be nominated as candidates for the position of ASUO president in the nominating assembly to be held in McArthur court at 11 this morning.

Kay is a junior in economics and a member of Phi Delta Theta. He served as a combat infantryman in Europe during the war and was co-chairman of this year's Junior Weekend. His selection was by unanimous vote, according to Don Mayne, chairman of the Greek bloc.

Candidates Listed

Roberts, winner of the Koyle cup for the outstanding junior man, has been active as junior representative on the executive council and a member of the athletic board. He is a member of Druids and Friars, and a junior in physical education.

Second position on the Independent Students' ticket is being filled by Ted Hallock, junior in journalism. He served as an administrative and combat AAF officer. His University record includes Emerald columnist for three years, program director of KOAC, campus radio station, and local band-leader.

Greek candidate for first vice-president of the ASUO is Marge Cowlin, president of the junior class. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma and Phi Theta Upsilon, and worked as business manager of the Oregana in 1944-45.

Other Greek nominations will be Dave Fortmiller, Beta Theta Pi, senior representative on the executive council; Pat Webber, Alpha Chi Omega, junior representative; and Don Pinkerton, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, sophomore representative. Tom Hazzard, Alpha Tau Omega, will receive the nomination for yell king.

Independent nominations for executive council representatives will be Nick Weddle, senior representative; Dorothy Fowler, junior representative; and Laura Olson, sophomore representative.

Eugene Bus Strike Affects UO Campus; 63% of Students Hit, Survey Reveals

By Herb Penny

Simultaneously with the announcement Wednesday by union and company officials that the Eugene bus strike should be over by Friday the results of a campus poll show that 63.4 per cent of the Oregon faculty and students were affected by the strike. The results were announced by Warren C. Price, associate professor of journalism, who is conducting the poll as a part of his class in public opinion.

There were 288 people polled on the campus, Mr. Price said, which is almost ten per cent of the campus population. Sixty-one of those polled, 21.2 per cent, were "considerably bothered" by the strike, 99 of those polled, or 34.4 per cent, were "occasionally bothered," and 128, or 44.4 per cent were not bothered at all.

Among students polled the sophomores were bothered the least by the strike. There were 55.5 per cent of this class who were not affected. Among other classes the percentage of those not affected were: freshmen, 42.8 per cent; junior, 38.8 per cent; senior 39 per cent; and graduate, 38 per cent.

But the campus group which was bothered most by the strike was the administrative help of the University. Only 26.3 per cent of this hard-working group were not affected. Among the faculty 55.5 per cent were not affected.

On the breakdown between men and women, the men had the edge on not being dependent on the buses. There were 55.5 per cent of the men "not bothered at all by the strike while 45.5 of the women were not bothered.

'Good Night, Caroline' Set For Presentations Today

"Good Night, Caroline," a one-act comedy by Conrad Seiler, will be presented this afternoon at 4 and again this evening at 8 in the University theater, Johnson hall.

The first play in several years which has been produced solely by University students, the cast includes Estelle Shimshak as Caroline, the pampered wife; Richard Schuchard as Alfred, the husband; John MacDonald as the masked third-story man; and Carolyn Jenks as Selms, the maid.

Cay Shea, senior in drama, is acting as director of the play. Active in all phases of work in the University theater, Miss Shea has appeared in "Great God Brown," "Dark Victory," "Trojan Women," and portrayed the part of the murderess, Julie, in "Heaven Can Wait." She has also held the positions of assistant stage manager of "Skin of Our Teeth," stage manager of "Liliom," and assistant director in "School for Husbands."

Miss Shea is a member of Delta Gamma, and of the Theater Guild Advisory board. After graduation she intends to teach speech and dramatic art to high school classes.

"I find it a little different this time to be on the other side of the footlights," she said, concerning her position as director of "Good Night, Caroline." "I may have collected a few gray hairs during the process of being initiated into the life of a director, but working with such a splendid cast has really been fun and a memorable experience."

The play, which concerns a pampered wife who receives the loot of a burglar, is free to all University students.

Saturday Deadline Set For Graduation Orders

The present deadline for seniors who want to place orders for caps and gowns and announcements is 12 noon, Saturday, May 18, according to Mrs. Gerda Brown, executive assistant at the University Co-op store.

Mrs. Brown urged students not to wait until the last minute before placing their orders.

Four Scholarships Offered by Kwama

On the basis of need, scholarship and activities, Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, will present four scholarships; two to sophomore women, and two to freshmen women of this year. The scholarships are to be awarded at the Mortar Board ball, May 25, where Kwamas will also tap their new pledges.

Petition blanks for scholarships may be obtained at the dean of women's office and must be turned in to that office by Tuesday, May 21.

Kwama has raised the money for these awards through payment for service to the school in ushering and catering at campus events throughout the year.

"The amount of these scholarships," declared Ann Burgess, Kwama president, "will be announced at a later date."
