

Sophomores Pick James, Grasle For Class Presidential Nominees

By ROBERTA BROPHY

Clifton James, on the Independent ticket, and Reed Grasle, Greek candidate, were nominated for top positions for sophomore class officers, when the class of '49 met in Room 3, Fenton hall yesterday afternoon.

Jack Donald, who nominated Grasle, characterized him as "one of the outstanding freshman on the campus," mentioned his participation in varsity football, and the fact that he was student body president in high school.

Emphasis was placed on Clifton James' record of 42 months in the South Pacific as a combat infantryman. He is also active in the University drama department and was recently elected president of the Inter-Dorm council. He is also president of Sigma hall, according to Bob Elliott, who made the nomination.

Marge Weeks, Greek, and Colleen Mariott, Independent, were nominated for vice-president.

Miss Mariott was described as having "executive ability and initiative," by Eileen Riemer, who nominated her. She also enumerated her activities which include secretary of the freshman class, social chairman of Orides, and a member of WAA.

Marge Weeks was nominated by General Cowan. Miss Weeks was described as having the qualities of leadership necessary for a class officer. Her activities include reporter on the Emerald and a member of WAA.

In accepting the nomination for president, James said that he advocated more student representation on the Student Affairs committee and promised that if he were elected he would meet all situations to the best of his ability.

Grasle, in his acceptance speech, promised more sophomore social functions and the encouragement of students in campus activities. He promised a bigger and better Sophomore Wiskerino next year.

Miss Mariott remarked that the class had worked together successfully so far and she encouraged a continuance of this policy next year. She said a feeling of good will among the class members would be one of her prime objectives.

Miss Weeks told the students that she would back the policies of Grasle to the fullest extent, and also advocated the policy of increased responsibility for class officers.

Ed Allen, ASUO president received the nominations. Fred Goodspeed, class president, read the financial report. He also thanked the class for its cooperation during the Everyone should be there at least five minutes before his appointment, and cooperate fully with the staff, but most of all, make an appointment today, he urged.

Duck Pond Meets Friday at YWCA

The Duck Pond will again be held this Friday evening at the YWCA bungalow beginning at 8 p.m. and lasting until 11:30 under the sponsorship of the campus YWCA-YMCA organizations. This campus clothes dance is under the direction of Dedo Misley.

Entertainment, music and refreshments will be provided as all students are welcome.

Heading the ticket committee is Nancy Peterson. Other committees include: music, Mary Lou Youngquist, Bonnie Chappell; hostesses, Beryl Howard, Donna Malarkey, LaRene Thompson; posters, Carolyn Jenks.

Deadline Saturday For X-Ray Tests

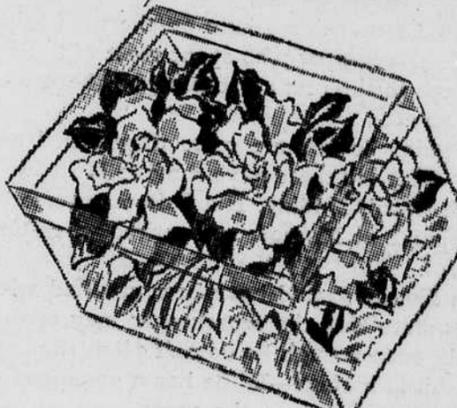

193 students and faculty have signed to date, to take advantage of the X-ray unit which will be here May 20 to 24, Dr. Fred Miller, physician, announced yesterday. There are still 2000 more to be signed if the X-ray drive is to be a success, he added. This is the first opportunity of its kind, and should be received by all students and faculty. Only one living organization has signed as a body, and today and Saturday are the last days to register. A person must have a definite time set this week before the X-ray can be taken.

The health service is signing the students and faculty for 15 minute intervals. This should prove to be the quickest method of running the pictures, and possibly break the record of 57 an hour, held at Forest Grove, Dr. Miller commented.
