

Registrations Close Today for X-Rays

Today is the last day to register for tuberculosis X-rays to be taken May 20 to 24, according to Dr. Fred Miller, director of the student health service.

Definite appointments must be made this week before the X-ray can be taken by the portable X-ray unit. The health service is signing the students and faculty for 15-minute intervals.

Germs Spread

According to information furnished by the Oregon State Board of Health and the Oregon Tuberculosis association, many people do not know they have the disease and unknowingly spread germs through common drinking glasses and towels.

Dr. Miller asks that everyone be ready for the X-rays at least five minutes before his appointment, and cooperate fully with the staff. But of primary importance is making the appointment immediately.

More Needed

By Thursday night only 193 students and faculty members had registered for appointments, and 2000 more should be signed to make the drive a success, Dr. Miller said.

DRIVE FOR FOOD

and by all means want names of contributors," said Miss Betty Walter of the YWCA. "The general type of thing that can be put into the boxes are sweets, candied fruits, canned goods, tea, coffee, sweaters and any kind of clothing not too bulky," she added.

According to Miss Walter, if any organization would prefer to contribute cash instead of articles of food and clothing, they will be gratefully accepted since the shipping costs are expected to be quite expensive.

Representatives on the committee from the French club are Anne Paulson, Bob Kyle, and Tom Kellis. Students from the One World club are Bill Webster, Herb Penny, and Abdul Mohsin. The YWCA members are Laura Olson and Betty Walter, co-chairmen of the public affairs committee.

Further information can be obtained from Lois Greenwood, executive director of the University's YWCA, at Extension 209.

Group Schedules Meets

Oregon's chapter of the Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship will be led next week in Bible studies by Herb Butt, regional director.

Mr. Butt will study First John on four consecutive nights from 7-8 p.m.

Meetings will be held Monday in Room 304, libe; Tuesday in the YMCA; Wednesday in the YWCA; and Thursday in YMCA.

The fellowship sponsors a weekly Bible breakfast in the small room off the dining hall in Straub hall from 7-8 a.m. each Thursday. The cost will be 25 cents.

Concert Scheduled For Music School

Sigurd Nilssen, professor of voice, will direct a program of operatic music in the music school auditorium on May 22, 23, and 24 beginning at 8 p.m. The program will feature vocal students and the chorus under the direction of Donald Allton, assistant professor of music.

The following students are scheduled to sing: Albert Dunn, Patricia Brown, Lucille Olson, Claire Lewis, Patricia Jordon, Lowell Chase, Iris Duva, Sue Welch Carlton, James McMullen, June Johnson, and Rose Zena Latta. There will be student accompanists for all numbers.

No admittance fee will be charged. Students and townspeople are invited.

Lynn Alexander, '42, Wins First In Exhibit

First place in a textile exhibition held at Wichita, Kansas, and $100 was awarded Lynn Alexander, veteran and post-graduate student at the University and currently assistant instructor to Miss Victoria Avakian, associate professor of applied design.

The prize-winning textile was handwoven and described by Alexander as being designed in a brilliant combination of crimson and white.

Mr. Alexander graduated from the University in 1942 as a major in arts and crafts.

Outing Club Plans Annual Coast Trip

The outing club will have its annual coast trip May 25-26, Lou Ann Morrison, president of the club, announced.

Transportation will be provided by the club and the group will leave the campus early Saturday morning and return Sunday morning. The women must furnish their own bedrolls.

All women interested in the trip are asked to sign their names and telephone numbers on the bulletin board in Gerlinger before Tuesday, May 21. These students will be contacted before Friday to be given further details about the trip.

BLOCH URGES

the desire to return to the coast to live. This, with the increased migration from the East, will cause an added labor force and by 1950 there must be an addition of 230,000 jobs available in Oregon and Washington, he declared.

According to Bloch the first step in the development of a desirable degree of regional independence is in the building up of those basic industries which provide the raw materials for manufacture. "Our huge supplies of low-cost hydro-electricity are making this a reality," he declared, "and these help us to overcome certain basic deficiencies such as fuel."

Light Metals Outlook Good

He said that since the war, after an amazingly short period of slump, the light metals industry definitely looks as though it were here to stay and to expand. Bloch said that the most significant development which has occurred since V-J day is that the aluminum industry is now on a competitive basis after having been, for the fifty years of existence, under the domination of a single company.

"Recreation is a field of development and promotion where an imaginative and fresh approach will furnish innumerable jobs," Bloch told his audience.

New Service Jobs

He said he could not say how many jobs would be furnished in the service industry category by the full development of our recreational facilities, but that he would venture to say they would far exceed those which exist today.

"This is a challenging field to the returned veteran and to the students of our universities and colleges," Bloch emphasized.

Bloch concluded by expressing his belief that the people of the West will not stand idly by and watch the assets of the country wasted. It will take a great deal of courage and initiative to develop the assets properly he said, but he is confident that the development can and will be achieved.
