Personal participation and on-the-scene observation at the different bomb projects well qualifies Dr. C. H. Secoy, assistant professor of chemistry, to speak authoritatively on timely atomics. Dr. Secoy will begin the lecture series "Man and the Atom" to be held at the college fireside in the Wheeler room of the First Congregational church, 490 Thirteenth street east, at 7 p.m. Sunday. All students are invited.

Atomics again, with a slant designed to hit home, will be the subject of discussion at the Wesley house Sunday evening forum from 7 to 8 p.m. Dr. Edna Landros, head of classical languages department, will lead the discussion that deals with "the college student and the atomic age." Mrs. Landros will also give a first-hand explanation of significant events at the Northwest Pacific College congress held at Reed college last month. All students are invited.

It is unfortunate that the Wesley house forum and the College fireside fall on a conflicting 7 p.m.

That Saturday afternoon hike is still on theocket over at Westminster house, 1414 Kincaid street. Bring your lunch, meet at the house at 4 p.m., and expect a good time, because, among other things, il fait beau.

"Western Ambassadors for Christ" will be the subject of the 11 o'clock Sunday morning service of the First Baptist church, 868 High street, by guest speaker William H. Wrighton, president of the Western Baptist Theological seminary of Portland. He will also address the University group at 6:30 p.m. on the subject "Spiritual Hygiene." Mr. Wrighton will again mount the pulpit for the 7:30 p.m. service when he asks in sermon "Are You a Normal Christian?"

Sunday-school for the University group, as you know, is conducted at the First Christian church, 1166 Oak street, by Dean Victor P. Morris, of the school of business administration. The time again—9:45 a.m. The 11 o'clock service, conducted by Hugh N. McCallum, will include the sermon "All Sufficiency of the Bible." Fourth in the Better Home Lecture series—"The Father"—will be presented by the Rev. Mr. McCallum at the 7:30 service. Town and Campus, University group, will meet as usual at 6:15 p.m. under the leadership of Miss Frances Van Voorhis, instructor in home economics.

Morning service, 11 o'clock, at the Congregational church, 490 Thirteenth street east, will consist of a sermon, "Two Views of Jesus," and a duet, "Consider the Lilies," sung by Elizabeth Howes and Jean Goodwin.

Cascade college of Portland will be represented at the Eugene Evangelical church, 834 Monroe street, by a girls' singing trio, who are expected to arrive in time for the 11 a.m. service.

"The Overcomers," University-group at the Lighthouse Temple, 1209 Olive street, recently elected a new president. Her name—Mildred Stillson. This group meets every Sunday evening and every student is invited. The 11 o'clock service in the Temple will be a baccalaureate for the Bible Standard Training school. Rev. Mr. R. F. De Weese, of Tacoma, Washington, will preach the baccalaureate sermon. The Rev. Mr. Hart Armstrong, of Des Moines, Iowa, will take the pulpit for the 7:30 p.m. service.

"Ethical Problems Facing America" is the title of the sermon by the Rev. Mr. L. O. Griffith at the Methodist church, 1185 Willamette street, 11 a.m. Sunday. On the same program, Doris Siegenthaler will sing "O Divine Redeemer."

St. Mary's Catholic church, located at 1062 Charnelton street, will hold regular Sunday masses at 6:45, 8, 9:15, and 10:30 a.m.

Pinchhitting for Dr. Quirinus Breen, who is out of town, Mrs. J. D. Bryant, Westminster hostess, will lead the before-church coffee and cake session that will be concerned with a discussion question, "Is the Golden Rule Practical?" The time—9:30 a.m. A. F. Whiting, assistant professor of anthropology, will speak at 6:30 at Westminster. His subject title—"Personality and Culture—Oriental and Occidental."
