

Duck Bachelors Flee As Coeds Lasso Men

By Gloria Smith

Stepping into the masculine boudoir this week one might find the conversation running something like, "Dearie-me, I certainly do hope she sends something for my hair, 'cause you know I simply can't wear flowers on this suit," or "I'll simply die if I don't have a date to the Mortar Board ball. After all, it's the biggest thing this spring and the Bachelor Catchers' ball is bound to be the best ever."

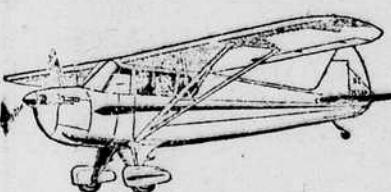

And coeds are reminded that every young man really expects those little courtesies which are his due, walking by the curb, checking wraps, sending flowers, and assisting him in stepping from the curb.

Overheard at a bridge game in the Side yesterday was one of the boys bubbling over with enthusiasm as he said, "The girls are simply outdoing themselves this year. They're having Ted Hallock's orchestra—and do you know I'm just mad about his music—oh yes, I'll bid one spade."

"And you've heard about the decorations—two hearts—they should be just luscious."

"Oh yes, Bob, it's going to be decorated on a sort of cosmetic theme—two spades—won't that be darling?"

"I certainly hope she gets the tickets before we get there because I just can't stand waiting around. I heard they're selling them at the girls living organizations this week for $1.20, so I hope she doesn't forget."

"Three hearts—Oh, I know just how you feel, I'll just die if I have to stand around in those shoes because they just about kill me. They don't bother me when I dance, though. Guess it's cause she's such a divine dancer."

"I hear they're tapping for Kwama during the intermission. I can hardly wait."

"Yes I heard dearie—by the way who are the chaperones?"

"Well one of the fellows told me this morning that they're having Chancellor and Mrs. Frederick M. Hunter, President and Mrs. Harry K. Newburn, Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Onthank, Miss Leona E. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wickham, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Pallett, Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Earl, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dahlberg, Mr. and Mrs. Glang, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Comish, Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hall.

"That sounds absolutely marvy—three spades—I certainly hope I have a date, I'll just die if I don't."

News Commentary On KOAC Today

The World in Review by Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, will be presented on station KOAC from 4 to 4:15 p.m. today.

The campus recital will feature Marion Saltness, violist, accompanied by Betty Bennett Cramer from 4:15 to 4:30 p.m. playing "Music for Mourning" by Hindemith, and "Concertstück in F" by Enesco. At 4:30 William Putnam, baritone, accompanied by Henry Howard, is singing "Closer Still With Thee" by Rolfe, "O God, Have Mercy (from St. Paul) by Mendelssohn, "Cherry Ripe" by Harm, "Trade Winds" by Keel, and "Give A Man A Horse He Can Ride" by O'Hara.

Shirley Peters is producing the preceding portion of the program. Ted Loud is producing the Neighborhood News from 4:45 to 5 p.m. Members of the senior editing class, Mary Margaret Ellsworth, Anita Young, Dorothy Godknecht, and Leonard Turnbull, are participating.

Nazi Propaganda Movies Scheduled

Films Show Technique Over Six-Year Period

Four German propaganda films are scheduled for the Wednesday night movie series by the Educational Activities board. They consist of a survey of the Nazi propaganda film techniques over a six-year period from 1934 to 1940, in the form of excerpts from several subjects.

The first feature entitled "The Triumph of the Will," is a brief version of the long, elaborate and impressive documentary film of the Nazi party's meeting and celebrations at Nuremberg in 1934, at which Hitler, Hess, Goebbels, Himmler, and other Nazi chiefs appear in prominent roles.

In the second picture, "Pilots, Gunners, Radio Operators," Goering introduces a short film about the Luftwaffe.

Prepared in English, the third film, "Baptism of Fire," is the German version of the Nazi account of the conquest of Poland. There have been other versions of this account which were shown as a warning to various European governments.

The last film consists of a series of newsreels, portraying an assortment of news items as issued under the control of the propaganda ministry. It includes scenes in conquered Paris and Hitler's triumphant return to Berlin.

Much of this footage originally collected by the film library has been used in United States government films recapitulating the events leading up to the war.

This program will be shown in 207 Chapman hall from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Wednesday evening. There will be two continuous showings. Students, faculty members, and townspeople are invited to attend.

HITS AND MISSES

are in character so seldom that the dialogue sounds like one long ad lib; Lamour and Hope can't sing, and Crosby won't; most of the gags are copied faithfully from the pages of Joe Miller's joke book.

Would someone please tell me how, with a setup like this one, a movie could be not just passable, but really funny? Maybe it's because the combination of a great crooner, a great comedian, and a great beauty can be original in spite of everything their script men do to stop them—if Hope gave Lamour his calculating once-over while she asked Crosby who the lady was she saw him with last night, one American institution would be paying its respects to another.

NW Writers Meet Set to Open June 1

June 1 has been set as the opening registration date for the second annual Pacific Northwest Writers' conference at the University of Washington, July 20 to August 9, according to Dr. Dudley D. Griffith, conference director.

All persons interested in the various phases of writing are eligible to attend the conference, which will feature more than 40 nationally-known authors, editors, critics, publishers, and producers.

Among the writers who will attend are E. G. Moll, professor of English and author of several books of poems; Richard Neuberger, former editor of the Emerald; and Stewart Holbrook, recent speaker at Theta Sigma Phi Matrix Table.
