

Feminine Corsage Creations Cause Catastrophic Conditions

By SALLIE TIMMENS

After struggling through the mob of females checking and unchecking coats, the roving reporter breathed once again and looked over the dance floor and the dancers.

The women on the campus obviously have an innate sense of humor and ingenuity after watching the heterogeneous collection of corsages and such donned by the campus swains for the Mortar Board Ball.

Despite the ceaseless drizzle SAE of red carnations. Also seen in a Jim Kolz looked charming in his Shriner-like chapeau, a white lamp shade trimmed with a red satin bow and matching streamers. Pinned on his lapel was a corsage of red carnations. Also seen in a bonnet was Sigma Chi Bud Rossum, squired by Chi Omega Audrey Berdine who decorated Bud's bonnet with a spray of flowers. There wasn't a cigarette shortage for DG's Jean Herndon and Joan Williams who gave their dates beautiful leis entwined with their favorite brands. ATO Barney Franks, on the arm of DG Barbara Johns, locked a little discouraged wearing his calla lily and baby onion lei, tied with a huge red bow. It seems that Barney is allergic to onions.

Phi Delt Tom Kay, escorted by Gamma Phi Joan Hibbs, and Ed Salstrom, with Gamma Phi Irene Moor, added a delicate spray of spring flowers to their coiffures. Upon careful examination SAE Al Paulson's corsage was distinguishable, if not distinguished. It consisted of a mouse trap, complete with mouse, a tooth brush, and other serviceable little trinkets from the imagination of Gamma Phi Phyllis Holdman.

Vegetable Nosegays

Fiji B. G. Cox and SAE Wayne Brown carried all-purpose nose-gays of carrots, radishes, and parsley against a paper lace background. When the lads got hungry they were seen on the dance floor munching at said corsages. Sigma Chi Bob Daggett added another Hawaiian touch by sporting a wrist and ankle bracelet of spring flowers.

The crew cut and halo effect of Kappa Sig Art Stilwell's flowered headdress looked strangely like something worn by so-called native Americans, and Art added to the impression by greeting friends with a significant "How!"

Each corsage was an individual creation of the female mind, and these are but a few of the many outstanding ones spotted. Some of the fellows wore theirs proudly while others ducked behind the nearest pillars to avoid recognition. Now the girls are well aware of the intricacies and expenses of campus dating and luckily, the gals add, the Mortar Board Ball comes but once a year.

The prizes are: Failing, $150; Beekman, $100; and Jewett, $50. Dahlberg is not certain as yet whether there will be a preliminary elimination.

"So long as we have wars, we can speak of the imperfection of man. The greatest boon that can come to mankind is for the people of the world to work together and strive for the elimination of war."
