Theater Winners To be Posted Soon

Names of the drama award winners for the 1945-46 season will be posted in the drama studio as soon as the judges have reached a decision, it was announced yesterday by the Theater Guild. The awards will be given to the best actress, the best actor, the best supporting actress or actor, and the student making the most valuable contribution to the Theater Guild activities during the year.

Professor's Painting In Seattle Exhibit

Currently showing at the Seattle art museum is a solo exhibition of non-objective paintings by Miss Maude I. Kerns, associate professor of art education in the school of architecture and allied arts. The show opened May 8, and will close June 2.

"Miss Kerns is one of the few non-objectivists in the region and the most widely recognized for this approach," according to the Seattle Museum News.

The Guggenheim Galleries in New York City loaned the paintings for this exhibit which has been circulated in eastern cities.

One of the paintings from the Seattle exhibition has been purchased by the Seattle art museum for its permanent collection.

Wesley House Schedules Final Sunday Program

The final Sunday evening program of Wesley house June 2 at 7:00 p.m. will include a resume of this year's activities and discussion of plans made for 1946 and 1947 by Wesley leaders.

Taking part in the worship service will be Eleanor Culver who will sing, "The Lord's Prayer" and Wilma Langfelt, guitar soloist. A lawn picnic and weiner roast around the outdoor fireplace will follow the program.

High school seniors who will be college freshmen next fall term, as well as all students who have attended Wesley activities during the past year have been invited as special guests.

Many Job Opportunities Listed for Juniors, Grads

Competition among college graduates seeking employment will be greater during 1947 than at any time since the beginning of the war, especially for women, Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel, emphasized in releasing a list of job openings this summer.

It would be wise for juniors who are graduating in 1947 to make contacts this summer in the fields of employment which they intend to enter, he said. With an eye to laying foundations for future permanent employment, the dean urged students to look for work this summer in their respective fields, even if these jobs seemed unimportant now, rather than to take short-term high-paying jobs.

Many firms are interested in employing juniors this summer who would be willing to spend a summer training for a particular job or gaining a general knowledge of some field of work. These summer student-employees would be released until they are graduated, and would then be rehired and easily find their place in the company's organization.

The following list of job openings has been made available by the personnel administration office and the University employment office:

Accounting; bookkeeping: Mountain States Power company, Albany; Columbia Steel company, San Francisco; Union Oil company, Eugene; American President lines, San Francisco.

Clerical; secretarial work: American President lines, San Francisco; Cooperative association, Monmouth, Oregon; Ed Averill (insurance), Portland; Koldkist Ice company, Portland; Mutual Broadcasting system, New York; National Broadcasting company, New York; Oregon State Motor association, Portland; Pacific Telephone and Telegraph, Portland; Pioneer Fuel company, Eugene; school superintendent, Albany; Boeing Aircraft, Seattle; Union Oil company, San Francisco; U. S. department of agriculture, forest service, Portland; Washington state farm bureau, Walla Walla.

Caseworkers and social work: Department of social welfare, Sacramento; Hazen foundation, Haddam, Connecticut; State Public Welfare commission, Portland;

Y.; expeditors; graduates to learn banking business; store managers; economics majors who wish to learn fruit and nut business; meteorologists by the weather bureau in Portland; stewardesses by Pan American Airways, Seattle; door to door investigators.

Any students wishing further information about the opportunities briefly outlined here should contact Dean Onthank or the University employment secretary at the YMCA.

Sunday Lecture to End Bomb Problem Series

Climax to the three-week discussion series on "Man and the Atom" held at the First Congregational church will come this Sunday night when Rev. Wesley G. Nicholson will give his ideas on the personal implications and the spiritual significance of the atom bomb.

"The revolutionary discovery of the atomic bomb makes necessary the rethinking of the entire field of theology and metaphysics," the Congregational minister believes. "Also it forces us to pose the questions: 'Are men good enough to be trusted with the bomb?' And 'Are our problems ultimately spiritual?'"

Reverend Nicholson's talk, which will begin at 7 p.m., and the discussion which will follow at 7:30, will be built upon previous discussions on the scientific and political implications of the bomb. The speakers for the meetings were Dr. C. H. Secoy, assistant professor of chemistry, and Dr. Eldon L. Johnson, head of the department of political science.
