

Life at Oregon Topic of First ASUO Meet

The implications of Oregon's largest student body and the fact that for the first time in its history the University has had to limit enrollment will give special significance Thursday night to talks by President Harry K. Newburn and ASUO President Tom Kay in the year's first assembly at 7:30 in McArthur court.

President Newburn will speak on the topic, "Why Are We Here?"

ASUO activities for the current year and the importance of the student's study program will be explained by Kay. He will also introduce Dr. Newburn, who will discuss the more informal aspects of the school year.

This week's assembly will be the first to be held at night under the new system necessitated by the scheduling of classes at the eleven o'clock hour, which was the customary time.

Card Club Formed

There will be a meeting for all persons interested in forming a campus bridge club Thursday at 2 p.m. in the upstairs meeting room at the College Side Inn.

and defense, which means substituting almost every four plays. In this way, he said, the unit on the field will expend more energy because they know they will be relieved soon.

Liks Weather and Job

Tom likes the weather in the northwest (wait 'til the rains begin) and plans to stay here at his present job until he has an opportunity to begin a coaching career.

Hughes refuses to stick his neck out to predict the outcome of the 1946 season on the Pacific Coast, but he has said that "Oregon will have a ball club that no one will be ashamed of." The Ducks are out to win, he said, and that takes in all the games—including the highly-touted Trojans, Bruins, Huskies, and Beavers.

Clure and Paul Smith will be out of competition this fall. Hammock recently broke his arm and will be out for most of the season; the 17-year-old ace runner McClure is expected to be drafted along with Smith, experienced cross country runner.

Men expected out or who have already signed up for the team are Hugh Stapleton, leading miler and two miler for Oregon in spring track; Johnny Joachims, former city mile champ from Portland and number two half-miler last spring for Oregon; Al Pietschman spring track runner, and Dick Shelton, spring track runner and field event man.
