

Newburn Talks At Westminster

Speaking on "What Is Wrong With the American University," Dr. Harry K. Newburn, president of the University, headed a forum Sunday at Westminster house. Students, guests, and members of the University attended.

After his introduction by Lloyd R. Gilson, forum leader, Dr. Newburn proceeded to enumerate the various departments of a modern university and compared them with older colleges. Dr. Newburn developed his subject by reminding the audience that many faults now exist as a result of an emergency and that officials of American universities hope to be rid of those faults in due time.

Dr. Newburn stated that he believes the returned veterans will, by their previous experience and present determination to learn the more important aspects of college life, condition universities to a higher level of education. By their ability to assert their aims, he said. These veterans can vitally affect changes in American higher education.

When asked how he felt toward the teachings of Dr. Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, in regard to higher education, Dr. Newburn asserted that he could not agree with some of the aspects of Hutchins's beliefs, particularly the policy adopted by Chicago in regard to competitive athletics.

President Newburn stated that sports are essential in development of students' character and ability to become better adjusted to society. He concluded that as a whole the physical education system in America is satisfactory.

In bringing the forum discussion to a close, Dr. Newburn stressed his belief that better education must be provided the student who is ready to enter universities, and referred to Oregon's higher educational requirements at the present in regard to out-of-state applicants for entrance.

Following the forum, Dr. Newburn discussed problems of higher education with students and others who wished to talk with him.

Photos Scheduled For UO Houses

Photo schedules were released Tuesday for the week October 7 to October 11 by Warren Miller, associate editor of the Oregonian in charge of houses. No pictures will be taken on October 12 because of the football game.

The schedule is as follows: Sigma Nu, Sigma Alpha Mu, October 7; Campbell club, Sigma hall, Thatcher cottage, October 8; Omega hall, Sherry Ross hall, October 9; Yeomen, Villard hall, October 10; Theta Chi, Highland house, Hilyard house, October 11.

There are approximately 250 commercial airports in the United States.

Monrovia, California is Marguerite's home, and she had her first experience as songleader there. Ac-ording to Marguerite, songleaders have more complicated jobs in California. Routines with pompons are included in their performances.

Art Major

The fourth member of the group, and the only leader with previous experience on an Oregon rally squad is Pattie Beaton, auburn-haired Kappa Alpha Theta.

Pattie likes the system of having boys lead the yells. "Last year the squad was so large that it was difficult to keep together. With the new system, all the attention will be on one person, and I think it will be more satisfactory," she stated.

The tallest of the group, five foot three and a half, Pattie's a major in art, with the emphasis on painting.

Youth Ah Youth

Really, the most amazing thing about football is that all of the players are so young. Why, not one boy on either team was wearing long pants yet.

The crowd was funny too. Every once in a while they'd all start yelling "Pigger" and raising a big fuss. I guess a pigger must be a baby pig, but I didn't see any. The upper classmen told me that all the livestock in Oregon were up at OSC anyway.

Futile Effort

Most of the players weren't very smart either. Several times one of those fellows would get the ball when he was only a little way from the goal post, but like a darned fool, he'd grab the things and run for the opposite one clear down at the other end of the pasture. I don't think that was very smart.

Those football players are pretty rough, and all the time someone gets hurt. I think that the winning team is the one that has the most players able to stand at the end of the game. That's what he announcer means by "third down and eight to go."

Well, right now I have to run down to the bridge to play Side—I think I understand that a little better.

dium boots? They have weather-proof felt soles and wooley insides for extra warmth. Some styles are worn with, others without, shoes.

Even though we're used to bandanas as we are to "comp" assignments, how about wearing hoods now and then for variety? Just think, you can slip them on and off easily and eliminate the knot that is always coming untied. You won't be out of style either, for hoods on coats, jackets, and even dresses are fashion news these days. Separate hoods to match clothes you have are easy to make too, if you're ambitious.

Whatever your style preference is, be sensible. As most of us realize (cough) it's very easy (cough, cough) to pick up a cold these days (haaachoo)! Remember, we don't have the most sun-sational weather in the world.
