

Civil Service Jobs Offered

Opportunities for civil service job seekers are now posted on the upstairs bulletin board in Commerce hall.

Top salaried positions in civil engineering available in Washington, D.C., have as requirements two to three years of appropriate experience or three to four years of college study.

Urgently needed are nurses for veterans administration hospitals. A job is offered in the Canal Zone for service in Government hospitals throughout the United States. Applicants must be graduates from a recognized school of nursing.

Also offered is a position as student dietician in the war department veterans administration. Requirements are thirty-six semester hours of appropriate college study. Written tests will be given on all examinations.

Women Elect Officers At Gerlinger for Term

Gerlinger hall, newly organized woman's dormitory, elected officers for the coming term Monday. Norma McKegan was elected president of the group. Other officers are: vice-president, Jean Ehlen; secretary, Joie Smith.

Language Department Adds Max McKinney

The Romance language department of the University has added Max McKinney to the faculty as an instructor in French and Spanish.

McKinney, before entering the service, taught languages at Roosevelt junior high and University high in Eugene.

New Office In Johnson

Creation was made Tuesday of a new general information office on the first floor of Johnson hall. Necessitated by the large increase in University enrollment, the office will handle all questions not pertaining specifically to registration. Registration information will continue to be handled from the second-floor office in Johnson hall. The new office is in charge of Miss Barbara Beals of Eugene.

Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, University housing secretary, who formerly occupied the office, has moved to Room 6, Friendly hall, which she will occupy jointly with Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration, also recently moved from Johnson hall, and Miss Dorothy Doering, in charge of the office of graduate placement service.

Baby Brownie and Speed Graflex enthusiasts alike are eligible to enter the 1947 Oregana photo contest, Roy Paul Nelson, Oregana editor, said Tuesday. Informality, interest, and utility will be considered in selecting winners of the $10, $7, and $5 cash awards he said. Skill in photography is not a requirement.

Oregana Art Editor Scotty Mindolovich has been added to the original list of judges which includes Marguerite Wittwer, Emerald editor, Nelson; and J. Warren Teter, University photographer.

Prints may be mailed or taken to the Oregana offices in McArthur court before the deadline, November 15. Negatives will not be necessary, but should be retained by the students. Photos which fail to receive the top prizes or honorable mention may be picked up after the contest.

Trial by Lau

Austin Fox was so busy watching for the approach of Gorgo that he never did catch another Duck. Penny Rabbit got the hiccups every time he even thought about Gorgo. Even Mr. and Mrs. Beaver began to think that there might be something to Teddy's tales, and because they couldn't work and worry too, they neglected the dam that was to have been the best ever, and it gradually decayed.

Gorgo was saddened by all of this and one day decided it would be best if he left the forest.

"He's gone! . . . He's gone!" Teddy shouted upon hearing the news. "I kicked him out . . . I did it! Make me chief!"

Harry Bear was greatly puzzled and hadn't quite figured out what had upset his normally peaceful kingdom, but, reluctantly, he told Teddy he could have the job if he could protect the inhabitants as Gorgo had done.

Teddy blanched and began to tremble. "But I'm so small," he wailed. "All I can do is beat the drums."

And the animals were at once suspicious and afraid of each other, and friend turned on friend, and soon the forest was silent except for the disgruntled thudding of Teddy's drums.

"I wonder, Dad," Junior said earnestly, "haven't I heard that story before?"

I stared out of the window for a long moment before answering. "I think we all have, son."
