

Trucking Strike Holds Up Books

Repercussions of New York's trucking strike, which paralyzed the state's truck transportation late in September, are being felt on the Oregon campus in the form of prolonged textbook shortages.

Book shipments scheduled to arrive at the University Co-op late last month have been held over in New York warehouses pending settlement of the transportation tie-up.

Because of urgent demand for dictionaries the Co-op saved several weeks' delay by ordering a shipment of Funk and Wagnall dictionaries direct from the bindery without waiting for them to be indexed.

General psychology texts have arrived at the Co-op in adequate quantity to handle the demand.

Shipments expected to arrive next week include texts in accounting by Noble, Shakespeare by Brook, Cunliffe and MacCracken, Economics by Gemmill and Blodgett, and Writer's Guide and Index for English by Perrinn.

It is estimated that the United States will export 400,000,000 bushels of grain and grain products of 1946.

Vet's Forum

The VA guidance center in Room 114 of the PE building announces to all veterans that any problems dealing with educational benefits should be brought to this office.

Many veterans are writing directly to the Portland office and the Portland office merely refers such correspondence to the guidance center on the campus. Veterans' folders are in Room 114 of the PE building and all such educational benefit business should be instigated there.

Veterans, 21 years of age, who wish to vote for state and county officials in November should register before 8 p.m. of Saturday, October 5, at the Lane county courthouse.

Official campus registration booths will be in the campus Co-op throughout Thursday, October 3, but official county deadline extends until October 5.

Old Oregon Out Monday

Copies of Old Oregon, the campus alumni monthly, will be distributed in all living organizations Monday, according to Harry Glickman, editor.

Extra copies may be obtained in the alumni offices at 8 Friendly hall.

Duck Debaters Set Travel Plans

Webfoot symposium teams planned this year's debating slate at the group's first meeting October 1, Dr. Robert D. Clark, associate professor of speech and drama, said Friday.

Of the fifty students who have turned out, Dr. Clark will choose the members of the actual traveling team, which takes part in discussions before service clubs, high schools, granges, women's clubs, fraternal societies, churches, and college groups all over Oregon.

Regularly enrolled students from either the freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior class are eligible to belong to symposium and will receive two credits winter term, when the group actually travel.

Although the topics for this year's discussions have not been selected a probable subject will be the state tax system and its connection with state supported schools and welfare institutions, Dr. Clark said.

The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday night, October 8 in Room 107, Friendly. At this time a regular meeting date will be decided upon.

Retail Advisory Board Adds Four Members

Four additional members of the advisory committee for the eighth annual convention of the Oregon Retail Distributor's Institute to be held on the campus spring term, have been chosen, Dr. N. H. Comish, secretary to the organization, announced yesterday.

New advisors are: Carl J. Born, Prarie City; Fred Chytraus, Ontario; Marvin Lucas, Klamath Falls; F. L. Taylor, Reedsport, and John Wetle, Bend.

Members have been selected throughout the state of Oregon for their ability and knowledge of retail work. All types of work will be considered.

Dr. Comish stated that the importance of the convention is to enable students to meet business men and become acquainted with current national and state problems.

Phone Extensions Listed for Dorms

Anyone interested in contacting students living in Veterans' Dormitory 1 can reach them at the following numbers:

Sections A, B, or C can be reached at Ext. 394; sections D, or E, at Ext. 396; sections AA, BB, or CC at Ext. 395; sections DD, or EE at Ext. 397.

House rules for these dorms are the same as in any other men's living organization. Any girl wanting to contact someone in these dorms is asked to telephone and not make personal calls to the dormitory.

Two Oregon Pictures Available for 50 Cents

Students intending to have individual pictures taken for house pages in the 1947 Oregon are reminded that the charge for two poses is 50 cents. Four may be taken for 75 cents if desired, Roy Paul Nelson, editor, said yesterday. Men's living organizations are now being scheduled at the Kennell-Ellis studios. Women's houses will follow. Arrangements will be made at a later date for photographing unaffiliated seniors and off-campus students belonging to honoraries.

Members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Chi who missed their Saturday appointments because of the Berkeley trip will be photographed Monday, October 7.

Komotine and Xanthe are the largest inland cities in western Thrace.
