Jayvees Await

The guards will be taken care of by Van Orden, Ferson, and McClay. Ferson was shifted from tackle and has looked good in his new position.

Glenn Wilson, Bill Hutchinson and Foster Thornton will have their share of action in the backfield. As yet Warren has found no competition for Thornton and the stocky quarterback seems to be holding his own in practice.

Warren hopes to field an experienced team by game time Saturday and admits he has no idea what he will be up against in the Orange Jayvees.

Grizzly Team

Kick Field Goals, Too
Against Cheney, after the Copper, Silver, and Gold had rung up a three-touchdown margin in the first period, the substitutes took over the duties and finished the job. Not only do the Grizzlies possess a dynamite running game; they have shown potential strength in the kicking department too, booting two field goals against A & M.

Key to Montana's success is a well-polished T-offensive, spear-headed by the clever ball-handling and accurate passing of Quarterback John Holding. Another standout in the visitor's backfield is Jack O'Loughlin, who handles a good share of the punting.

Up on the line, the Grizzlies are no pushover, either. Standout at end is lanky Dan Yovetich who packs 212 pounds around on a 6-4 frame. At the tackles, Joe Thiebes and Frank Briney shine, while Sam Leeper is highly regarded as a snapper-back.

Line Averages 201

First string line for the out-of-staters averages 201 pounds while the reserves are equally as bulky. Showing just how hot the Grizzlies are about the coming fracas with the Ducks, their local sports writers are going out on the limb and predicting a two-touchdown win for Montana.

Going into the contest, both teams will be gunning to maintain an unblemished season's record, and it will also afford the Montanans a chance to prove that they deserve a full Northern Division status, a recognition they have been trying to gain for the past years.
