

Class To Hear Labor Discussion

"What Management Expects of Labor" will be the subject of LeRoy Newland's address at a symposium tonight at 7:30, room 107 Friendly hall.

Relations between labor, management, government, and the public will be considered. Other topics for the symposium have been selected. Question phrasing will be delayed until student investigation has been made. Groups will discuss educational institutions of the state and conditions of finance.

Herman Kehrl, director of the Bureau of Municipal Research, spoke to the group Monday afternoon.

Belgian Chemist Joins Research Staff

Appointment of Paul Delahay, Belgian chemist, as research associate in chemistry has been announced by Dr. Pierre Van Rysselberghe, professor of chemistry. Expected to arrive on the campus about November 1, Delahay will do polarographic research as an assistant to Dr. Van Rysselberghe.

Delahay has been assistant professor of the University of Brussels for the last two years, and he has worked in the Belgian university as an assistant in analytical chemistry and general chemical and general chemistry.

again casting longing eyes towards the same girl who cut him short last spring. Chi Omega lovess you, Teddy.

Jean Merrifield and George Bell, KSig, were hitting it off together. About a week ago, however, Georgie's eyes ricocheted off the classy little chassis of Marguerite Reardon, Tri-Delt, who, being on the rally squad, was doing her best to get the men in the crowd to react. That PM our boy Bell scooted up to make a date with the little lassie only to find out he couldn't arrange it as scheduled. Now Jean Merrifield is out in the cold. May we suggest the browsing room with its supply of good books.

Big operators, Steve Mezzera and Ed Uglesich, are both working indirectly for the telephone company. Their job, self appointed, is to keep the operators happy entertaining them when they're off duty. The rendezvous spot is a little cafe across the street from the tel. company.
