This service will be broadcast over KUGN.

The purpose of "Religious Emphasis Week" is to present, in terms intelligible to college men and women, the relevance of Religious faith, both to personal life and to the great social issues of this age. It seeks to give a renewed emphasis upon education through a keener insight into the total mental and spiritual needs of students.

The University of Oregon is one of 17 colleges and universities throughout America to have a Religious Emphasis Week or University Christian Mission this fall. All local arrangements have been made by a student committee, assisted by faculty members. National preparations have been made through the University Christian Mission Committee which is sponsored jointly by the Department of Evangelism of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and the United Student Christian Council.
