STUDENTS HEARD BY SECURITY COUNCIL . . .

Northwest collegiate delegates to United Nations Security council were Lois McConkey Putnam and Troy Strong, shown above with Frank Coffin, public relations director, KGW, Portland.

Northwest Students Back From UN Meet

Putnam, Strong First to Represent Youth; Delegates to Air Report From Portland

Lois McConkey Putnam, University of Oregon, and Troy M. Strong, College of Puget Sound, have recently returned from New York, where the two Pacific northwest college students broke all precedents by being the first students to be granted formal hearings by American delegates to the United Nations security council.

Mrs. Putnam and Strong presented resolutions drawn by 62 delegates from 31 Northwest schools representing 47,000 students who met in the first Pacific Northwest College Congress, in Portland, April 5 and 6.

The petitions asked that procedures be worked out to insure a continuing expression of student opinion at United Nations in the future, and asked the American delegation to United Nations to present their requests in formal assembly meeting.

Lois McConkey Putnam, in her presentation statement, said, "Foreign students are often the promoters of demonstrations, revolts, and coups against governments. American youth does not propose such measures. We ask, however, the opportunity to participate in the planning of our future. Today's student will be tomorrow's statesman. Is it not wise to assist the younger generation in its efforts to learn by doing and thereby assure the nations of the greatest amount of knowledge and experience."

The representatives will report on United Nations in person at an open meeting arranged by the Portland League of Women voters at the Benson hotel at 12:30 p. m., November 13. KGW will broadcast the meeting.

Shaw's Play Closes Run

The last performance of "Pygmalion," George Bernard Shaw's play produced by the University Theater guild, will be enacted tonight at 8. A matinee will also be shown today at 2:30 p. m.

Marilyn Wherry as Eliza Doolittle is transformed into a lady by John Jensen, who plays Professor Higgins. Support is given by Don Moss in his role of Colonel Pickering. The play is all English minus crumpets and tea. Many of Shaw's own ideas and thoughts are expressed in the lines of the play.

Season tickets for University theater presentations have been on sale since the beginning of the term and today is the last day they can be purchased. Tickets will be on sale all day Saturday at the theater box office. Tickets are interchangeable and are priced at four dollars.

Season ticket holders can either use the tickets separately or use them all at the same performance.

The cast for tonight includes: Marilyn Wherry as Eliza Doolittle; John Jensen, Professor Higgins; Don Moss, Colonel Pickering; Bill Wood, Alfred Doolittle; Mary Nash, Mrs. Higgins; Zelda Popick, Mrs. Eynsford-Hill; Hazel Troilinger, Clara Eynsford-Hill; Norman Weekly, Freddie Eynsford-Hill; Jeanette Grant, Mrs. Pierce; Peggy Randall, parlor maid; Gordon Cochren, Alfred English, Fred Ehelebe, Bill Hilmer, Bill Minehart, and Marcia Leslie, bystanders.

Petitions for Class Post Due Monday

Monday is the deadline for qualified persons to petition for the post of sophomore class vice-president, Cliff James, sophomore class president, has announced. The position is open because the present officer has been declared ineligible, he said.

Petitions should be turned in to James at Sigma hall not later than 5 p. m. Monday. Any UO student of sophomore standing whose GPA is two point or above may apply. Those meeting these requirements and interested in the office can obtain petitions and eligibility slips from the dean of men's office.

BEST OF THE MET . . .

Miss Jarmila Novotna, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, to sing at McArthur court Monday at 8:15 p. m.

Czech Soprano Star Of Monday Concert

Eugene Music Group Sponsors Concert By Jarmila Novotna in McArthur Court

Scheduled to appear in McArthur court Monday at 8:15 p. m. is Miss Jarmila Novotna, soprano, who has been classified as one of the most popular romantic heroines of the Metropolitan Opera. This is Miss Novotna's seventh concert tour of the United States. Her appearance here is sponsored by the Eugene Civic Music association.

ASUO card holders and members of the ECMA are eligible to attend the concert, which is the first one scheduled this term.

Madame Novotna was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia. She was a protegee of Emmy Destinn, who guided her vocal training in Prague and later in Milan. After appearing in the smaller opera houses of Europe, she moved on to the Paris Grand opera, the Vienna State opera, La Scala in Milan, the Warsaw opera and was selected by Arturo Toscanini to sing at Salzburg for the festival, which is known internationally.

When war broke out in Europe in 1939, Toscanini asked the Metropolitan Opera company to import the Czech prima donna. She had already achieved a leading position in the opera in Europe. Miss Novotna made her debut in the United States in the role of Mimi in "La Boheme" on January 6, 1940 at the Met. At that time Olin Downes, music critic for the New York Times, wrote: "She is a young singing actress of radiant beauty and interpretative resource . . . not only a singer but also a musician and interpreter of true dramatic instinct." Since Downes' praise appeared, Miss Novotna has gone ahead to become one of the leading stars of the Met.

CHOW DOWN . . .

Chow lines now form at Hendricks hall which will ease the crowded eating accommodations existing on the campus. The new dining room opened Monday and is now serving 165 girls.

Miss Palmer Begins Food Managing Job

Miss Clara Palmer, new dormitory dietician, arrived on the campus Thursday and will assume her duties immediately, according to Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of dormitories. Miss Palmer will be food manager for all University dorm eating facilities, including the newly-opened Hendricks hall dining room.

Miss Palmer received her training at Iowa State college and later taught at that school. She has also been affiliated with Purdue university and, for the last three years, at Stanford university. Assisting Miss Palmer is Miss Joyce Gruel, who has been supervising the John Straub dining room since the beginning of this term.

'Friday Surprise' Goes Unobserved

Habitually-disheveled male journalism seniors gave Dean George Turnbull a surprise Friday. They wore red ties to set off their usual unkempt appearance.

But it was not radical tendencies that inspired the incident. They were proving a journalism point.

It has been standard operating procedure in Dean Turnbull's editing classes to discuss current topics of the day with special emphasis on the journalistic aspects thereof.

Topic for discussion Thursday was the speech at the United Nations by Warren Austin, U. S. delegation head, in reply to Vyacheslav Molotov's request for disarmament. But what seemed to primarily interest the potential newshounds was the fact that the story said that Austin was wearing a red tie.

Was this pertinent to the story? Did anyone care? The men wore their ties and found out. Dean Turnbull did not notice them until they were pointed out to him.
