By MARYLU DIAMOND and NANCY BEDINGFIELD

Before we launch forth upon this first edition of our column, we should like to clarify its purpose. It is not our intent to comment on the discrepancies of campus social life, but merely to bring to you a summary of the piggers' activities each month.

Miss Carroll Named Social Chairman

Because Coed Capers, the biggest activity of the Associated Women Students, will no longer be held, reorganization of activities and setting plans for coming years will occupy top position with AWS this year. Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, as its year's project will work with the AWS council in fulfilling its plans.

First official action this year was the selection of Beverly Carroll, senior in liberal arts, as campus social chairman. She will give the final word concerning what to wear at campus functions.

Adhering to the purpose of the organization, which is "to foster the best interests of the women on the campus," a six-girl committee sponsored by AWS this year will take charge of keeping activity-record files for all coeds. This has previously been done by the dean of women's office.

In accord with its reorganization plans, AWS is contacting similar groups on other campuses to learn their plans and activities. The University is a member of the Intercollegiate Associated Women Students, whose purpose is to exchange ideas with member colleges.

Officers of AWS are Bea King, president; Dorothy Davis, vice-president; Barbara Johns, secretary; Margaret Metcalf, treasurer; Trudi Chernic, reporter; and Prudy McCroskey, sergeant-at-arms.

The AWS council is composed of the cabinet members; Mrs. Golda Wickham, dean of women; the campus social chairman; and presidents of leading campus women's groups.

Fads'n'Fashions

By MARY HIBBITT
and JACKIE WACHHORST
House dances were tops in the social whirl last weekend. The round-robin custom of seeing them all proved intensely interesting for most couples. The Asiatic influence prevailed with the Alpha Xi Deltas who wore Chinese costumes and presented their dates with small black skull caps with a braid down the back.

The Alpha Chis and the Delta Zetas also looked to the Orient for their themes. Seen dancing was Ann Pekramen in a swishy black taffeta formal which featured a cerise ribbon extending over the shoulder and caught in back with a large flower. Attractive Virginia Jones wore a striking white crepe dinner dress accentuated by a white wool jacket having the new bell sleeves and bright sequin neckline.

Thetas Young

The Thetas waxed poetic with "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" as their theme. Short silks were in order, and petite Joan Irwin dazzled the crowd in black crepe fashioned with a square neck and low square back inset with flesh-colored net. Cutting a sophisticated figure was Carolyn Tyler in jet crepe. An oval neckline and tiny puffed sleeves trimmed with ermine-like feathers enhanced its design.

It was "Coffee Time" at the Chi O house, and brunette Meredith Stearns wearing a stunning black dress with the new uneven hemline and a bustle in the back caught our eye. Color to brighten the occasion was supplied by Jill Archer who wore black traced with small pink and aqua print. Highlight of the dress was an exaggerated peplum.

Golden Slipper

The DG house turned into a golden slipper Saturday night. Outstanding among the dancers was Mildred Chetty in a breath-taking black strapless formal. Made of faille, it had full paniers topping an otherwise straight skirt. A white lace bodice woven with silver thread worn over a straight black velvet skirt was the choice of Mary Lee Booth. Cap sleeves and a wide square neck accented the glittering blouse.

Next weekend promises to be just as exciting as the last, and all of the coeds will be dressed in their best for the game; so see you in Portland.

The Gad-a-bout

By PAT KING

Portland is siphoning University social life this weekend and leaving the cold, silent campus to the squirrels and bookworms. The dances, luncheons, and parties scheduled before and after the game will probably set Portland on its ear when the jubilant college characters descend into its social whirl.

Tonight's exchanges will be the biggest piece of socializing for the campus this week: Delta Zeta-Delta Tau Delta; Pi Beta Phi-Sigma Nu; Tri Delt-Phi Gamma Delta; Kappa Kappa Gamma-Chi Psi; Kappa Alpha Theta-Phi Kappa Psi; Alpha Chi Omega-Sigma Chi; Alpha Omicron Pi-Pi Kappa Alpha.

Delta Gamma-Kappa Sigma; Orides-Campbell club; Alpha Phi-Theta Chi; Sigma Kappa-Yeomen; Alpha hall-Sigma Alpha Mu; Gamma Phi Beta-Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Alpha Gamma Delta-Delta Upsilon.

Alpha Delta Pi-Vets D & DD; Hendricks hall-Vets C & CC; Susan Campbell-Sigma hall; University house-Sherry Ross.

Sigma Phi Epsilon and Phi Delta.

They Like the Work . . .

Housemothers Find Jobs Entertaining and Enjoyable

By BETH BASLER

Housemothers are very charming and sympathetic people, judging by three representative ladies who act as mothers away from home for three groups of girls on the campus; Mrs. Edna M. Stokes, Hendricks hall, Mrs. Marcia Gowne, Delta Zeta; and Mrs. Dora Smith, Highland house.

Because she enjoys young people, Mrs. Stokes, stately and with graying hair, is now spending her third year as housemother at the University of Oregon. She was at Gamma hall and Gerlinger, each for a year, and this year she is responsible for the 185 girls living in Hendricks hall. Although this is a large number, Mrs. Stokes said, "We get along beautifully." She said that the girls were not too crowded, even rooming five in a room, but admitted that she was glad she did not have to plan the meals, with current prices and food shortages.

Mrs. Stokes especially mentioned the wonderful school spirit among the girls this year. As evidence she told of the fourth unit coming to dinner after the Ducks took their beating from USC with long faces and mourning bands around their arms. "Noise does not bother me," she said, "for it is to be expected with so many girls living together."

Theta hold preference dessert tonight.

Tomorrow night the All Co-op exchange dinner will be held.

She Cooks, Too

Busy cooking dinner for the fifty Delta Zetas was their energetic and attractive housemother, Mrs. Marcia Gowne. Yes, their cook left them two weeks ago "to be alone," for she just couldn't stand the excitement, and Mrs. Gowne, who had never before cooked for a large group, took over the job.

She's Having Fun

As she popped the meat loaf in the oven, and stirred cheese into some white-sauce, Mrs. Gowne explained that this is her first year as a housemother, but that she is surely having fun. She even says that she got some pleasure out of helping when the workmen were still busy painting and moving furniture, and the girls were trying to get settled in the new house. "I am so interested in giving the girls the benefit of my experience as a homemaker and mother to help them."
