Beds for the Eds

The advent of the annual high school press conference presents a housing problem of no small magnitude. Scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Dec. 6 and 7, the conference is expected to summon approximately 150 prep school editors to the University—all of whom must be roofed and bedded within the confines of the campus.

With the housing situation what it is, the problem of providing for conference attendees lies with the living organizations. Since the dormitory accommodations are already stretched to the breaking point, fraternities, sororities and cooperative organizations are requested to delegate extra beds to the visiting editors. Members of Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honoraries, working with Bud Jermain, chairman of the arrangements committee for the conference, will undertake the task of securing this delegation.

The objective is five conference guests to each house, for which the organization will receive $1.50 per person, since breakfasts, as well as beds, must be provided for the delegates.

The high school editors, on the whole will be looking the University face to face for the first time—and will draw conclusions as a result. Co-operation of the living organizations in providing housing will contribute to the success of their impression, as well as to the consummation of an efficiently organized press conference.

The Coffee Song

Here it is again—the coffee song, only this hasn't much relation to the amount of java in Brazil. It seems there is a rumor prevalent on the campus that one of the local restaurants has asked other campus eating places to standardize their prices, particularly on coffee, and their policy toward employees. It's the old question of five-cent coffee or ten-cent coffee, with or without the "free" doughnut.

The Emerald's rumor squad chased down the managers of several of the smaller cafes patronized by students. All of these men gave the same answers:

We have not been contacted by any other restaurant owners concerning our prices or our policy toward employees.

If we are contacted, we will continue to run our business as we see fit; we set our own prices and standards.

In effect their attitude is, "No one (except the OPA) can tell us how to run our business."

Well, that's great; Speaking for the students who kick in the nickels and dimes for coffee every day, the Emerald hopes these cafes will continue their policy. We believe that a standardization of prices on food in campus restaurants would be detrimental to business for the smaller cafes, would definitely hurt the average collegian's budget (especially the $65 per month veterans), and would help only the large long-established restaurants.

.... It was only a rumor, anyway.

Idleness is only the refuge of weak minds, and the holiday of fools.—Lord Chesterfield.

Disagreement causes thought; thinking always enlarges our living.

Sophomore Success

Congratulations to the sophomores for their very nice Whiskerino last weekend. It was one of the most danceable evenings we've spent in the Igloo.

The music was much better than anticipated. Many seemed to like the Top Hatters better than Jackson Teagarden's outfit.

Whoever planned the decorations deserves the biggest hand from the audience. They were in perfect accord with the spirit of the Whiskerino.

Even the corn from Lower Slobbovia fitted in well with the general mood... what with the barber shop scene in one corner. The Donahue bandmen, standing on the fringe of the crowd with cokes in their hands found the entertainment as amusing as the intermission audience.

The sophs, we understand, did not rake in a large pile of jack; in fact they broke even with a little left over, the estimates indicate. It was a close shave but, certainly, that should not cause any gray hairs. Campus dances are not supposed to be tremendous profitable schemes. They are arranged for fun. If the Court was not jam-packed last Saturday night, that only meant that dancing was easier and less tedious.

The other classes, planning their own hops, could take a lesson from the Class of '49.

the laundry by larry lau

With rain falling by the buckets-full and my old chin freshly shaven, the situation appears to be pretty well back to normal. The social eddy continues to sweep the thrilled ones in and the disillusioned out. One of the big questions is, how fast a pace can this Oregon campus set?

Theta's blithe Miki Metcalf, sounding happy as a new bride, told us of being pinned by Ph Delt Dave Edwards. Sigma Kappa's stately Margaret Ambler and Phi Psi's erudite Jerry O'Callaghan, both graduate assistants, have been running around of late, happy as a couple of wide-eyed frosh. Rumor has it that despite their Sat eve date, ardent Chi Psi Ellery Riem is still in Phi Carolyn Strong's "ho-hum" dept. G-Phi's fascinating Treva Jane Torsen seems to have found a new way of holding a man. Besides being her sweet li'l self for K-Sig Bill Behrens, she irons his shirts. Something new in late fall piggin' are the evening picnics DG Natalie Cartier and DU Al Cellers have been going on.

The boner-of-the-week prize goes to Chi O's effervescent Kay Schneider who got rattled the other night and introduced Dean Small as Dean Little. Kieth McGilivray, host to a pre-stomp party, being given much moral support from the 'Bacallish' Toni Johns. For-Shame Dept.: Beta Bill Yates, who had a bit too much the other p.m., and gave Dottie Wightman a bad time. Alpha Chi's Billie Jean Riethmiller and ATO pledge Gay Baldwin seeing much of each other lately (which may explain why he broke his dates with Marty Lou Coffey). Chic little Pi Phi Helen Hicks is off the eligible list as of this weekend. Disappointed toffs can blame Bob Mitchell and his ATO pin.

Since Jimmy George and Marilyn Anderson make such a smooth couple on the dance floor, we're wondering why the broken rhythm when the music stops? "Gentleman John" Noble escorting the charming Alva Granquist, Phi Beta key and all, from one pre-dance party to another. Patty Beaton, back on the campus only fifteen minutes, was the recipient of half a dozen phone calls from as many swains. Blonde love Jean Peterson, coupled with Bob Holly Sat eve, on the receiving end of a few excited whistles. DZ Fran Budo, impressing OSC Rook fullback Clyde De Witt no end (cowtown was never like this).

The Pi Kap's Sat eve party was a huge success. The fried Duck was delicious and the baby-sitter from N.C.C. hilarious. Audrey Burdine is in that can't-sleep, can't-eat stage, just thinking about her Xmas trip to Cleveland and Oregon DU alum Bud Rossum. Alluring Jane Carson and John Halbert, who've been seeing a lot of each other, both stayed at home Sat eve (the fact that Jane's OSC blind date didn't show up might have had something to do with it). Just how many guys are knocking themselves out in the race for Janis Petersen's affections? Sigma Chi Perry Holloman, Vic Smith and some 'dream prince' in Portland seem to be the top trio. Phi Psi pledge Frank Brown and KAT Gloria Aguer, a not so new-some twosome. Latest fad in the Kappa house is a ouija board; maybe the 'thing' will foretell Cyn Griffen's fate with Has Haight. In the pride goeth before the fall dept.: we have D. B. Groneman and Jim Enyder. Jeane Jones, Alla Loomis, Elaine Taylor, Ann Bartlet and Pat Hanley all scampered north to Seattle for the game and the Sigma Nu house dance afterwards (hear tell it was a whingding affair). Bob Don and Phyl Potter, temporarily split over a minor tiff. The weekend proved fatal for Dewey Wilson; Tri-Delt Janet Kiek got his pin. Evidently UO doesn't show Carol Dellzell too much; just for laughs, she flew to San Francisco for the weekend, taking the OSC-Cal game in on the side.

Eyebrow lifter of the week: Ed Canduro coming out of social hiding with the very dazzling Nan Humphreys in tow. Delt pledge Bob Lewis nearly did flips when his date, Bev Diechler, was named Betty Coed. Petite Mary Lou Anderson got her share of the hardware this weekend when she nabbed Gordon Jones DU sparkler. Augie Johnson has ordered a sweetheart pin, given himself until Xmas to plant it (after Xmas it goes to mother). Touching scene No. 17; Jane Corklen and Jack Burnett, holding hands while walking the quad. Alum Bette Jane Ronning, still pinned to Jim Thoburn flits down from the Rose City almost every weekend to keep the kid from getting too lonely. Jim Curly, forced to hum an idle air at a DG Sunday dinner while date Joan Williams answered a mid-meal phone call (from her sister... she said). Dede de Pichon and Jim McClintock, spending all their spare moments together. Burly footballer Don Stanton has presented his pin to the exciting Polly Chafe, Paul Morris, the Reedsport flash, overheard saying that Pat Mauney was just his type. Sparkling Joan Campbell, seen at one of Seattle's newer niteries with Huskie Jerry Steel. The Odd Dept.: Bev Carrol and Fiji John Helmer taking late evening bicycle rides, wearing weird hats and not giving a hoot. Phyl Annala and Jackie Findlater seem to giving SAE's Jerry Bell and Bob Lenneville a hard time (better play your hands a bit more cautiously fellas or the whole deal may be finessed).

You've had it for this time, people. Feel free to drop over to the White Palace on 11th anytime you have an item (check your guns, blackjacks and brass knucks at the door, puleeze!).
