

Foreign Scholars Said Overburdened

European students are being overburdened with classics and are not receiving enough technical instruction during intermediate education; consequently, the students are not receiving a well-rounded training. This was the statement of Paul Delahay, Belgian chemist, upon his arrival on the University of Oregon campus from Brussels.

Expecting to spend a year in the United States doing research in physical chemistry in the University, Delahay will assist Dr. Pierre Van Rysselberghe, professor of chemistry, in polarographic research.

Because most foreign schools were closed during the war, Delahay said, there are now twice as many students enrolled in continental universities as there were before the war. He predicted, however, that this rush for education would not last more than five years. Lack of materials and books, and shortages of other items essential to educational activities, are severely handicapping European education, particularly in the scientific field.

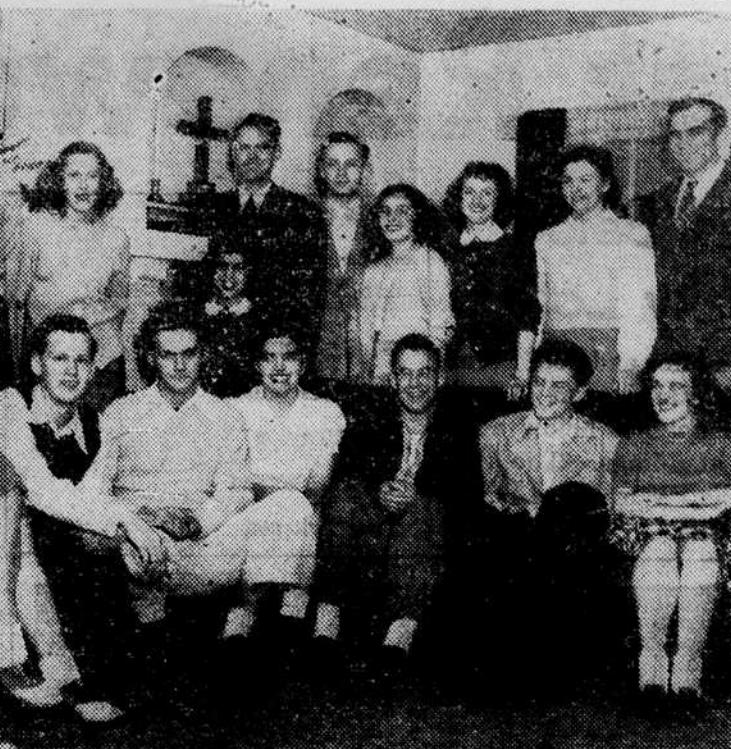

Communities Topic At Tonight's Panel

Tonight during the round-table discussion at Westminster house, from 9 to 10 p.m., various students will present material on what has been done in community organization throughout the world, which has been the topic of discussion for several weeks.

Ellen Sutherland is in charge of the discussion and will be assisted by Ruth Porter, who will tell of the Lane county planning commission. Betty Pelatner will speak about the part granges play in the community; Tom Hazzard, Westminster house president, will give views on the University as a community; and Norman Dizele will tell of other school-organized student communities. Miss Sutherland will explain to the group the Peckham experiment in London.

All students are invited to attend and take part in the discussion.

Dr. Morris Wee, pastor and executive, will be at the United Luther-

Students Needed For Emerald Poll

Fifty students are needed to poll the campus in conjunction with the Emerald's survey to determine exactly what Oregon students expect of their campus newspaper. Volunteers may sign up with the Emerald editor or the business manager in their respective offices in the journalism building.

The survey is being conducted by a seminar in public opinion under the direction of Warren C. Price.

Faculty members, University employees, and 600 students chosen from the Piggery's Guide will be polled. Questions asked include the type of content preferred, general news, editorial, sports, features, signed columns, whether national and international news should be covered in the Emerald, and if the Emerald is read daily.

Lutheran Pastor to Air Views on Theology

Dr. Morris Wee, pastor and executive, will be at the United Lutheran church, Thirteenth and High streets, this evening at 6:30 to meet and speak to the Lutheran students on the campus. With Dr. Wee will be Rev. Al Dillimuth, student pastor at Washington State college, and Rev. Carl Samuelson, student pastor at Oregon State college.

Dr. Wee is executive secretary of the Lutheran Student Service commission of the National Lutheran council. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and received his doctor's degree from that university. He is now making a tour of the country in the interests of Lutheran student work on the campuses.

Melchior Concert

(Continued from page one) on many radio programs. On the Fred Allen program, he first demonstrated his ability to step out of his dignified role as the Metropolitan opera's irreplaceable helden tenor.

One strange coincidence is noted in Melchior's life. He is known as "the great Dane" and his favorite dog is the Great Dane.
