

Press Confab Program Set

The Oregon high school press conference will begin Friday, December 6 with a general assembly of the delegates as outlined by the program released by Warren C. Price, program chairman for the affair.

On the morning schedule will be an address of welcome by E. M. Pallett, assistant to the University president. R. D. Clark, assistant professor of speech and dramatic arts; Jack Billings, managing editor of the Emerald; and Paul Deutschmann, city editor of the Register-Guard are among the speakers on the two-hour morning schedule.

Friday afternoon forums will take up high school newspaper editorials, advertising, and the high school mimeographed paper.

Election of officers for next year's conference will take place later in the afternoon with results to be announced by Dean George S. Turnbull at the conference banquet at the Osburn hotel.

The Friday evening banquet will include entertainment by Marvin Krenk, magician, and an address by William M. Tugman, managing editor of the Register-Guard. Sigma Delta Chi, men's national professional journalism fraternity, will hold a formal initiation during the banquet.

Saturday morning forums take up printing, editing the school paper, writing techniques, and sports. The conference will close Saturday morning with a general meeting with Dean George Turnbull, and the new conference president presiding.

Brown YMCA Speaker

Norman Brown will be the principal speaker, talking on "What Should I Believe About God," Monday evening at the next meeting of the UO fellowship at the University YMCA from 7 to 8 p.m.

Metropolitan Opera Star

(Continued from page one) flying conditions, his chartered plane was grounded in Oakland, California, Monday morning. November 19 the Metropolitan opera star was able to fly to Portland where he appeared at the Civic auditorium that night—minus orchestra. However, the orchestra is to appear in the Igloo Sunday afternoon.

The Eugene Civic Music association is sponsoring the concert which is open to members of the ASUO and the ECMA. Melchior is the second star to appear in Mac court this term. Helen Traubel and he have been the Met's Wagnerian first team since 1941.

Phi Theta Upsilon and Kwama, junior and sophomore women honoraries will usher at the concert. Members of the two organizations are asked to be at McArthur court by 1:45 p.m. Sunday.

Emerald Advisory Committee Named

Members of the recently named "Senior Six" of Phi Beta Kappa and the editors of Old Oregon and the Oregana were appointed Thursday by Emerald Editor Marguerite W. Wright to form the new student advisory committee for the Emerald. This committee will replace the editorial board which resigned last week.

Roy Paul Nelson, senior in journalism and Oregana editor, and Harry Glickman, junior in journalism and Old Oregon editor, will represent the viewpoints of students at large and advise the editor of the Emerald journalistically. The Phi Betes were appointed because "their viewpoint is more likely to be disinterested and detached than that of students active in campus political affairs, and they are less likely to be influenced by pressure groups."

The members of "Senior Six" are Leola Deffenbacher, major in English; Margaret Thompson, major in Romance languages; William Baird, major in history; Walter Gilbert, major in mathematics; Ninon King, major in psychology; and Doris Spearow, major in English.

The new committee, first of its kind in the history of the Emerald, will meet regularly with members of the upper news and editorial staffs to discuss problems of the campus newspaper.
