

Over 1200 Complete Registering

Deadline Given As December 21

Registrar C. E. Avery estimated Thursday afternoon that approximately 1200 students had completed registration in the University's new advance-registration system being used for the first time this term.

Students who have not completed registration, have until December 21 to do so, Avery said, but it is requested that as many as possible should make an effort to finish by December 16. New students and old students returning next term, who have notified the registrar's office of an intention to return, will register from December 16 to 21.

Classes for students who have completed registration will begin January 3. On January 2 a special one-day registration will be held for any persons not registered during the advance registration.

For students who have completed registration except for payment of fees, Avery announced that fees must be paid by January 2, or a late-registration fee will be charged.

In answer to the question of how large an enrollment was anticipated next term, Avery said that he "expected no increase in net enrollment over that of fall term, which was between 5500 and 5700 students."

Dinner Concludes Educational Meet

The first postwar convention of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools will draw to an end with the dinner meeting of the executive committee scheduled for 6:30 p.m. today. Business meetings and the election of officers will be held this afternoon in the Eugene hotel assembly room, Dr. P. F. Gaiser, presiding.

Wednesday and Thursday meetings of the convention were devoted to lectures and discussions on the problems of school administration and supervision, and teaching standards.

Problems Discussed

The problem of teacher education and certification was discussed by Dr. Worth McClure at the Wednesday morning session. His talk was followed by a symposium of state superintendents or state department assistants representing all states of the northwest area.

Also on the agenda Wednesday were addresses by Dr. Harry K. Newburn, "Problems of College Administration"; Dr. Paul E. Ellicker, who spoke on "The Terminal Function of Secondary Education"; and Dr. Raymond P. Allen, president of the University of Washington, who addressed delegates at the Wednesday banquet meeting.

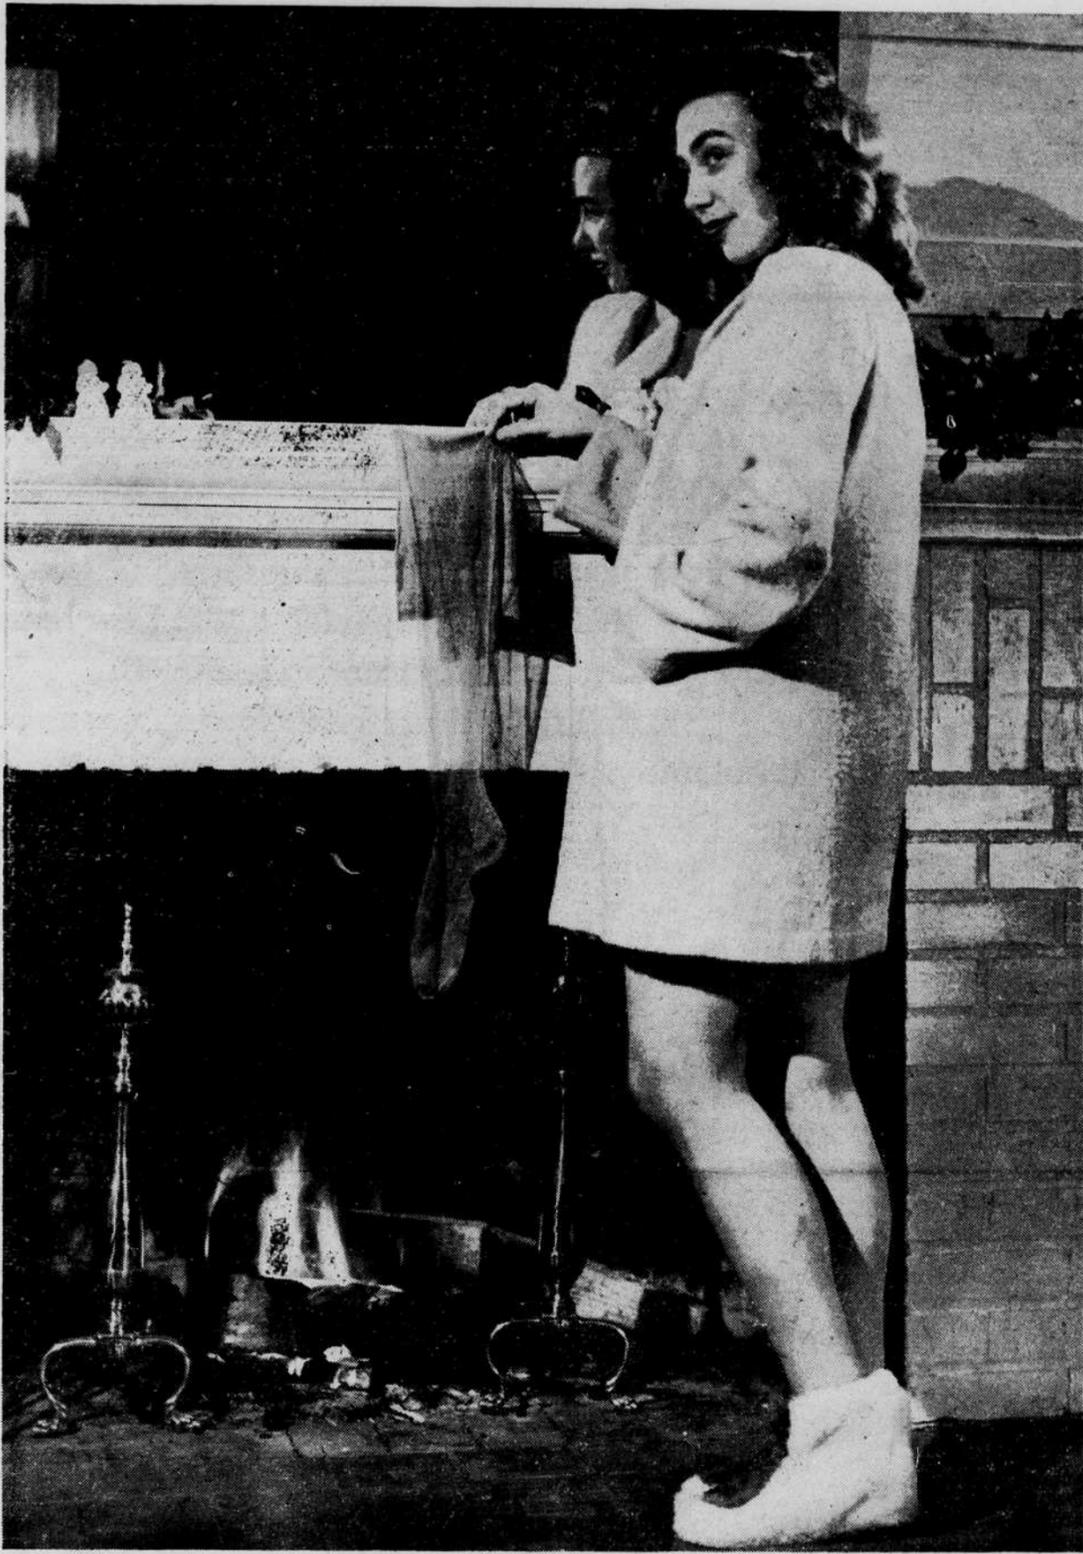

"Problems of the Next Decade in
(Please turn to page seven)

Kipnis Even 'Dreams' Opera

By LAURA OLSON

Alexander Kipnis, Metropolitan bass-baritone, has one dream which he would like to see become a reality in the United States. "I would like to see the time when each city in this country with a population of over 500,000 has an opera company of its own," he declared, when interviewed at the Osborn hotel Thursday afternoon prior to his evening appearance at McArthur court.

Kipnis pointed out that the Metropolitan Opera company serves only the East coast, and that people in the West and Midwest seldom have an opportunity to see and hear opera. "I realize," he continued, "that the opera company would have
(Please turn to page seven)

SHE'LL GET A FULL STOCKING . . . Helen Deardorff, petite Delta Zeta lovely, does her Christmas stocking-hanging early. Old St. Nick will never pass this chimney by.
—EMERALD photo by Don Jones.

High School News Meet Opens Today

Young Writers Cover Campus

To date, 145 delegates with 25 advisers from 72 schools have registered for the Oregon High School Newspaper conference to be held here Friday and Saturday. Leonard L. Jermain, chairman of the arrangements committee expects other schools to sign up for the two-day session by today.

The conference sessions begin today with a general assembly of delegates with President Dale Horton, Oregon freshman in journalism, presiding. Forums and addresses will be held in the journalism building and the University high school auditorium.

Pallett Welcomes

High school journalists will be welcomed by Earl M. Pallett, assistant to President Harry K. Newburn and on behalf of the school of journalism by Dean George S. Turnbull. Welcoming addresses will be given by Dr. Robert D. Clark, assistant professor of speech and drama, on "Freedom of the Press," and Jack Billings, managing editor of the Emerald, on "One Level Higher—Running a College Paper." Paul Deutschman, city editor of the Register-Guard is also on the morning schedule with a talk on "High School News in a City Paper."

Forums begin Friday afternoon. Two editorial forums are slated, one on "Problems of Reporting—Accuracy, Etc.," will be made by Warren C. Price, associate professor of journalism. Ted Goodwin will preside. Leonard L. Jermain, instructor in journalism will conduct a forum on "The Reader Looks at the Paper" with Byron Mayo presiding.

One business forum and a mimeograph forum are also scheduled for Friday afternoon with Carl C. Webb, manager of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers association handling a session on "How to Sell Ads," George Pegg, Emerald business manager, presiding.

The mimeograph discussion will be made by W. J. Mischler, of the Eugene Mimeograph Service and Professor R. D. Millican, Barbara Twiford presides over the forum.

Friday's session will be topped by a 6:30 banquet at the Osburn
(Please turn to page seven)

Music Honoraries Give Yule Program

A program of Christmas music will be presented in the music school auditorium Sunday, December 8, at 4 p.m. This program is being given under the auspices of Mu Phi Alpha and Phi Mu Epsilon, national music honoraries.

One of the outstanding numbers will be "Snowshine at Bethlehem" by Milton Dietrich, professor of theory in the music school. It will be sung by a chorus of mixed voices.

'Dark of the Moon' Receives Approval From Audience at Premiere Performance

By JOAN LOHEAD and LARRY LAU

When the curtain dropped on the final scene of the premiere performance of "Dark of the Moon" Wednesday night, a capacity audience clapped its approval with one curtain call after another for the cast, whose initial performance went off as smoothly as if it had been on the road for months.

Superb, mood-creating lighting effects and striking stage settings combined to carry the audience into the heart of the scene before the action started. Don Shirley's portrayal of John, the wolfboy, earned him the hearty commendation of the audience.

Following close behind, 17-year-old, vivacious Bari Hodes, turned in an excellent performance as the feminine lead, Barbara Allen. Supporting players whose performances rate applause were Anne McGeorge, as the slatternly Miss Metcalf, Kieth Cockburn, as the simple,
(Continued from page three)

CLIFF JAMES . . .

JIM BRONSON . . .