

Adult Night Classes To Start January 6

Night classes for adults, under the auspices of the general extension division, will begin January 6 and will continue through the term until March 20.

Many of the courses offer college credits, either graduate or undergraduate. Any course may be taken without credits. Registration and payment of fees may be made at the first meeting of the class.

Courses to be offered this term are in the following fields: art, arts and letters, business administration, education, English, geology, Germanic language and literature, history, industrial arts, mathematics, physical education, psychology, romance languages, and speech and drama.

Amazon Flat Piping Processed by Chlorine

A sterilization process of the water distribution mains at Amazon flats, veterans' housing project, was carried on Thursday in preparation for use as household water supply lines.

W. J. Cloyes, Lane county senior sanitarian, said that the mains would be filled with a chlorinated liquid which would be allowed to remain in the pipes for 24 hours.

Hayward Calls

Backing up Maxey and Swan in the quarter-mile are veteran runners Ernie Schauer and Dick Shelton. Schauer was close on Swan's heels in many of the races last year and Shelton kept his talents to his pet, the javelin, but expects to hit the cinder paths this spring.

Ducks Strong

Oregon is going to be strong in nearly all the running events, stronger probably than any other school in the conference, and this is especially true in the half mile where Hayward is preening Stu Norene for torrid times.

Norene left Oregon State's track mentor, Grant Swan, with a long face when he transferred from the Aggies to Oregon this fall. The conference at first denied Stu any more eligibility, declaring that he had used all his by the move from State to Oregon. The penalty for switching schools is one year less of competition, but an investigation into Norene's career revealed that one season was used while he was in the service, therefore giving him the one extra year that he now has.

Distance Men Few

It's the distance that has Hayward a bit worried. Oregon used to have the strongest runners in the conference in the distance events, but has been unable to unearth any outstanding talent lately. Chief hope in the mile and two mile for Hayward this year are Hugh Stapleton, George Watkins, and Al Pietschman.

The field events are on a par with the running spots, strong in nearly all of them, but lacking weight men for the shotput and possibly the discus. Bob Anderson, former ace at the discus and now in the army, may be discharged in time to add his strength to this event for Hayward, but nothing is certain on his yet, according to the coach.

Everything points to one of the biggest years in track for Oregon, and Hayward wants to make certain that it is the biggest year. He maintains that tough intersquad competition makes strong teams, and hopes every man with track experience will contact him at Mac court.
