

School Accepts New Telescope

The University's proposed science building has been assured of a new custom-built telescope, Dr. A. E. Caswell, head of the physics department, disclosed recently.

Contributions from friends of the University have made it possible to purchase a reflector type telescope, which will be one of the finest of its kind, Dr. Caswell said.

Ten-year Fund

The original gift for the instrument, to be constructed for the dome of the new science building, was made ten years ago by J. Hugh Pruett, Eugene astronomer and former University faculty member. Pruett gave the school $1000 for the fund, now known as the J. Hugh Pruett telescope fund.

Within the past few months, with the possibility of the new science building coming close to a reality, several Eugene businessmen have added to the fund.

Contributors

Basil T. Williams of Williams bakery contributed $1000. Gifts of $100 each were added by Gordon Murdock, J. W. Quackenbush and Son, Rubenstein Furniture company, Alfred Holm, Robert D. Maclay, John B. Bell, Charles W. Ingham, F. C. Walters, Paul Van de Velde, W. J. Lichty, and Dr. H. R. Allumbaugh.

Additional subscriptions, already made but not yet paid, will bring the fund to a total of more than $3300. The telescope is to be constructed to be used in either of two standard adjustments, with different eye-pieces for different magnifications. The primary mirror is to be 15 inches in diameter with a focal length of 75 inches.

The equatorial mounting is to be motor driven with clock mechanism so that, once focused on a star, the telescope will automatic-

First OSC Quad Off Press Today

The first issue of the Oregon State Quad, new campus monthly general interest magazine, will be published today, according to Margaret Kehrl of Portland, who is manager of the new publication.

The Quad is being established to replace The Lamplighter magazine, formerly issued as a monthly literary publication. Staff members of The Lamplighter recently declared that it was impossible to continue publication of strictly literary magazine at Oregon State. Campus members of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism honorary, have agreed to assist with the magazine, and eventually to assume major responsibility for its publication.

Donna Jo Short of Redmond who will edit the magazine, has announced that the Quad will have a broad scope in content, and will include feature stories, columns, editorials, factual articles, reviews and cartoons, in addition to fiction and poetry.

ally follow it. The dome of the science building is to be 20 feet in diameter and of the latest approved construction, rotating and with a movable shutter.

Delta Zeta House In Equity Procedure

The Oregon Construction and Engineering company has filed a complaint in equity in the Lane county recorder's office requesting a foreclosure on a mechanics lien and a judgment of $11,455.17 against the Omega chapter of Delta Zeta alumni association.

The complaint was made in connection with the remodeling of the sorority's house on the campus in which they agreed to pay for the remodeling on a cost plus fixed fee basis.

The complaint said that cost of the work totaled $27,521.56 and that $11,455.17 of this sum has not been paid. Also involved as a defendant is the Security Savings and Loan association which, the complaint alleges, received a mortgage of $25,000 on the land and building in April, 1946 and an additional mortgage of $30,000 in September.

Rally Dance

Barnum, Skull and Dagger president. An added attraction will be the presentation of the varsity basketball, swimming, and skiing teams by Tom Hazzard, rally leader.

Dancing will be from 9:45 to 12 p.m. at Gerlinger to the music of Herb Widmer and his orchestra.

Admission to the rally hop is 60 cents a couple. Tickets will be sold at the door, and there will be no advance sale.

Student Union

dent Union was again listed as a campus building project.

Since then, government loans, plans, campaigns, and other financial help have brought the possibilities of a Student Union nearer.

A campus poll conducted in the spring of 1944 determined what the students thought was needed in the building. From this poll, the main facilities to be included were decided upon. Rooms for social purposes, artistic or cultural purposes, inspirational purposes, and food service, meeting rooms and offices, club services and conveniences, game rooms, athletic services, and facilities for the maintenance and operation of the plant were all deemed necessary and desirable.

Along with pledges, Co-op rental fees, and the $5 building fee, students may now turn over their breakage fees to the fund.

When the building is completed, it will serve as an informal educational center, joining the academic and non-academic activities, thus centralizing the student's total training program. It will be student-owned, student-operated, and student-inhabited.

MacGregor Predicts interview ended. "I saw the Oregon-New York University game," he said, "and the Webfoots ran the socks off NYU. You know," he added, "a lot of New Yorkers think there is no good basketball team west of the Hudson river." Watching Colonel MacGregor chuckling over this last remark gave one the impression that many basketball fans in New York City had changed their minds.

As worthy grand chief of Alpha Tau Omega, Col. MacGregor is touring the northwest chapters of his fraternity before returning to New York. While in Eugene, he was the guest of Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration. Friday night a banquet, sponsored by the University Interfraternity council, was given in his honor at the Osburn hotel.
