'No Comment' On Athletic Resignations

Officials Await Return Of President Newburn

(See Also Story Page 8)

EUGENE, Jan. 7—(AP)—An authoritative source said today that the University of Oregon athletic board members had offered their resignations to President Harry K. Newburn in a move to clear the way for an athletic director set-up which they had recommended.

Earlier it had been reported that Newburn asked for the resignations. This was incorrect, the source, who asked not to be named, said. He said the board initiated the action and it was expected that on Newburn's return to the campus the resignations would be accepted and the identity of the athletic director be made known.

Under the proposal the athletic director and the president would be in complete charge of the athletic program.

Dr. E. M. Pallett, assistant to the president and chairman of the athletic board, would not confirm or deny statements contained in the above Associated Press release. When interviewed Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Pallett said that any statements concerning actions of the board would be released by the president's office and that members of the board had agreed some

Schoolmarm Given 'Bobbysox' Hints

The tall, blonde girl entered a University high school class room and sat down in a back seat. Obviously she knew no one in the room.

Soon in bounced a chubby junior, fell into a seat across the aisle from the newcomer, scanned her quickly, then shifting her spearmint, grinned an acknowledgment. "What's your name?" she asked. Titles were exchanged. Then the class began, with the junior whispering interrogations and helpful hints on how to get along with the teacher.

The bell rang and the blonde girl headed down the hall. The chubby teen-ager pursued, asking why she was going that way, and maybe they had a class together next period.

"Oh, I'm going down to the supervisor's desk for more instructions," replied the blonde girl. "I'm a student teacher."

"My gosh," the junior screamed, assuming the complexion of a poinsetta, "I thought you were a new student."

Weekly Bible Classes Started by Foundation

Beginning a weekly series, Dr. Joseph Harris, Presbyterian student pastor and director of the Westminster foundation will instruct a class in Bible study and its application to current problems from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tonight at Westminster house.

According to Dr. Harris, the class is being started at the request of students who are interested in a study of this nature.

The public is invited to attend.

Noted Cellist Opening Artist Winter Term

First Concert Set For January 22

Joseph Schuster, cellist, will be the first concert star to appear at McArthur court this term, G. E. Gaylord, director of the Eugene Civic Music association, announced Monday. Mr. Gaylord said that Schuster would appear January 22. An article had appeared previously in the Register-Guard stating that Mr. Schuster would appear January 15 which was incorrect, Mr. Gaylord said.

The concert is open to members of the ASUO, of the ECMA and concert time is 8:15 p. m.

S. A. Tour Success

Recently completing his first concert tour of South America, the famed cellist is now touring the United States. Mr. Schuster's tour in South America was very successful, and in each of his forty appearances he was praised highly by the public and the press.

In 1934 Schuster came to New York where he made his debut at Town Hall. After his debut he received an invitation to become the solo cellist of the New York Philharmonic symphony society. He resigned two years ago when the increasing demand for his appearance all over the country brought him to the decision to devote all his time to a concert career.

Ranulfo Lacaros Enters University

By BOBOLEE BROPHY

In the early part of 1942 when the Japanese army occupied the small town of Maasin on Leyte island in the Philippines, Ranulfo Lacaros left school and with his family evacuated to the surrounding hills to await the American liberation.

Last week Ranulfo Lacaros enrolled at the University of Oregon to continue his interrupted education.

Following his graduation from high school in 1945, he went to Tacloban, Leyte, to work as a steward with the United States war shipping administration. There he met Howard Zumwalt of Portland, head of the administration at the Philippine city, who convinced Lacaros that he should come to the United States and continue his education.

Four-Day Storm

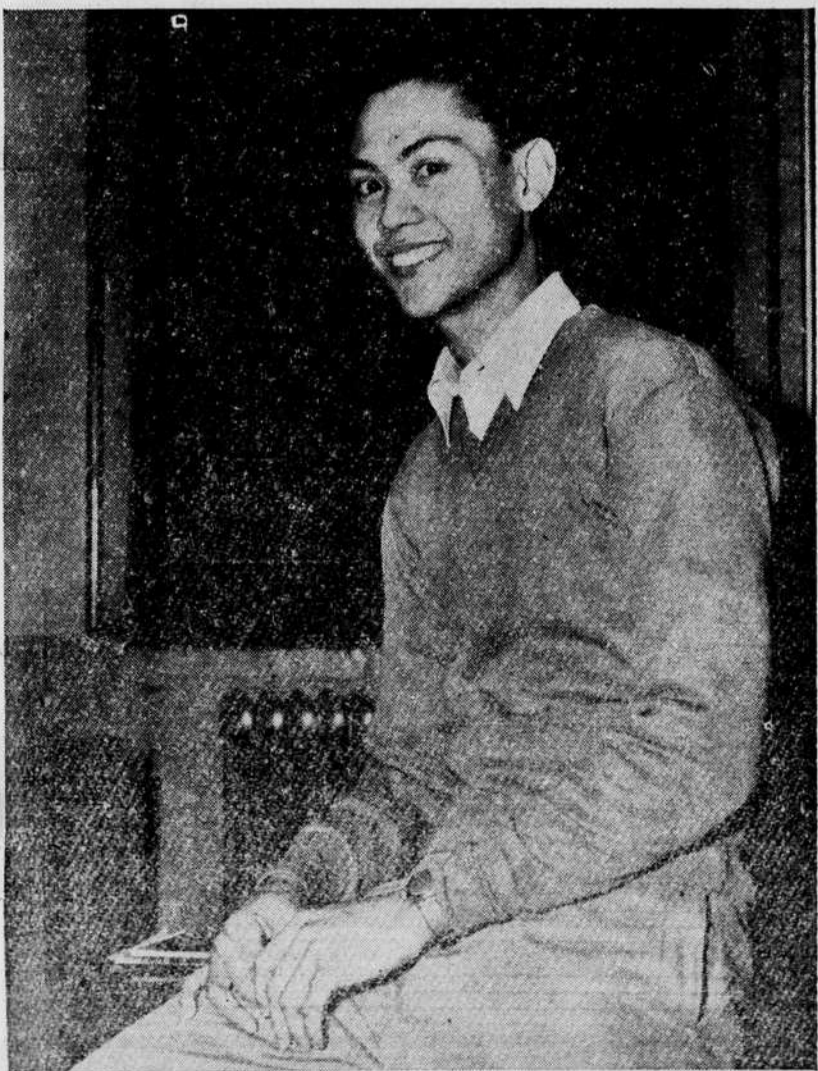

Zumwalt returned to the United States and completed the admission procedures. Lacaros, following clearance by the American consulate, shipped aboard an American

YWCA Cabinet Forms Plans For Heart Hop, International Fete

Bobbie Fulmer Asks For New Members

By NANCY PETERSON

Plans for the two main YWCA projects of the term, the International Festival and the Heart Hop, were formulated at a cabinet meeting Tuesday noon at the Y bungalow, when the Y schedule for winter term was organized.

The second annual International Festival will be held at the Y on February 8 under the general chairmanship of Bjorg Hansen. Miss Hansen announced that students and faculty from all Oregon colleges would be invited and that the purpose of the festival would be to honor all foreign students attending Oregon schools of higher education.

Underground Leader

Gaston Vandermeersche, Belgium underground leader during World War II, was one of the featured speakers at last year's festival. Committee chairmanship of invitations, the luncheon, tea, discussions, program, display, and publicity may be petitioned for by sophomores and upper classmen until Friday at the YWCA. Since the function is the YMCA, either men or women can petition. Freshmen are urged by Miss Hansen to petition for work on the separate committees. The Y freshman commissions will handle the programs for the event.

February 14 has been set as the date of the annual Heart Hop, announced Marge Skordahl, president of the YWCA. Petitions for general chairman and chairmen of ticket, poster, coronation, publicity, king of hearts, decorations, and refreshment committees may be handed in by sophomores and upperclassmen to the YWCA until January 15.

May Petition

Freshmen may petition for work on the above committees. General arrangements for the dance are being handled by Pat Ebert, chairman of the sophomore commission.

The first Y-sponsored girl-date-boy progressive dance was held about 10 years ago as a leap year affair known as the Ladies' Leap. Since it was reportedly a large success but only could be given every four years due to its theme, it gradually developed into what is now known as the Heart Hop. This is an afternoon affair. The names of the
