

St. Mary's Holds 'Feast of Lights'

"Feast of Lights," an Epiphany candle-light service, will be presented Sunday evening at the St. Mary's Episcopal church, Thirteenth and Pearl. The service, which begins at 7:30 p.m., is being organized and sponsored by the Canterbury club, Episcopal student group.

The service is open to persons of all faiths. It will end with a ceremony in which all members of the congregation light small candles from the Epiphany candle, which will have been burning all day. Each person is then expected to keep his candle lighted until he reaches home.

All those assisting in the ceremony will be University students, with the exception of the choir. Rev. Ernest S. Bartlam will be in charge of the service. Rev. Hal Gross, student pastor, will assist.

There's been no mail from Betty and Joe at the University . . . how's a father supposed to know what's going on?

'I TELL YOU, THOSE KIDS OF MINE ARE THOUGHTFUL!

'They've realized how much it means to parents to know about college activities . . . news that keeps us informed daily.'
