

PHILLIP H. PARRISH ...

Oregon Editor To Speak Here

The Germany of today will be described by Phil Parrish, noted editorial writer, in a speech to be given at 8 p.m. Tuesday, room 207 Chapman.

Parrish, who is editor of the editorial page of the Portland Oregonian, recently visited Germany with a group of editorial writers and publishers under the auspices of the war department.

His appearance at the University of Oregon has been arranged by Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism honorary. University students, faculty, and townspeople are invited to attend the talk.

A dinner in honor of Parrish is planned by Sigma Delta Chi to be held at the College Side at 6:15 Tuesday. Undergraduate and professional members of the honorary may attend, according to Mark Mindolovich, chairman.

Ad Students to Pledge Advertising Honorary

Fifteen pledges to Alpha Delta Sigma, men's advertising honorary, were introduced by Jim Thayer, program chairman, at a meeting of the organization held January 14. The date of initiation of the pledges has not been decided, although it will be held in the near future.

Men pledged by the honorary were Joseph Bennett, James Carson, Bob Chapman, Ed De Keater, Don Denno, Douglas Fetsch, John Larner, William Minehart, Jack Puffinbarger, Alfred Ruedy, John Schell, Don Shaffer, Orville Simpson, Paul Williams, and Michael Yowarsky.

Pledges were chosen from students who have completed or are enrolled in advertising courses and who show interest and ability in advertising, according to Doug Eden, president of Alpha Delta Sigma.

Petitions Called for Women's Activities

Petitions for the Women's Activities commission must be turned in by Monday, January 20, at 5 p. m. to Alice May Robertson, Kappa house. Only sophomore women are eligible to petition for this committee, which will take the job of keeping up the permanent activity records for University women, previously done by the dean of women's office.

University Theater to Present 'Joan of Arc' Puppet Play

Tickets Available For Show Monday

Marionettes will occupy the stage of the University theater at 4 p. m. Monday when Martin and Olga Stevens present "Joan of Arc," a play for marionettes written especially for them by Clem D. Easley.

The performance, which is being sponsored by the advisory board of the University theater and financed through the educational activities board, will be free to University students. A limited number of tickets will be available Monday at the drama studio. If any tickets are left, they may be obtained at the door before the performance. Admission will be by reserve ticket only.

The cast of 20 marionettes will be manipulated by two people. Olga Stevens plays only the voice of Joan, but handles her share of the puppets. Martin Stevens speaks all the other parts.

The Stevens company presents exclusively adult entertainment. The entire production, including writing the script, designing and making the eight sets, costumes, properties, and marionettes, and handling the actual performance, is the work of the Stevens couple and Easley.

WAA to Present Annual Carnival

January 31 in the women's outdoor gym! That is the date and place of the annual W.A.A. carnival as announced yesterday by the carnival's co-chairmen, Barbara Borrevik, and Bobbie Fulmer.

The carnival will last from 8:30 to 11:30 with dancing on the sun porch. Because of the lack of space in the gymnasium, several houses will sponsor each booth. W.A.A. is offering a prize for the most outstanding concession.

Last year some of the chief money-makers included a pie throw, gardenia sale, grab bag, and fortune teller. General admission will be 10 cents and a $2.00 rental will be charged for each booth space. W.A.A. is handling the food concession.

Separate committee chairmen include: clean-up, Carol Becker; arrangements, Mary Anne Hansen; decorations, Rane Cowl; food chairman, Beverly Bennett; finance, Thelma Chaney; tickets, Betty Jean McCurry; booths, Genevieve Siskey; and publicity, Nancy Peterson.

Miss Williams was appointed by the YWCA sophomore commission, which is headed by Pat Ebert, sophomore in liberal arts.

Other Committees

Other committee chairmen selected by the commission yesterday are Mary McQueen, decorations; Caroline Jenks and Mary Jane Harrison, King of Hearts contest; Beverly Pitman, coronation; Margaret Rauch, printing of tickets; Diane Mead, ticket sales; Shirley Lukins, refreshments; Nancy Peterson and Janet Beigel, publicity; and Virginia Dryden, posters.

Mrs. FDR to Speak At PNCC Meeting

By JUNE GOETZE

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, member of the American delegation to the United Nations, has accepted an invitation to speak at the second annual Pacific Northwest college congress to be held at Reed college in Portland March 6, 7 and 8.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

After speaking with representatives of last year's PNCC who presented their resolutions to the American delegation, Mrs. Roosevelt said, "I am very enthusiastic about the resolutions presented and would like to see the student movement grow on a national and an international basis."

Planned by Reed

Last year's congress was planned jointly by Reed college, the Portland League of women voters, and radio station KGW, and was attended by two representatives from each of 31 Northwest colleges.

This year 36 schools, including the University of Alberta and the University of Alaska, are planning to send delegates.

The Pacific Northwest college congress was the only student organization which has been officially received by the United Nations. Trygvie Lie, secretary general of the United Nations organization, speaking of the PNCC, commented, "A very fine idea. Our education division head will help in any way possible."

University Delegates

Oregon's two delegates to last year's congress were Lois McConkey Putnam and Lloyd Frese. Mrs. Putnam and Troy Strong of the College of Puget Sound were selected to be the two representatives of the PNCC to present the resolutions to the United Nations. The two University delegates for this year have not yet been announced.

The second PNCC will be sponsored jointly by Reed college, the Northwest Institute of international relations, and the Portland League of women voters.

Preliminary plans for the congress have been worked out by a group of twelve students representing the student associations of six colleges in the Portland area.

Berkeley Minister to Speak Sunday in Music Auditorium

Dr. Pierson Parker, Well-Known Traveler Is First UO Religious Council Speaker

By BOBOLEE BROPHY

Dr. Pierson Parker, of Berkeley, California, will be the speaker at the non-denominational vesper service, in the music auditorium Sunday at 4 p. m., under the University religious council. There will be a one-hour service.

Dr. Parker comes to the campus as a teacher, author, scholar, and speaker of note. He spent the greater part of his boyhood and youth in China as a member of a missionary family. As a young man he returned to the States and entered the University of California where he earned his B.A. degree.

Degrees in Berkeley

He completed his work for both his bachelor of divinity and doctor of theology degrees at Pacific School of Religion, a non-denominational seminary, in Berkeley. Dr. Parker later returned to this seminary to take up his teaching career, and after some time there accepted a position with the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, the western Episcopal seminary, at which institutions he now fills the chairs of New Testament and homiletics.

Dance Petitions

Houses wishing to petition for the dance should turn their petitions in to Lois Greenwood at the YWCA bungalow as soon as possible.

Tickets will go on sale next week in the Co-op after a general committee meeting to complete plans and form committees from the remaining petitions.

Hazardous Tale

"Our Dime campaign looked pretty weak, Mike dead, and Aiken couldn't speak."

Tom's voice had settled to a croak, "That P. A. system is a joke."

Poor Tommy's tale was pretty sad, "Those thirteen points looked awfully bad." —G. M. S.

Still a Student

This campus speaker continues to be a student as is reflected by the vast amount of Biblical research and writing which he has done, and he recently completed a tour of the United States viewing library and
