

'Mama' Wows Campus in West Coast Premiere

By AL ENGLISH

"Iss goot!" as Mama herself would have said with firm assurance.

The University Theatre players re-created Mama Friday night at Guild hall in the first performance of the John van Druten play, "I Remember Mama," that the west coast has seen. Sharing the stage with Mama were the rest of her Norwegian immigrant brood and an assortment of well-etched characters drawn from the city life of San Francisco not long after the turn of the century.

Mama, enacted by LeJeune W. Griffith, is the focus of the entire story, seen through the softly romantic haze by her idealizing daughter Katrin (Mary Hoch), who grows up to be a writer.

The audience watches the drama unfold as a series of episodes held together by Katrin herself acting as narrator.

The play begins with Katrin in a nostalgic mood, at her desk off to the left of the stage. She slips into the action with surprising ease, and the skillfulness of the many scene changes required by the action is amazing indeed. Credit the technical director and crew with an important share in the success of the production.

Donald P. McNeil, as Mr. Hyde, a broken-down English actor of the old school, is perhaps more convincing in his portrayal of age than any other member of the cast playing an elderly role.

But of course the play largely belongs to the Hanson family and to Uncle Chris (Clifton James), the black-mustached man who terrifies Mama's sisters, a trio of aunts. Peggy Jene McClure is winning as Trina, the most sympathetic of the three.

Horace Robinson directed the play which he was largely instrumental in securing for presentation here.

Sports—JVs Dropped
By Baby Beavers

OREGON DAILY EMERALD

Editorial—Should We Restrict Immigration?

VOLUME XLVIII

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1947

Number 79

Kappas, ATO's Lead University WSSF Campaign

Contribution Deadline Set for 5 p.m. Monday

Leading the campus in the living organization contest for the World Student Service Fund drive are the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, Beverly Pitman, chairman of the contest, announced Friday. Among women's organizations Pi Beta Phi is in second place and Kappa Alpha Theta third. In men's groups Pi Kappa Alpha is second and Phi Delta Theta third.

Monday at 5 p. m. is the deadline to contribute money which will count in the contest, Miss Pitman said. The winners will be announced Tuesday and cups will be awarded to the two winning organizations.

Organizations wishing to contribute money toward the drive should give their contributions to Dick Savinar, drive treasurer, between 4 and 5 p. m. at the YWCA bungalow.

Organizations will be able to follow closely the results of the contest by watching the graphs posted over the door of the Co-op.

Contrasting Views Aired by Odegard

The contrasting views of the sentimentalist and the cynic on world problems were demonstrated by Dr. Peter Odegard Thursday night in a lecture in 207 Chapman hall. Dr. Odegard, president of Reed college, spoke under the auspices of the University lecture series.

The word "cynic" was originated in the school of Greek philosophers who believed that virtue was the great value, said Dr. Odegard. This soon developed into self control and independence, and from this the word has come to mean selfishness and contempt for the sincerity of human motives, he stated.

The cynic has a dark and gloomy outlook of sneering disbelief and a distrust of sentiment, he said. Sentiment, on the other hand, takes a happy, or affirmative view, and looks on the bright side of life, stated Dr. Odegard.

The difference of outlook can be found in books, he said. A

(Please turn to page seven)

Feather Frustration

Campus brain cells sing with shame To myriad mental muddles, Dreaming up another name For the duck succeeding Puddles.

—D.S.F.

Students From Cairo to Peking Convene At YWCA's International Festival Today

By LAURA OLSON

The second annual International Festival, sponsored by the YWCA, will be held today from 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Featuring panel discussions, a luncheon at the Osburn hotel and a festival tea in the alumni hall of Gerlinger, the festival will be particularly directed toward promoting better relationships between students of all races. Bjorg Hansen is general chairman.

Registration will begin at 10 a. m., and will be held at the "Y" bungalow. Foreign students and guests attending the festival will be given circular pins resembling the globe for their lapels; their name and land will be marked on the pin.

"Peace Through Education" is the topic chosen for discussion by the morning student panel which begins at 10:30, Keith Bacon, moderator, said. Panel members are Jue Stanton, China; Otto Mitusch, Norway; Elizabeth De Cou, University student; Aziz Sidky, Egypt; Winston Wright, University student; and Giovanna Ribet, Italy, who has come to Eugene to aid in the WSSF drive.

Miss Lelia Hinkley will be the guest speaker at the 12:15 luncheon to be held at the Osburn hotel. She is on a leave of absence from the YWCA in Peking, China.

Discussions concerning the problems of reconstruction in Europe and Asia will be held at the YWCA from 2:15 to 3:45 p. m.

The last event of the festival is the tea, which will be held in the alumni hall of Gerlinger from 4 to 5:30 p. m. The tea will feature weddings of foreign countries which will be held at 10 minute intervals. The weddings in order of their appearance, are English, Austrian, Chinese, Russian, Norwegian, and Egyptian.

COMMITTEE HEADS VIEW . . .

Chinese wedding dress modeled by Marian Fong. From left to right, Miss Fong, Keith Bacon, Dedo Misley, Dorothy Habel, Ann Woodworth, Bjorg Hansen, Rene Cowell, Colleen Mariott, Beth Basler, Marcia Summers, and Prudy McCroskey.

Rebounding Ducks Go North Tonight for Third Bevo Fray

Coach Hobby Hobson's rebounding University of Oregon Ducks move north again tonight for the third game of their 1947 series with the Oregon State Beavers. To date the Hobsonmen are winless against the Orangemen and will be shooting for a revenge victory.

The Staters are at present firmly entrenched in first place in the northern division hoop race with seven wins and one loss as against four wins and six defeats for the Webfoots.

A win for the Lemon and Green tonight would keep the Ducks in a good position to overtake the Washington Huskies in the third-place race, and the corresponding loss for the Beavers would drop them to but a half-game ahead of the second-place Washington State Cougars.

Coach Hobson has not announced his starting lineup but is expected to answer the opening whistle with Ed Dick and Dick Wilkins at forwards; Ken Hays at center; and Stan Williamson and Reedy Berg at guards. Other possible starters include Jim Bartelt at forward, Roger Wiley at center, and Al Popick and Bob Lavey at the guards. It is highly probable, however, that the five which started and won against Washington — Wilkins, Dick, Hays, Williamson, and Berg — will get the opening nod again tonight.

Expected to open the festivities for the Beavers are Alex Peterson and Cliff Crandall, forward; Red Rocha, center; and Morrie Silver and Lew Beck, guards.

See story also on page 4.

Theta Sigma Phi To View Models

Oregon's Miss Vogue, to be chosen from student models in the Theta Sigma Phi fashion show, will be named February 27, program committee members have announced.

The fashion show, first to be sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism fraternity, will be presented in alumni hall February 27, with two women from each campus living organization modeling their favorite clothes.

The names of the models are to be turned in to Barbara Johns, head of the contest committee, at the Delta Gamma house, or to Carolyn Jacobs, at the Chi Omega house by February 13. Eliminations for Miss Vogue will be held February 18 and 19.

Judges for the contest will include W. A. Dahlberg, director of speech and drama; R. D. Horn, professor of English; Miss Rosamund Wentworth, assistant professor of physical education, and L. L. Jermain, instructor in journalism.

Radio Stations To Plug Plans For Dads' Day

Plans for Dads' day will be explained over "Of Interest to You" on KORE Monday at 10:30 a. m., Bob Wallace, general chairman, announced Friday.

Interviewed on this program will be Dean Karl W. Onthank, faculty head of Dads' weekend; Bob Wallace; Bob Matteson, housing chairman; and Dale Harlan, promotion chairman.

At 1:45 p. m. Monday over KUGN Wallace, Matteson, and Barbara Borrevik, publicity chairman, will explain some of the events of interest of the weekend.

Housing Available

These two programs were obtained through the courtesy of Laura Nidever of KORE and Gerry Arnold of KUGN.

Wallace, urging that each student send an invitation to his dad, stated that he believed that attendance this Dads' weekend will top even that of the ones held before the war.

Matteson also announced that some places for dads to stay are still available.

Included in the entertainment to be given at the luncheon will be speeches from Chancellor Paul C. Packer and Jim Aiken, new football coach, Bill Barnum announced.

Other plans include a pre-game program for Saturday night, which is being planned by Marv Rasmussen. Awards for attendance handled by Pat Webber, will be presented at this time by Thomas F. Gunn, president of the Oregon Dads.