

Gleemen Concert Set for Tonight

ASUO Cards Good For Shrine Benefit

The Eugene Gleemen, a group of 70 male voices, will present their winter concert in McArthur court tonight at 8 p. m. The proceeds of the performance will go to the Shriner's hospital for crippled children, a charitable organization that serves the entire state.

ASUO activity cards will be honored at the concert and a special section has been reserved for University students, it was announced.

Herman Gelhausen, bass baritone, will be featured as guest artist and the group will be conducted by Theodore Kratt, dean of the University school of music.

Gelhausen will sing three solo numbers and three numbers with the chorus.

Five Suspended By Dean of Men

Virgil D. Earl, dean of men, announced that five students were suspended Friday for "conduct unbecoming University students and for being under the influence of liquor."

The cases were handled directly through the office of the dean of men.

Four of the students were accused of assaulting another man as he left a woman's living organization at 10:30 p.m. January 27. According to Dean Earl, they had been drinking before the incident.

The argument which instigated the fight was over the proper execution of offices in the living organization of which they were members.

The other suspension was given for conduct at a party over the weekend.

Dean Earl explained that suspensions may be given through the offices of the dean of women and the dean of men, but that expulsions are handled by the student disciplinary committee.

Paradox of the Press

Saw a figure, pen in hand,
A-headin' fer the border.
Guess the Shacrats took the stand,
You can't have Lau and order.

Hawaii Ready for Statehood Says New Science Professor

By JACK SETO

Hawaii is ready for statehood, but congress is too busy, and naval and anti-Japanese interests are still in opposition, according to Dr. Robert Dean, new assistant professor of chemistry, who arrived Friday from the University of Hawaii, where he has been teaching.

Exchange of students between the mainland and the Hawaiian universities is favored by Dr. Dean who said the island schools provide excellent work in sociology and biology.

There is much tropical material for students of botany and marine zoology, he added.

Living Costs High

Present living costs will prohibit most students on the Pacific coast from studying and living in Hawaii, although total expenses are nearly the same as those for studying in Europe in 1938-39, Dr. Dean declared.

More than a score of articles on subjects on colloidal chemistry and

Kay to Address International Relations Club

ASUO President Tom Kay will speak at the second meeting of the International Relations club this evening at the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity house, according to Walt Crosby, president of the organization. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. and refreshments will be served.

Organized last month to stimulate student interest in world affairs, the club will hold regular monthly meetings. All students of the University are eligible for membership, and all persons interested are invited to attend tonight's meeting.

Other officers, besides President Crosby, are Pat Darby, secretary-treasurer, and Jerry Moore, program director. Dr. Paul Dull, assistant professor of political science, advises the club.

'O' Painting Nets Trio Blue Monday Fine

A trio of Oregon State freshmen managed to partially paint the O on Skinner's butte and clip some wires near the concrete emblem early Saturday morning, but the prank netted them a $50 fine each and three days in the county jail.

The students told Police Chief Pittenger they thought the wires belonged to the University. Eugene police picked up the trouble in the city hall, however, and the severed wires turned out to be leased telephone wires and two police aeriels.

Fined in the justice court Monday morning for disorderly conduct were: Duane M. Lehman, 18, Medford; Donald A. Waters, 17, Milwaukie, Oregon; and Stanley R. Keil, 18, Oregon City. The trio returned to Corvallis.
