

Plans Complete For Swim Meet

Plans for the women's national intercollegiate telegraphic swimming meet are nearly completed, Mary Anne Hansen, national chairman reported Wednesday. At present there are 56 teams entered, with eight colleges registered in the western region.

Meets on the Oregon campus will be held on February 26 and March 5 in the Gerlinger pool. Members of the Oregon team have not been picked yet, but the members of Amphibian, women's swimming honorary are practicing the specified number of times in hopes that they will be chosen to swim in these meets. Miss Margaret Brewster, faculty adviser for the telegraphics and coach of the Oregon team will announce the members of the team on February 21.

Beverly Bennett, chairman of the western regional division of the meet, has entry blanks from Washington State college, University of Utah, UCLA, University of California, University of Redlands, University of Montana, Montana State college, and the University of Oregon.

Oregon Sponsors Meet

Regional sponsors for the meets this year will include Penn Hall at Chambersburg, Penn., eastern division; Florida State College for Women, southern division; Michigan State College, central division; University of Oregon, western division. The University of Oregon is also sponsoring the national meet.

Student managers at each school entered will take charge of their meets and they will file entry blanks with their regional chairman. All the times will be sent to the regional sponsors and the regional sponsors will compile results and send the times for each event to the national sponsors.

Oregon Team Second

The Oregon team last year placed second in the western regional meets and fourth nationally. It was by virtue of their showing in these meets that Oregon was given the privilege of sponsoring the 1947 meets.

Students Apply Brush; Art Building Improved

Although a few of the architecture students sorely miss some of the little things in the drafting rooms, such as the clever footprints that used to run up the wall and across the ceiling, and other very meaningful doodlings, most of the people who work in those rooms are appreciating the redecorating work that was done to that part of the art school, during the Christmas holidays.

From some of the comments heard in this vicinity, everyone is beginning to feel very much at home now, amid the new setting of pale green hues. In addition to the work done in the drafting rooms, six new staff offices were added and new fluorescent lights installed in the art library.

According to Dean Sydney S. Little, of the art school, several of the students helped to do a large portion of the work themselves, and feel justly proud of their new surroundings.

will be developed by the Douglas gift.

Swank said these centralized facilities will make it possible for members of the music faculty to assign pieces of music as class work.

Douglass retired in 1942 after building the library collection from 15,000 volumes in 1908 to more than 333,000 volumes at the time of his retirement. He died in October, 1945.
