

Randy Airs Views On British Policy

By JUNE GOETZE

The British side of the India and Palestine controversies was explained by Randolph Churchill, son of the wartime premier of England, in McArthur court last night.

"We are willing to give up our sovereign rights in India, but which Indians should we give them to?" he asked, explaining that many people do not realize the difference between the Hindu and Moslem populations.

Student Models Seek Position Of 'Miss Vogue'

Vying for the title of Oregon's "Miss Vogue," fifteen coeds yesterday modeled their favorite outfits before a judging committee of four faculty members at the Chi Omega house. From this group, which was chosen from 55 girls representing campus women's organizations, the winner was chosen, and will be announced February 27 at the Theta Sigma Phi Fashion Show and Silver Tea.

Finalists yesterday included: Harriet Vanatta, freshman in liberal arts; Tiny Queen, freshman in liberal arts; Bernice Lind, junior in sociology; Wanda Shaw, senior in sociology; Virginia Dryden, sophomore in art; Mary Hoch, sophomore in music; Phyllis Field, sophomore in liberal arts.

June Johnson, senior in sociology; Anita Fernandez, senior in art; Sallie Timmens, junior in journalism; Veda Nicholes, senior in business; Carolyn Wright, sophomore in liberal arts; Betty Jo Hansen, freshman in liberal arts; Phyllis Hoffman, sophomore in art, and Coral Alford, freshman in art.

All student models chosen to represent their living organizations are reminded that they are to appear in the show. Barbara Johns, program head, said Wednesday. The show, which is being presented and sponsored by Theta of Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism fraternity, will be held from 4 to 5:45 in alumni hall, Gerlinger hall, February 27. All college students, students' wives, high school seniors, and faculty wives are invited to attend the show.

The Fashion Show and tea being presented by the group to further the promotion of closer relationships of Oregon women in journalism with the professional journalism field throughout the country.

Portland SU Office Planned

A spokesman for Ernest Haycox, President of the Oregon Alumni Association, announced Wednesday that the drive for over half a million dollars will be directed from a branch office working directly under President Harry K. Newburn, soon to be opened in Portland. The president's office on the campus is the local headquarters for the program which will swing into action during March.

The program for solicitation of subscriptions to the student union calls for simultaneous appeals on the campus and in Lane county, and drives at various times centered in Portland and other Oregon cities.

Wally Johnson, chairman of the campus student union committee, will work in conjunction with the Portland office and it is expected the campus appeal will come under his direction.

He deplored the attitude that freedom is like something that can be bought in a drugstore, wrapped up, and given away.

Churchill cited as examples of what might befall India some governments in South America in which the people, when given the opportunity for freedom, had turned their nation over to dictators to relieve themselves of the responsibility.

Innately Good?

One of the great delusions, he declared, is the belief that human beings are innately good and that if they were given liberty there would be freedom and justice.

Misrepresentation of the Palestine situation and the flooding of the United States with anti-British and pro-Zionistic propaganda by ill-informed people has led to much of the criticism of the British policies in the Holy Land, Churchill asserted.

"Nothing could be farther from the truth" than the idea that England is anti-Semitic, he said, quoting Disraeli, that "Every nation gets the Jews it deserves and God deals with nations as the nations deal with the Jews."

Students Protest Rulings By Scholarship Committee

A committee of veteran students, headed by Bernie McCaddon and Gil Pease, last night sent a telegram to Marshall Cornett of the Oregon state legislature, protesting the scholastic policies of the University. The wire requested an audience with the senator to urge clarification of the University's policies.

This action was spurred by notices sent to approximately 400 students specifying the required grades point that was necessary for their graduation. Of the 400 a small number of students not now in school were notified that they were disqualified.

Campus 'Sparks' Gets UBC Radio Contacts

Contact with the University of British Columbia was recently established by a campus amateur radio operator who maintains his set in room D-22 in Vets Dorm No. 1.

Jack Paisley, freshman in political science, operates Station WTRNT, and from it has contacted several student senders in Vancouver, at Station VE7ACS. Paisley has promised to convey any messages from Oregon students to the British Columbia campus, and declared that he should have an answer the following day.

Jack, who has operated "ham" sets since he was 14, expects to be able to contact most of the college and University campuses in the United States, and when such plans are completed, will send messages for students all over the country, he asserted.

He is planning a chess tournament with UBC in the near future.

Hymn Sing Next Sunday

An all campus hymn sing is being sponsored by the YMCA from 4 to 5 every Sunday evening in the men's lounge.

According to Jim Soden, director, students are welcome to request their favorite hymns.

UO Sets Low In Northwest Housing Rates

The University of Oregon has the lowest room and board rates of four northwest colleges, a Washington state department of veterans' affairs investigation revealed, according to an Associated Press release yesterday.

The survey was taken at the request of a group of Washington State college students who considered the room and board at that school excessively high.

WSC Board High

Francis O'Leary, assistant manager of the Spokane office of the state veterans' department, said board and room at WSC totals $54 a month for single or double rooms, which is only slightly higher than at other similar institutions in the Pacific Northwest.

He gave these figures for other schools:

University of Washington—$51-$56 a month, depending on whether rooms are single or double.

University of Oregon—$51 generally; $50 in a group of veterans' quarters.

Oregon State College—$54, including bedding and laundering of towels and sheets.

Scabbard and Blade Reactivation OKed

Scabbard and Blade, national military honorary, suspended on the campus during the war, has just received authority to reactivate from national headquarters, Col. John E. McCammon, ROTC head announced yesterday. A joint reactivation and initiation ceremony will be held March 5, McCammon said.

Ten men, all advanced students in ROTC, have been accepted by the national organization as pledges to the reactivating chapter and will be initiated at the March ceremony. They are Melvin R. Bandle, Anthony J. Conroy, William T. Green, Robert M. Lenneville, Francis L. Mahula, Stanley P. Marshall, Fergus F. Peters, Richard L. Rinde, James A. Snell, and Dunbar S. Norton.

Hall Instrumental

Men instrumental in bringing about the reactivation of the local chapter are Lt. Col. Henry W. Hall, assistant professor of military science, and three pre-war Scabbard and Blade members, Gene Brown, second-year law student, and Henry and Joseph Howard Steers, both seniors in physical education.

Active operation of the chapter will begin upon the initiation of the 10 men in March. The adviser for Oregon's new Scabbard and Blade chapter is Colonel Hall.

Churchill Welcome Mat Gets Brisk Brush-Off

The Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house was filled Wednesday afternoon with students attending a reception in honor of Randolph Churchill. There was only one thing missing—Mr. Churchill was not there.

The lecturer's agents had given their approval of the reception and had indicated that they were sure Churchill would enjoy a social function of this kind. However, after his lecture at Oregon State college yesterday afternoon the visiting son of England's wartime prime minister abruptly refused to have anything to do with the University students.

In Eugene, after the reception fiasco, a delegation of students, including an Emerald photographer and the editor, awaited a previously arranged meeting with Churchill scheduled for 5 p.m. at his hotel.

After an hour wait by the student delegation Churchill appeared—but too late to meet with the group due to a dinner engagement, for which he was also late. Attending the dinner given in honor of Churchill at the hotel were President and Mrs. Harry K. Newburn, Dr. and Mrs. Dan Clark, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams.

Observers found Churchill a charming guest at dinner, but he growled when a news photographer flashed a bulb near the table.

Bob Knoll, editor of the OSC Barometer, reported to the Emerald in a telephone conversation yesterday afternoon that the gymnasium at that school had been well filled for the Churchill lecture there, and that he had received a great ovation. After his OSC address Churchill granted an interview to the Barometer managing editor.
