

YMCA Group Hears Carroll

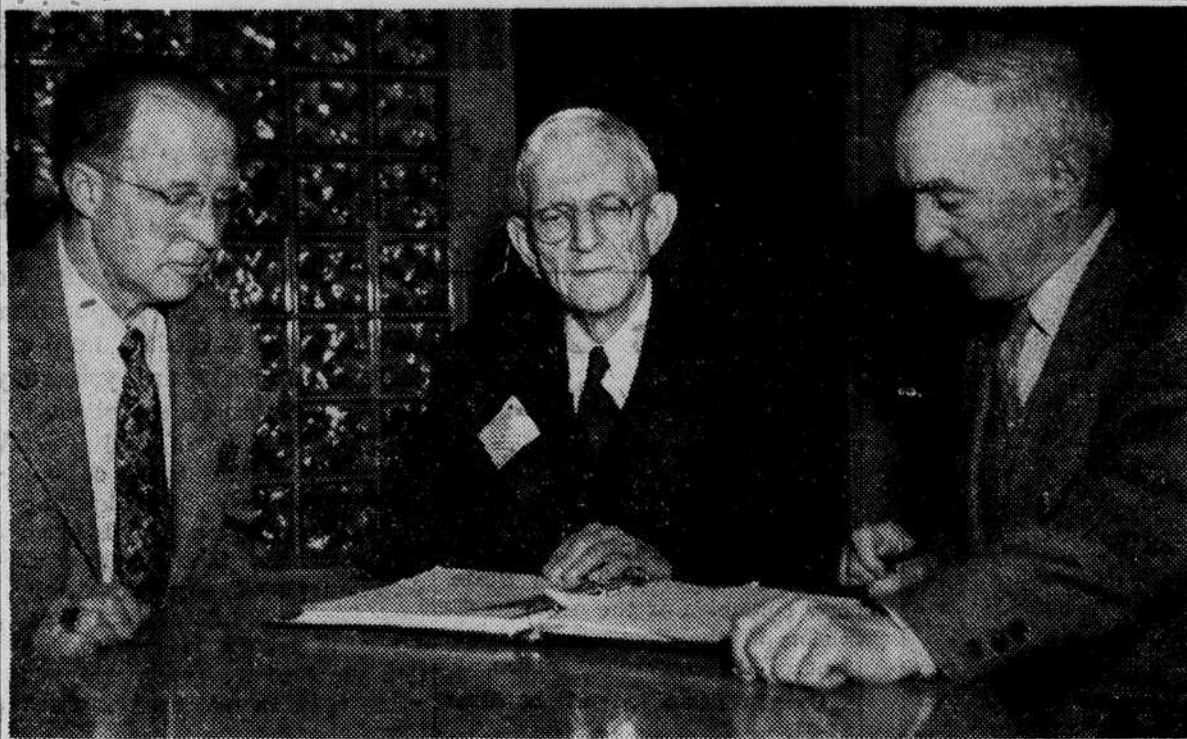

Conveying greetings to the University of Oregon campus from the "Y" headquarters in New York City, Edward Carroll, secretary of the national student YMCA, spoke Monday night before members of the YMCA, YWCA and One World club.

Carroll talked on "The Problems of the Veterans on the New American Campus," and outlined the various tasks which the YMCA expects to accomplish as an aid to veterans and their families. "Never before has the YMCA been challenged so greatly," he said, and added that "due to the large number of vets now enrolled in schools, there are no more really small colleges in the United States."

Carroll stated that in the larger colleges, students tend to lose sight of their basic aim in education since the rush of masses of individuals tends to distract and cause discourtesy and loss of dignity to be prevalent.

Pointing out that living in an atomic world blots the basic economic factors and presents definite problems in the attempt at bettering civilization, Carroll maintained that if people thought more simply and with less complexity regarding other humans, family and group relationships would improve.

Carroll is traveling about the Pacific southwest speaking to various "Y" chapters in regards to the task of orienting returned veterans. He is a graduate of Morgan college, Maryland. Receiving his degree at Yale, he later received his MA degree from Columbia university, New York. He joined the YMCA staff in New York in May, 1945, and is now working on the national interracial and cultural program.

PRESS CONFERENCE . . .

Officers of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers' association who will preside over the 29th annual press conference next year are Verne McKinney (left), co-publisher of the Hillsboro Argus who was named representative at large of the Eric W. Allen memorial fund; R. B. Swenson, publisher of the Monmouth Herald (center), new president of the association; and George Turnbull (right), dean of the University school of journalism, named secretary for another term. (Cut courtesy Register-Guard).

Press Conference Elects Swenson

R. B. Swenson, publisher of the Monmouth Herald, was elected president of the Oregon press conference at the concluding meeting of the twenty-eighth annual convention Saturday noon. Swenson replaces P. L. Jackson, editor and publisher of the Oregon Journal, who held the office for this year's session.

George S. Turnbull, dean of the University of Oregon school of journalism, was re-elected secretary and Verne McKinney, co-publisher of the Hillsboro Argus, was elected representative at large of the Eric W. Allen Memorial fund.

The nominees were announced by Mary E. Brown, of the Redmond Spokesman, chairman of the nominating committee, at the Saturday luncheon which ended the conference.

YWCA Starts Co-op Nursery

A free cooperative day nursery service for the children of veterans attending the University of Oregon was inaugurated Monday in the Central Presbyterian church recreation hall, under sponsorship of the community service division of the campus YWCA.

Hours for the nursery are daily except Sunday, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Superintendence of the group will be rotated among mothers of the children.

The Red Cross has made possible the use of cribs and other equipment necessary for the project. The Dames club, an organization of students' wives, is assisting with the plan.

It is anticipated that upwards of 25 children could be cared for with present facilities, according to Dorothy Rasmussen, chairman of the community service committee who said that the plan gives veteran students' wives a chance to go to school or to get away from home for a few hours in the day time.

The community service committee recently inaugurated two other child-care plans; one in which baby sitters go to the home by appointment, the other permits wives of veteran students to attend evening functions at the University.

Support Oregon's traditions. Stay after the game to sing the pledge song.

Back Talk!

There's the least back—and the smartest—in "Pep." This sprightly

EASY GOER tie was influenced by a moccasin, and has the easiest way of going all day long!

Easy Goers

PEP—unlined leather.

8.95

1060 Willamette
Phone 968

SPRING Has Come

GET YOUR
ICE CREAM
at the

Lemon-O

Cor. 13 and Alder
"Doc" Ireland, Prop.

AS SEEN IN VOGUE

Etta Gaynes
DESIGN

ETTA GAYNES cuts a swagger-back topper with deep slash-pockets and new, wide cuffs.

Spotlights it with four bright buttons to flash

by day or night. In ANGLO 100% woolen suede, quality rayon lined with EARL-GLO. Sizes 9 to 17.

49.95

Hadley's
1004 Willamette