

Reporting Classes Hear Farm Editor

J. S. Russell, for 21 years farm editor of the Des Moines Register-Tribune, spoke to members of Dean George Turnbull's and Warren C. Price's reporting classes Monday.

Russell said that he disliked the prevalent practices of calling a press conference, handing out news releases, or granting interviews when a news source has some news.

"News is where you find it, and it belongs to the fellow who digs it up," Russell said.

He explained that no matter what specialized field in which a journalist is planning to enter, he needs a good background in the fundamentals contained in reporting. He particularly emphasized the need for accuracy.

Work on a weekly newspaper gives a good background since workers on a small paper gain experience in many fields, Russell said.

St. Helen's Hall Delegate To Represent Red Cross

Barbara Needham, delegate to the Northwest College Red Cross Unit conference from St. Helen's Hall junior college in Portland, was elected at Sunday's general session to represent the Northwest Red Cross at the Pacific Northwest college conference at Reed college in April, according to Mary Anne Hansen, conference publicity chairman.

The conference delegates voted to consider the appointment of a student to represent the Pacific Northwest area at the American Red Cross national conference at Cleveland, Ohio in June.

WAA Slates Fun Night

A fun night for both girls and men will be sponsored by the Women's Athletic association Thursday at Gerlinger hall from 7 to 10 p.m., Betty Ingebritson, general chairman, announced.

Among the entertainment to be provided will be volleyball, badminton, ping pong, square dancing, and folk dancing.

Committee chairmen include Thelma Chaney, Jackie Bogan, and Genevieve Siskey.

Students planning to play badminton are requested to bring their own racquets since they will not be furnished.

Symposium Theme Told

"Labor - Management - Government" will be the subject of a symposium group on their tour this week. The team will be comprised of James Gilbertson, freshman in business; William Boyer, sophomore in business.

Included in the tour will be Oakridge high school today; Chiloquin high school and Bonanza high school tomorrow; and Klamath Falls high school, Klamath Falls Kiwanis and Rotary, Merrill high school, and Henley high school Friday.

Trophies Awarded For 'Dads' Activity

More than 500 dads visited the University campus during the recent Dads' Weekend, Bob Wallace, general chairman, announced. Of that number 448 were officially registered.

First place trophy for percentage of dads attending went to Delta Delta Delta, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon was awarded second place.

Sherry Ross and Omega hall tied for first place in the trophy given to the house with the largest percentage of dads of freshmen attending.

Campus cleanup prize was awarded to Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

"Beauty to Burn" Motto For Pulchritude Contest

Beauty to burn and husky publicity men are all in order as the big Emerald sports side search for the University's No. 1 beauty gets underway.

The sports side, not content with entering "just any beauty" in the Emerald cover girl contest, is conducting its own survey so that Eugene sports lovers will be assured an outstanding representative at the Saturday night McArthur court finals.

Announcement of the sports side candidate will be made late Thursday night following the elaborate survey. Campus beauties are being sponsored by the various athletic teams with huge, husky athletes serving in the capacity of promotions experts.

It is rumored that even the Legal Eagles have launched an entry into the race. Another source quotes the College Side bridge team entry as a "cinch." The football entry has not as yet been announced.

Bernie Hammerbeck, Emerald sports editor, has not yet revealed who will make the momentous choice at the Thursday evening confab. It is believed, however, that Johnny Kahananui, Island expert, may be influential in the choice. He is well known on the Waikiki beach head as a connoisseur of delicate figures.

Jazz Club Gives With Last Decade Platters

Big name bands, playing swing and jazz dating from 1930 to 1938, will be featured at the second meeting of the jazz club tonight at 7 p.m. on the sunporch of Gerlinger. The group will be formally organized at this time and all interested students are asked to sit in.

Records of such bands as Jimmy Lunceford, Count Basie, the Dorsey brothers, Benny Goodman, Bob Crosby, and Bunny Berrigan will be played. Some of Ted Hallock's side men will present the jazz of today's small "combo."
