

Choral Union Plans Concert For March 4

Donald Allton Leads 180 Mixed Songsters

The University Choral Union, composed of 180 voices, will present a public concert in McArthur court Tuesday evening, March 4, under the sponsorship of the Educational Activities board and School of Music. Donald W. Allton, assistant professor of organ and music theory, will conduct the group.

First organized in 1944 by Allton as a women's chorus of 70 voices, the organization has grown to its present status as a mixed voice chorus. Membership is dependent upon try-outs but it is not a music major's organization, Allton points out. It is composed of students from all schools and departments with diversified interests who enjoy singing together. Last fall more than 500 students tried out for membership.

Allton has had considerable experience and work with glee clubs and choruses since he started professional work and since 1944, when he came to the University, has been active with singing groups both on and off the campus. A member and accompanist for the Eugene Gleemen, Allton also directed the group during the absence of Dean Theodore Kratt, present director, during Dean Kratt's service in the war.

A graduate of Eastman school of music in Rochester, N. Y., Allton has had charge of glee clubs and choruses at the University of Kentucky and Mary Baldwin college in Staunton, Virginia.

The concert, planned for 8:15 p. m., will be free to the public and townspeople are extended a particular invitation.

H. K. Newburn Honored

Guests of The Dalles Lions and Kiwanis clubs at a Tuesday evening dinner were Dr. Harry K. Newburn, University president, and Mrs. Newburn.

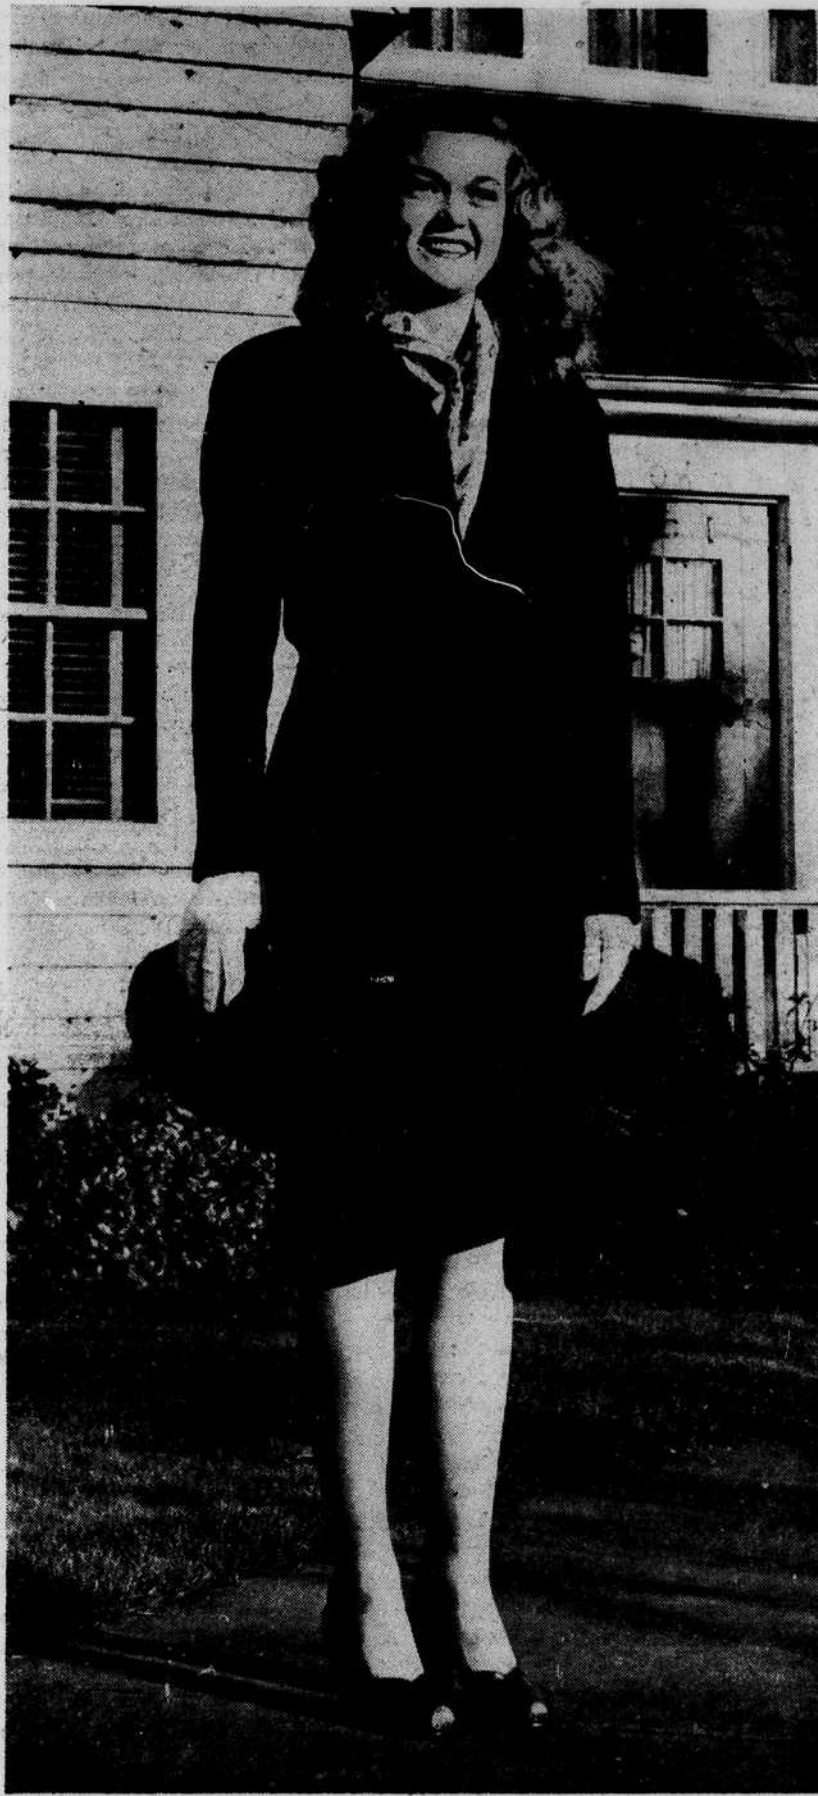

The affair, held for the high school football team there, also honored Jim Aiken, University of Oregon football coach who is on his state-wide "get acquainted" trip.

Officers Seek Petitions For Junior Weekend

Petitions from members of all classes for Junior Weekend committee chairmanships and positions are due Monday at 6 o'clock, it was announced yesterday by Bobbie Fullmer, co-chairman of the event. They are to be submitted to Miss Fullmer at the Alpha Omicron Pi house, Bob Daggett at the Sigma Chi house, or to the educational activities office.

Students are urged to petition for the following committee openings: promotion, prom, all-campus sing, terrace dance, all-campus clean up, luncheon, sunlight serenade, finance, traditions, publicity, coronation and float parade.

Chic Harriet Vannatta Miss Vogue for 1947

Harriet Vannatta, freshman in liberal arts, was yesterday named Miss Vogue, 1947, for the University of Oregon. She was chosen from 50 student models who participated in the Theta Sigma Phi tea and fashion show, held in Alumni hall, Gerlinger.

The tall pretty coed, whose home is in Kohala, Hawaii, was presented with an orchid from Keith Fennell's and a pair of nylons from Kaufman Brothers. She is a member of the WAA, YWCA, Amphibians, and Hui-O-Kamaaina.

Miss Vannatta is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

The fashion show featured models from every women's organization on the campus. They modeled their own outfits, ranging from sports and campus clothes to formals.

Mrs. George Turnbull, adviser to the campus chapter of the women's national journalism fraternity, and Mrs. Ann Connell, society editor of the Register-Guard, poured.

Ad Lads and Lassies Entertain After Classes

Never at a loss for the UO Red Cross, the ADS and the GAX and other sad sacks will give us the scoop concerning the group Monday at the Side.

The 4 p.m. show, we want you to know, will feature Bill Bish the campus magish with tricks so confusing (and also amusing) Houdini, bona fide.

Bob Whitely's patter concerning the matter assures us much fun (O Jupe, let it sun) if we come just at four, Rich'll open the door, for the Red Cross, as we have implied.

UO Coed Groups Elect New Officers

By TRUDI CHERNIS

Barbara Johns, Bjorg Hansen, and Barbara Borrevik were elected presidents of AWS, YWCA, and WAA at the elections yesterday.

Other new AWS officers include Helen Hicks, vice-president; Beverly Pitman, secretary; Prudy McCroskey, treasurer; Marie Lombard, reporter; and Mildred Chetty, sergeant-at-arms.

Installation of new AWS officers will take place the first week of spring term, Bea King, outgoing president announced.

Fullmer YWCA Vice President

Bobbie Fullmer was elected YWCA vice-president, Carolyn Jenks secretary, and Ann Woodworth treasurer. They will be installed on March 11.

The WAA officers are Thelma Chaney, vice-president; Beverly Bennett, secretary; Genevieve Siskey, treasurer; Jackie Tetz, sergeant-at-arms; and Joie Smith, custodian. The WAA installation will also be held on March 11.

Voting was reported somewhat heavier than last year, although only approximately 550 voted in the AWS election. Only members of the YWCA and WAA could cast ballots in those elections.

Voting Considered Low

"Considering the number of women on the campus, the minimum voting should have been no less than 1000," declared Pat Spencer, member of the AWS nominating committee, who helped count ballots.

Outgoing officers of the Associated Women Students are Bea King, president; Dorothy Davis, vice-president; Barbara Johns, secretary; Ann Burgess, treasurer; Trudi Chernis, reporter; and Prudy McCroskey, sergeant-at-arms.

This year's YWCA was headed by Marge Skordahl, president; Martha Thorsland, vice-president; Beryl Howard, secretary; and Nila Desinger, treasurer.

Scholl Retiring WAA Prexy

WAA officers for the past year have been Virginia Scholl, president; Betty Ingebritson, vice-president; Barbara Gunn, secretary; Thelma Chaney, treasurer; Barbara Borrevik, sergeant-at-arms; and Pearl Peterson, custodian.

Other candidates for AWS office were: Jeanne Simmonds, Joyce Niedermeyer, Trudi Chernis, June Goetze, Joanne Frydenlund, and Annie Bennett.

Other YWCA candidates included Nila Desinger, Beryl Howard, Beth Basler, and Laura Olson.

WAA candidates included Sis Scott, Coralie Thompson, Frances Blenkinsop, and Ruthe Millard.

Spring Is Sprung, Fever Strikes Classes Lose to Picnics n' Bikes

By BETH BASLER

Biggest news to break on the campus in a year is the following joyous release. Spring is here! And with it the traditional fever which has hit every Oregon university student, even the seniors.

To the fellows in a fraternity house, spring is celebrated by moving all the living room furniture onto the terrace, turning "Open The Door, Richard" on full blast, and playing catch with the baseballs, if they can be found after a long winter in storage. In a girl's house, everyone rushes for last season's shorts, a bottle of baby oil, and the sun deck. Some faces are mighty pink already from Sol's first long rays.

Convertibles Wanted

A girl, these days, is really not quite dressed until she has pinned a huge butterfly bow in the center back of her loose-flying tresses. Maybe it will be useful in flagging down one of those masculine "students" as he whizzes by in a powder blue convertible.

W. V. Norris Returns

Dr. W. V. Norris, supervising engineer for the University, returned to his work Monday, after a three-week seige of bronchial pneumonia. Norris said that this was very unusual for him and he was glad to be back on the job.

Revival

REVIVAL! It's on its way back. One of the good old Oregon customs that died with the war is returning to the campus. The men especially should be interested in this one. Watch Emerald for complete lowdown on this REVIVAL.

Campus Contests Set for R.C. Drive

A pair of sturdy Duck mountain-climbers, one representing the coeds and the other the men, will scale a miniature peak in a window display at the Co-op during the campus Red Cross drive March 1-7. The mountaineer who reaches the summit (representing the fund campaign goal) first will determine whether the female or the male population of the campus donate the "mostest the fastest."

Plans for a drive contest between campus living organizations under the direction of Richard Logan, chairman of the house collections committee, have been announced by Mary Ann Hansen, a campaign publicity chairman. Separate cups will be awarded to the highest donor among the women's and the men's organizations on the basis of per person contributions.

Co-chairmen of the drive are Barbara Johns, Delta Gamma, and David Dimm, freshman in business administration. Committee heads are Richard Logan and Marilyn Stratton, house collections; Phyllis Litzenberger, co-op sales; Margaret Rouch and Marian Battey, posters; Mildred Chetty and Rollie Woodruff, student contacts; and Harriet Vannatta, promotion.

The Red Cross will have a booth in the Co-op during the drive week (Please turn to page three)
