

Reserve Recruiters Seek Navy Vets for Program

By LAURA OLSON

Staff Writer, The Emerald
 Naval Reserve week in Eugene got underway Tuesday noon, when two mobile units were opened to the public. The exhibit, which is located on Tenth avenue west, just off Willamette street, is under the command of Lt. Cmdr. Walter Lunsford and Ens. Don O'Neill, former University student.

"We're here to enlist former navy and coast guards men who wish to join the Navy's V-6 inactive naval reserve program," Lieutenant Commander Lunsford said. He pointed out that men who enlist in the reserve remain civilians, yet maintain their contact with the service, protect their rating, build up longevity of 5 per cent pay increase every three years while on inactive duty and keep all GI rights and benefits.

National Emergency

"The men who enlist in the reserve will be called to active duty only in case of a national emergency," Lieutenant Commander Lunsford continued. He added that the navy is also interested in college men who are ex-navy and coast guardsmen who have had two years of college or the equivalent. These men are now eligible for officer's commissions in the navy volunteer reserve, he said.

Thirty men have enlisted in the reserve in the last two days, Commander Lunsford said, and he added that any college men who are unable to come to the exhibit to see him are asked to contact any of the following members of the University faculty who are helping during reserve week: P. R. Washke, professor of physical education; V. S. Sprague, assistant of physical education; Earl Boushey, chief of the Veterans' Guidance center; H. E. Wood, professor of education; or Dick Williams, educational activities manager.

Campus Recruiters

"These men, former naval officers, are voluntary recruiting officers who have helped us," Lieutenant Commander Lunsford stated, "and they are interested in seeing a naval unit established in Eugene."

"If enough men are interested here in Eugene," Lieutenant Commander Lunsford concluded, "the navy will supply them with gear and equipment for training purposes for one division, but they must indicate their interest by joining the inactive reserve first!"

Men who wish additional details may contact Lunsford, who will be at the mobile units from 10 a.m. through 6 p.m. until Saturday night, or at the Eugene hotel in the evening.

Boushey to Present USNR Talk Today

A branch of the naval reserve recruiting office will be set up in the lobby of the men's physical education building from 8:30 to 5 today.

On hand to explain the reserve corps to the students will be Earl Boushey, chief of the veterans' guidance center; P. R. Washke, professor of physical education; and V. S. Sprague, assistant professor of physical education.

Announce Law School Winners at Dinner

Winners of the recent first year moot court arguments at the law school will be announced at a dinner at the Del Rey on Saturday evening at 5 p.m.

Student judges and faculty members are invited to attend on a Dutch treat basis.

The eight winners to be announced will participate in a run-off argument next spring term before faculty members of the Oregon Bar association. A book prize will be given to the winners.

Maritime Movie Tonight

"America Sails the Seas," a half hour technicolor movie, will be presented by the campus chapter of the Propeller club tonight at 7:30 in room 207 Chapman.

The movie was produced by the National Federation of American shipping and is an attempt to correlate the necessity of a strong merchant marine to the general prosperity of the nation.

Campus Jazz Club Elects Combo Head

A jazz club was organized on the campus Wednesday evening so that, according to their constitution, all students of the University may learn to appreciate and enjoy jazz.

Officers, who are called the combo, are Jim Windus, Suzanne Stark, Jerry Williams, Ralph Teter, Robin Gilbert, Evans Cantrell, R. C. H. Robinson, and Shirley Johnson.

Duties of the combo include the planning of a weekly program to which all University students are invited.

WAA Sponsors Social Mixer

A fun night for both girls and men is being sponsored by the Women's Athletic association tonight in the Gerlinger gym. Included in the entertainment will be volleyball, ping, pong, and badminton.

Betty Ingebritson, chairman of the event, commented, "This is the first mixed fun night that has been sponsored by the WAA for some years."

The gymnasium will be open from 7 to 10 p. m. Students who want to play badminton are requested to bring their own racquets since they are not furnished by the physical education department.

Those assisting Miss Ingebritson are Thelma Chaney, Jackie Bogan, and Genevieve Siskey.

Miller, Cook Win Speaking Contest

Warren Miller, junior in journalism, won the annual Jewett impromptu speech contest Wednesday night, according to Dr. R. D. Clark, associate professor of speech and drama. Second place in the contest was awarded to Hugh Cook, first-year law student.

Other students who participated were Nancy Peterson, Don Tykson; John Backlund, Eugene Gillard, and Tom Powell. First prize in the contest was $25 and second place, $15.

Journalism School High in Enrollment

The University of Oregon school of journalism ranks 12th in the country for male enrollment, according to an article in a recent issue of Editor and Publisher, national magazine for the journalism profession.

The journalism school enrollment is now up to 404 students with 252 men and 152 women. This number is an increase over the 383 students registered for fall term of this year and a 56 per cent increase over winter term of 1945.

The University of Oregon journalism enrollment is second only to the University of Washington among the western universities and colleges.

Approximately 3,000 veterans were patients in Veterans Administration hospitals in the Pacific Northwest at the end of 1946.
