Lane County Squares Off For Student Union Fight

A University student center, for almost 25 years the dream and goal of students, faculty, and friends of the institution, moved a big step nearer reality Thursday night with the first meeting of a Lane County Citizens committee to raise funds for the structure.

Called by Chairman William H. Russell, the meeting set the pattern for a forthcoming drive to raise $200,000 as Lane county's share of the remaining $600,000 needed for construction of the structure. The main drive will not get under way until April 28, but preliminary work will begin immediately.

Haycox Keynotes

Keynoting the meeting, Alumni President Ernest Haycox of Portland predicted that the first work on the new building would start "by homecoming this year." "We are going to raise this money because we must raise it. We are going to build the building," he said.

The meeting was attended by approximately 35 persons, most of whom will head committees in the intensive campaign planned for Lane county. Offices of the drive will be set up in the Eugene hotel Monday.

Various speakers told of the history of plans for a student memorial union and the need for it on the campus. Photographic slides giving details of the structure were shown to the group.

"Home of Learning"

Opening the meeting, Chairman Russell explained that the building would be a "home of learning." It will be a civic center for the university, a place where students can meet as equals, he said.

William M. Tugman, editor of the Register-Guard, outlined the need for such a building on the campus, particularly with the increased enrollment of the university. He showed how the campaign would tie in with the drive to obtain funds for construction of recreational areas in Eugene.

With the number of high school students attending the University increasing each year, a student center has become an absolute necessity, Haycox told the Eugene leaders. He said it would prove an important complement to the classroom by making students' leisure hours profitable ones.

"What happens outside the classroom is as important as what happens in the classroom. A civic center for the University community would create a kind of citizenship and would help to teach the students how to live and work with each other," Haycox said.

Representing the University, Dr. Earl M. Pallett, Assistant to the President, expressed his appreciation for the keen interest of alumni and friends in the project. Student President Thomas Kay and Wally Johnson, chairman of the student union committee, echoed these words and pledged their whole-hearted support in the drive.

Committee chairmen appointed by Russell are as follows: Ben F. Dorris, Lloyd W. Rowling, C. R. Manerud, Mrs. J. Don Smith, Sydney A. Milligan, and Karl W. Onthank.
