

Oil Jobs Open To Graduates

Representatives from two oil companies are expected to visit the campus shortly to interview seniors being graduated in June for engineering and selling jobs both in the United States and abroad, Dean Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel management, and head of the student placement service, announced Friday.

Dean Onthank requested that all students interested in the jobs register at the student placement office in Friendly hall so that their names will be on hand when the interviewers arrive.

A representative from the Union Oil company of California will arrive on the campus around April 20, Dean Onthank said. The Union Oil man will interview candidates for sales and engineering jobs.

Both marketing and engineering jobs abroad are available with the Texas Oil company, the job placement head said. The representative from this company will be on the campus Tuesday and will interview prospective employees for service in West Africa and Central and South America.

The Sperry division of the General Mills Flour company is sending a representative to interview candidates for sales positions, Dean Onthank said.

A well-paying job with the American Gas Accumulator company is available this summer, Dean Onthank announced. The company is looking for a man with business experience to manage the northwest division of the company's sales of airport ground lighting equipment. A college degree and a pilot's license are prerequisites for the job. A commission as an officer with the army or navy may be substituted for business experience, Dean Onthank said.

ROTC Band Blows; Attracts Many Visitors

The practicing of the newly formed ROTC band Wednesday afternoon in front of John Straub hall attracted quite a few visit-tors, especially residents of the hall who were seen leaning out of open windows.

The band, composed of ROTC students, is under the direction of J. H. Stehn, associate professor of music. The band will play for the formal reviews and parades which will be held later this term by that department.

It is traditional for freshmen men to massage the Oregon seal with tooth brushes during Junior Weekend.
