

Campus to Entertain H.S. Seniors From Oregon for AWS Weekend

Approximately 200 high school senior women will invade the campus this weekend as guests of women's houses, Barbara Johns, president of AWS, said today. The guests will be entertained by a full weekend program, Miss Johns added.

The one weekend will replace the former practice of rushing high school seniors during the entire spring term. In the past, some high school girls have been invited to the campus for as many as six or seven weekends as guests of individual houses.

Among the features planned to entertain the visiting seniors will be the annual "Nickel Hop," sponsored by women's living organizations on the campus. Prizes for winning houses will be two record albums, to be donated by the Jacquith Music Store.

"The Hop will be an excellent opportunity for Oregon men to meet these high school girls, most of whom already have indicated their intention of being on the campus next year," Miss Johns said. "Dating will not be permitted, but all of the girls will be present for the Hop," she added.

Saturday, tours around the campus will take up the morning, with a luncheon in Gerlinger hall, given by the Oregon Mother's club, scheduled for 12:30. In the afternoon, WAA groups, Amphibians and Orchestras, will put on a special program to be followed by a tea sponsored by the Eugene Panhellenic. Saturday night, living organizations will take the senior girls to see the all-campus production, "Green Pastures," after which they will attend a fireside at the YWCA bungalow.

Individual houses will be responsible for meeting the girls at the train and bus depots. A list of girls to be guests of each women's organization will be given to each house Thursday evening, Miss Johns said.

ROTC Inspected By Col. Thompson

A routine tactical inspection of the University ROTC unit was made last week by Col. J. W. Thompson from Fort Lewis, Washington. This inspection will be followed by the annual inspection on April 28 and 29.

The latter inspection to be given by a board of officers from Fort Lewis will consist of examinations on all the subjects covered during the year in the military department. A formal review to be made up of the whole corps of cadets, will close the ceremonies, Col. H. W. Hall, of the ROTC department announced.

Portal Pounding Pooch Perturbs Professor

Knocking on the door when you are late for class is not the best way to make an entrance but it worked for a dog that attended R. D. Millican's general advertising class Monday morning.

After a continued rattling and knocking on the door Mr. Millican said, "If that's a dog we'd better do something about this situation." And he did.

Letting the dog in, Mr. Millican returned to his lecture. The dog circled the classroom once, and then made himself comfortable in the rear of the classroom, to quietly spend the balance of the period.

UO Enrollment

The only category of enrollees showing a percentage decrease from last spring's total is the group labelled "Specials and Auditors."
