

ABNER COWPENS

This ferocious character, a loyal Webfoot booster, has volunteered his services to the Oregon Federation. He wants to go to Corvallis to entice Beavers—to tell them that being a Duck is ever so much more fun.

Problem Subtracted by Cowpens Equals Glickman Plus Content

Harry Glickman has had it. For weeks the president of the Oregon Federation has been tearing his hair. He had a problem. He no longer has one. He hasn't much hair left, either, but he need tear no longer.

Abner G. Cowpens, loyal Oregon booster, has come. He has volunteered his services to the Federation as representative of that organization in the cow country up north a ways.

Cowpens' purposeful letter to Harry the Glick follows:

Dear Mr. Glickman:

Read in the want-ad section of the Eugene Register-Guard for today that you are seeking someone to represent your organization in Benton county. I would like to be considered for the position.

Your advertisement specified that you wanted an administrator, public relations expert, fighter, and intellectual, all in one. I believe I am your man. In support of this belief I am listing my qualifications.

As a member of the armed forces I gained quite a reputation as a fighter. The list of battles in which I took part is both long, and, I believe you will agree, imposing. Included were the Battle of the Long Beach Pike, the Battle of the Brown Palace Hotel, the Battle of the San Francisco Pepsi-Cola Center, and the Battle of Wounded Elbow. For these I was awarded the Order of Stalin and was pledged to Junior Seabees.

After having gained this reputation as a fighter, I was kicked upstairs to an administrative post of considerable importance. I administered the construction of every latrine from Kwajalien to Cairo.

Both in and out of the service I acquired experience in public relations. At the time I was administrator in charge of latrine construction, I was public relations man for Kilroy. Before entering the service, I succeeded in convincing farmers they should plaster Bull Durham advertising on the roofs and walls of their barns.

I'm not so certain I can qualify as an intellectual. But you can take it for what it's worth, I have a lifetime subscription to Greater Wow comics.

Your advertisement makes mention of the danger involved in this position, since Corvallis is located in Benton county. To reassure you, I am enclosing a picture of me indicating the uniform I propose to wear on the job.

Thank you,
Abner G. Cowpens

Richard Harrison, creator of "de Lawd" role in "The Green Pastures," was regarded by the cast as just short of actual deity. He was called "Two Dollar" Harrison because he was good for a loan to that amount.

Three Women's Organizations Name Heads for Coming Year

Three women's physical education clubs and honoraries chose new officers for the 1947-48 term. Leaders elected began their duties this spring and will continue in office until next spring.

Taking the gavel from Shirley Cox, Beverly Howard assumed the presidency of Orchesis, national dance honorary. Assisting her is Vice-President Beverly Bennett, WAA representative; and Secretary Jo Anne Adler.

Orchesis this term sponsored the modern dance concert by the Mills college group and will give a concert of its own before the end of the term.

Fresh air enthusiasts elected Pat Mounts to head their organization. Outing club activities for the term already have been organized. Pine was taken at the beginning of the term. Biggest plan of the club is the weekend outing at the coast over Memorial day. Activities of this group are open to anyone interested. Those attending outings receive points which count towards WAA membership.

Completing the outing club cabinet are Hazel Peterson, vice-president; Genevieve Siskey, secretary-historian; Jean Neely, treasurer; and Janice Neely, publicity agent.

Physical education majors chose Beverly Bennett president. She takes over the place held previously by Wanda Lou Payne. Helping her will be Frances DeVoss, vice-president; Janice Jordan, secretary; Shirley Baker, treasurer; Lee Lauderdale, senior representative; Pat Mounts, junior representative; Merridith Nichols, sophomore representative.

The P.E. club is organized to provide entertainment within the department and to promote friendships and activities among both the faculty and students.

Innoculations Set For Field Workers

Arrangements have been completed for students who are going to eastern Oregon for field work in anthropology this summer to get inoculations at the infirmary.

Injections for the prevention of tick fever, tetanus, typhoid, and paratyphoid were arranged by Dr. Luther Cressman, head of the anthropology department.

Veterans who have received shots for typhoid, paratyphoid, and tetanus injections within the last year or two will receive only one shot. A series of three will be necessary for all others.

Dr. Fred N. Miller of the student health service asks that students planning to take the injections make arrangements as soon as possible.

All of the injections are available at a small cost not to exceed 80 cents for the entire series.

Students who will be vacationing in areas where they are not certain of the purity of the water supply should also take the shots, Dr. Miller advises.

Phi Mu Alpha to Install Newly Elected Officers

Phi Mu Alpha, national music honorary and professional, has announced the election of the following officers for the coming year. They include James McMullen, national councilman; William Putnam, president; Francis Mahula, vice-president; Robert Fulton, secretary; Henry Howard, treasurer; Tom Kellis, historian; and Robert Roberts, warden.

Installation of the newly elected officers will take place Monday evening.

Research Grant Given Dr. Cressman

A $500 research grant from Viking Fund, Inc., of New York, has been awarded Dr. L. S. Cressman, head of the department of anthropology, it was announced this week by Dr. Harry K. Newburn, president of the University.

The money will be used for archaeological research on the Klamath Indian reservation during the summer session, when Dr. Cressman will lead about 15 students in work to attempt to determine the relations of the early stages of Klamath culture.

According to Dr. Cressman, evidence thus far collected indicates that the culture is either related to the area to the north of the Columbia river and the Washington plateau, or that it represents a survival and development of the culture around the ancient dried-up lakes to the south and east.

Dr. Cressman received a Guggenheim fellowship in 1940-41.

Yates and Nelson New SDX Officers

Ross Yates, junior in journalism, was elected president of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity, at a meeting of the organization held Thursday afternoon. He will take over the office from Harry Glickman, president for the past year.

The group elected Lyle M. Nelson, recently appointed director of information for the University of Oregon and the state system, as new advisor, replacing L. L. Jermain, instructor in journalism. A graduate of the University of Oregon, Nelson has served as Emerald editor, editor of the Old Oregon, and acting director of the news bureau.

Other officers elected were Bob Frazier, vice-president; Thomas Wright, secretary; and Bill Stratton, treasurer.

Tuesday Dinner Starts S. U. Drive

A "Dutch dinner" will be held at the Anchorage cafe Tuesday night at 5:30 p.m. for the vice-presidents of all living organizations on the campus to promote the coming Student Union drive.

The contest between the houses will be discussed and slides of the floor plans for the SU will be shown by Benny Di Benedetto, sophomore in art.

These slides will also be shown in most of the living organizations before the end of the campaign. Each house will be contacted by Nancy Peterson. The times of the showings will be announced later.

Double post cards are also being mailed to each University student who failed to pledge the balance of his breakage fees to the Student Union during registration. The Kwamas are checking through the current listing of students to determine who have not signed the SU cards.

Shotton Selected Brooks Manager

Brooklyn, April 18—(AP)—Burton (Burt) E. Shotton, 65-year old former manager of the Philadelphia Phils, was named manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers today by club president Branch Rickey.

Shotton replaces Leo Durocher, deposed as boss of the Brooklyns by commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler for acts unbecoming to a major league manager 10 days ago.

Shotton, a Dodger scout until today, was manager of the Phillies from 1928 through 1933. After that he swung into the St. Louis Cardinal system of which Rickey then was general manager.

Only 5 of the original cherubims in the New York cast of "The Green Pastures" remained small enough to last the first five years of production.
