

Highway Disrupts University Plant

Traffic improvements can be a headache as well as being an aid to travel-weary motorists. Such was the sentiment expressed by D. L. Lewis, physical plant superintendent, when he explained the difficulties induced by the work now being done on highway 99 south of Eugene.

Most immediate change will be an alteration of the fuel delivery system. The new highway will run so close to the sawdust hoppers that truck will not be able to make deliveries as before.

Also, when the highway is completed the University powerhouse will probably have to be moved to comply with the state set-back law. In its present location nearly half of the power house is in the set-back zone. It is expected that when the powerhouse is rebuilt to meet the expanding needs of the University that its location will be changed.

U O Fellowship Holds Social Affair Tonight

The UO Fellowship will hold a semi-formal social, open to the public, Friday, from 8 to 11 p.m., in alumni hall of Gerlinger. A full evening of entertainment is in store, which will be climaxed by a short devotional message by Don Pierce, pastor from Oak Ridge, now attending the University.

Short silks will be worn by the women, with sport clothes in order for men. Refreshments will be served.

Vet Addresses Grange

Paul Bosnyk, sophomore in business administration, will address the Irving Grange in Junction City tonight on material gathered from his experience during the war.

A former staff sergeant, E.T.O., Bosnyk will speak on "The French See America Through the G. I." through the auspices of the University's speech and drama department.

A CHALLENGE TO THE CLERKS AND SCRIVENERS

As the athletic highlight of the University's outstanding social week-end, to wit, the School of Law's Junior Week-end, it has been customary for the jurisprudential scholars to engage with the lowly clerks and scriveners who frequent Commerce Hall in a game of softball.

An exhaustive research into our interminable files has disclosed the fact that in the past twenty-seven years the clerks have failed to win a single encounter, although by devious tricks and faulty umpiring the bookkeepers have on several occasions come close to victory despite obvious inferiority on the playing field.

Knowing that even in the soul of a lowly clerk there may burn the desire for revenge and the love of competition, we, the Associated Students of the School of Law do hereby challenge the clerks and bookkeepers school to the said game on Saturday, the third of May, at 2:00 p.m., on an appropriate diamond behind the Physical Education School. We, the undersigned, feel certain that with 1,300 embryo clerks plodding daily through the dreary halls of commerce, that there must be among them at least nine able bodied men who will rise to this challenge.

If such physical specimens can be found, their representative is requested to appear at room six in Fenton Hall at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, April twenty-ninth. At this time the formal contract for the fray will be signed and sealed. Through great expense to our student body, we have secured the services of several brilliant legal minds to draft the said contract, which will govern such vital matters as the split of gate receipts, treatment of umpires, and the delicate handling of intoxicated spectators.

Passing Stressed In Football Drills

Coach Jim Aiken gave his hard-working Webfoot gridgers a mid-week breather by devoting most of yesterday's practice to passing drills. Some time was also spent on fundamentals but Aiken sent his first-string crew to the showers early.

Norm Van Brocklin and Bill Abbey were on the pitching end of most of the aerials with Pete Torchia doing a major share of the receiving. Aiken stressed the fact that he was patterning his passing attack after the wide-open style of football he used at Nevada.

Nothing more than the usual aches and bruises have hit the squad this week and the entire team should be in top shape for the scrimmage Saturday. This scrimmage will follow the track meet on Hayward field and will be open to the public although it will not be a regular intra-squad game. Aiken said that the team had not had time enough to learn their plays and his system well enough for a game but added that several intra-squad tilts will be played before the close of spring practice.

The University library was established in 1892.

Speech, Drama Profs To Attend OSA Meet

University of Oregon faculty of the speech and drama department plan to attend the state speech convention of the Oregon Speech association at Willamette university May 10, according to W. A. Dahlberg, acting head of the speech and drama department.

Horace W. Robinson, assistant professor of speech and dramatic arts in the University of Oregon, will act as chairman of the convention session on "Interpretation and Drama."

old age. They are impatient of all restraint. They talk as if they alone knew everything and what passes for wisdom with us is foolishness to them . . . As for the girls, they are forward, immodest, and unwomanly in speech and dress.' Yet this is a quotation from Peter the Hermit of the 12th century B.C.

"Maybe history is merely repeating itself with the present condemnations of the modern age but I am inclined to believe that youth lives up to the standards adults set for them."

Importance of GPA

Registrar C. E. Avery declared that, on basis of experience here and elsewhere, he saw no evidence of an increase in alcoholism or sex immorality.

John Gilbertson, Interfraternity council president, said that he could see no increase in drinking among younger students and that an increase in drinking among veteran students was brought about by the advanced age of that group.

Gilbertson also thought that the cheating was caused by the importance now being delegated to the GPA. He added that the administration should be complimented on bringing moral problems to light by means of student discussion groups and home relationship classes.

which will serve as a hub of campus life, and which will preserve for this school the unity it must keep if it is to continue to be a great University."

Also on the program, a portion of which was broadcast, were Bill Russell, director of the Lane county, Eugene drive, Walter Darling, campaign director, Bob Moran's trio singing "As I Sit and Dream", June Johnson singing "Italian Street Song," and Jim Luckey, chairman of the drive on the campus, explaining the system of the ocnest between the living organizations. Kappa Sigma and Alpha Xi Delta were the living organizations drawn from the bowls to sing "Oregon" and "As I Sit and Dream" respectively. Wally Johnson, general chairman of the drive, was Master of Ceremonies.

Lecture Notes Offer Vocabulary Brushup

The following lecture notes are excerpts from the English composition section of a notebook turned into the school lost and found department.

"The allegory of the alliteration is an anacoluthan analogy coupled with an anaphora anticlimax. The apostrophe apposition may differ from the antithesis of the baroque rococo but the chiasmus cliché refers to the deductive epigram of the equivocation euphemism. This fallacy or false analogy is similar to a hyperbaton hyperbole and nystreron proteron.

"The induction of irony induces litoes (meiosis) to the metaphor. Mentonymy may be non-sequitur but onomatopoeia can be oxymoron without being parenthesis. However, the personification of the reductio ad absurdum becomes a rhetorical question if the satire is not a simile of syllogism."
