

Libe Contest Adds New Section; Committee Lists General Rules

A new section of the library day contest, to be held Junior weekend, has recently been added, which offers prizes for the graduate student library collection. This section may include both general and specialized books. The three prizes, which total $30, will be awarded by a representative of the Association of Friends and Patrons of the University library.

Another section of the contest is for the student's general library. Thirty dollars in prizes will also be awarded for this section by a representative of the Association of Friends and Patrons. Required textbooks may not be included in these collections.

A third section of the contest, which is also new this year, is the student's specialized library. This section is being sponsored by the house librarians' organization, whose members wish to develop among the students a desire to acquire books in their special subject fields. Required textbooks may be included in this section. The three prizes, $15, $10, and $5, will be awarded by Robert Merz, president of the house librarians.

Entry Requirement

The general rules for all three contests are that entries in any section must be limited to less than 50 volumes and each book must bear a definite mark of ownership. Entries must be made by 6 p.m. May 9, at the circulation desk.

The name of the contestant, a list of the books to be displayed, and a statement of the general nature of the collection must accompany each entry. Entries must be arranged in the space allotted by 6 p.m. May 9, and must remain on display until 6 p.m. May 11.

Prize winners of former years are invited to exhibit their libraries, but they are ineligible for another prize award. All prizes will be awarded at 4 p.m., May 10.

The judging of the contest will take place at 2 p.m. May 10. The committee which has been chosen by R. C. Swank, librarian, for this judging includes: As chairman, Dr. Chandler B. Ball, professor of Romance languages; Dr. P. W. Souers, head of the English department; John M. McGee, research assistant in chemistry; Dr. A. R. Moore, research professor of general physiology; and William Carson, director of libraries of the system of higher education.

Committee Named

The committee which has been named handling the arrangements for this contest, includes: chairman, Miss Bernice Rise, head of the circulation department; Miss Clarice Krieg, head of the cataloguing department; Miss Margaret Willian, head of the reserve department; Miss Mary Pratt, reference assistant; and Miss Deborah Lewis, circulation assistant. This committee is also being assisted by the house librarians organization.

Anyone interested in entering should pick up his application at the circulation desk. Any further information about the contest may be received from Miss Rise at the circulation desk.

Supreme Court Rules Eviction Orders Illegal

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The supreme court upheld the OPA Monday in protecting tenants from eviction by reason of last year's price control "holiday."

There was no rent control law from June 30, 1946, until July 25, when Congress passed the new one. But the supreme court ruled that landlords who went to court during that interval and got eviction orders against their tenants cannot enforce those orders now.

It had nothing to say about the status of tenants actually removed from their quarters before the new law was enacted.

Contest to Extend Final Entry Date

Contributions for the Julia Burgess and the Walter Evans Kidd poetry contest have begun to reach the department of English, sponsors of the annual event. Final date for the entries has been extended to noon, May 10.

The Julia Burgess prize of $25 is offered upper division students for excellence in poetry. The Walter Evans Kidd award of $15 is given to the winner of the lower division contest.

Any type of poetry is acceptable, but if short lyrics are submitted, at least three and not more than five may be turned in as a unit.

This year's judges are Dr. Frank G. Black, Carlisle Moore, and Mrs. Alice H. Ernst, all associate professors of English.

Westminsterites Tell Plans for Conference

Kitson Springs has been set for the location of the annual Westminster conference, May 17 and 18, it was announced yesterday.

Purpose of the conference is to discuss the work done by the council members during the past year and to make plans for the coming year.

Dr. A. R. Chambers, head of the Oregon State college psychology department, will be the guest speaker.

Registration is now open at Westminster house for all interested in attending. Old and new council officers are asked to go.

Expenses for the conference, including room, board and transportation, will be $4.
