

Y Requests Fall Petitions

Petitions for counselors for the YWCA sponsored ducklings and counselor project, designed to assist new students to the school next fall in becoming acquainted, may be turned in at any time at the dean's office by all interested women students, according to Cochairmen Virginia Dryden and Anne Woodworth.

The girls will be assigned names of prospective students to whom they will write, arranging a meeting time soon after the beginning of fall term. The counselors will take their ducklings to Y-sponsored parties and school functions for the first six weeks of school.

Nancy Moran and Nancy Gleason, freshman chairmen, have announced that a file will be kept at the YWCA for the purpose of keeping the names of those interested, handling mailing, and as a place where information can be passed between ducklings and counselor.

The project is being handled largely by the newly organized sophomore commission which is an outgrowth of this year's freshman commission.

Mother's Week-end

Once these first mothers were on the campus, they caught the spirit of the students in working for a better school and became organized into a Mothers Group for the purpose of helping further these interests. The first president of the group, according to Karl Onthronk, was a very capable organizer, Mrs. Walter M. Cook. Their functions included service, support of University enterprises, as the current Student Union drive, and increasing public understanding of what the University is doing.

The first Mothers' scholarship was given to a worthy man or woman who needed help to come to school. They proved so successful, who could not otherwise have attended. Their annual Mothers' Day at the University is one of the major events of the year to which we all look forward with special interest and pleasure. The student committee is doing an excellent job this year on preparing hospitality for visiting Mothers. I am sure it is going to be a memorable occasion.

help the remaining veterans in school which includes those preparing for a degree in the education, liberal arts, or physical education field.

These advisers are checking with the deans of the various schools so that they may become specialists in the fields they have been assigned. In this way they will not only be able to advise you as to the VA requirements but will be well versed from the standpoint of just what the various schools and departments require. Veterans are urged to see not just any training officer but the one who happens to be specializing in their particular field if they have any questions about their training. All three of the men mentioned above can be contacted at room 114, P.E. building.

All Public Law 16 vets who are going to graduate this term are requested to report to Glenn Sweeney at the dean of men's office sometime before the end of next week.

The veterans' legislative program in the 80th Congress has been hamstrung so far by the Republican controlled house rules committee and by the slipshod economy drive headed by Rep. Harold Taber. Last week some Democratic members of the house committee on veterans' affairs prepared for a showdown conference with Speaker of the House Joe Martin. The latter reluctantly permitted his name to be added to the list of congressional leaders avowedly favoring a bill to permit optional cashing of terminal leave bonds now. Nevertheless, Martin and his Republican cohorts have been primarily responsible for the "stall" on veterans' legislation.

Just off the wire is an AP report dated Washington, April 29th which will undoubtedly be interesting in a morbid way to the vets at Oregon. This wire states that the Veterans Administration will be unable to send out monthly checks due today to the almost three million veterans receiving unemployment or educational allowances. It said the funds appropriated for that purpose are exhausted.

That makes things just "ducky" for the vet who is really dependent on those checks on a month-to-month basis. The Republican party won the congressional elections last November on the slogan "Had Enough;" if they remain as inept as they have demonstrated they are in the past few months we will all probably have "had more than enough" long before the elections of 1948 roll around.
