

Kwamas Sell Frolic Tickets

Tickets for the "Cotton Frolic," benefit dance for PNCC delegates sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with a state-wide drive for funds, are being sold at the Co-op by Kwamas, according to Joan Williams, president of the women's honorary. Price of the tickets are $2.00 per couple, Miss Williams said. Tickets will also be on sale in the Snack Bar, located in French hall, Vets' dorm No. 2.

The dance will be held tomorrow night in the Persian room and the east dining room of the Eugene hotel and will feature the Junior Weekend Queen, Nina Sue Fernimen, and her court, Sally Timmens, Pat Davis, Janis Peterson, and Jean Barringer. The court will model Eugene's latest cotton fashions.

Coed Phone Operators

Delta sorority, last night said that none of the members of that organization is involved in the strike.

"I have checked with girls in this house and find that none has been or is working for the telephone company I believe it is unfair for anyone to make these accusations against our organization simply because our house mother is the wife of an official of the company," she said.

The union men revealed that the local of the National Federation of Telephone Workers had offered to furnish union operators for emergency service but the offer was turned down by the managers. The strikebreaking University women are being paid one dollar per hour, 12 cents more than the maximum wage for operators which is being requested by the strikers.

Avoids Bitterness

Plumb and Turnbull emphasized that the strike had been very peaceful and the union wished to avoid any of the bitterness which usually follows strikes. They said that the striking workers naturally would resent interference of University students who would help prolong the strike by aiding management. The directors also expressed their desire to prevent any outbreak of violence against the "scabs," but pointed out that tempers of some union members were becoming short.

Manager Eade refused to reveal the number of University women being employed by the company, but the union estimates at least 12 coeds. Strikers who were interviewed said they had seen about 15 college women entering the building. The Emerald editor, posing as a student seeking employment, saw several University women in the switchboard room, and was told by one of the strikebreaking operators that "quite a few" coeds were employed.

Reports from Hendricks hall and Sigma Kappa revealed that several members were working for the company.

Cy Laurie Named Newman President

Cyril C. Laurie, freshman in journalism, was voted president of the Newman club for the coming year at their last meeting, retiring President Joe Conroy has announced. Laurie will take office immediately.

Other officers elected are Jane Ellsworth, junior in journalism, vice-president; Mildred Eisenbeis, sophomore in liberal arts, correspondence secretary; Kit Wilhelm, sophomore in journalism, recording secretary; Jack Hannam, senior in pre-law, treasurer.

Newly appointed committee heads for the club are Frances Degnan and Kay Schneider, social affairs; Nickie Murphy and Joan Edwards, plans and activities; Mary Stadelman and Barbara Heywood, publicity; Donna O'Brien and Reedy Berg, membership; Joe Shipman, parish activities; Joe Conroy, Mary Sherman and Bob Gierau, executives at large.
