Ann Curtis Wins

SEATTLE, May 2 (AP)—Ann Curtis of San Francisco who this afternoon equalled the world's record of .59.4 seconds in the 100-yard freestyle swam the distance tonight 1:00.3 to dethrone Brenda Helser of Los Angeles, defending champion, in the Women's National Indoor AAU swimming and diving meet.

Nancy Merki of Portland was second and Miss Helser third in the final.

Miss Curtis in her afternoon effort erased the American record set 16 years ago by Helene Madison of Seattle and it was tall Helene—now Mrs. McIver—who was on the awards platform to congratulate her successor and present the award.

full cost of education, and it is believed that this counteracts the original intent of congress when it passed the famed GI bill of rights.

A number of non-affiliated veterans have volunteered to join the AVC members in promotion of the campus campaign.

Booths will be manned from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Only 5 of the original cherubims in the New York cast of "The Green Pastures" remained small enough to last the first five years of production.

Eagle Screams for Local Men, Scores of Ex-GI's Get 'The Bird'

By AL PIETSCHMAN

Veteran students at Oregon are lucky. They get their checks, but in other schools throughout the nation pandemonium reigns.

The vets in these schools have been caught with their suspenders unhooked. No checks, and they are screaming, "Where's the Eagle. Isn't it loaded any more?"

At California, like Oregon, a big prom is on the agenda. At least it was. But now wails of anguish emanate from women's living organizations. They can see the prom—no flowers, no dinner, no man.

"What are we going to do?" asked one tearful Bear coed. "We were told in class that we couldn't live on love. Now we're finding out."

Someone suggested Dutch Treats as the alternative for social life. And already veteran backers of this idea have announced a political bloc. They are launching special candidates. "Flat-broke dark-horses" they call them, and they expect the third party to drag a lot of votes.

An irate ex-infantryman made the best statement concerning the stink in Washington.

"It's all a dirty capitalistic trick to get us GI's back in the service. Them brass hats in Washington know we haven't enough jack to last us and they need more suckers. Yeah, they got it all figured out—no pay for us and we hobble back to the army and navy. Ha!"

It's tough all over these days for the hungry vets. All except here in the Northwest. Deep concern for their fellow brothers was expressed by local vets on the campus as they shook out their blankets and prepared for a Thursday afternoon picnic.

The famous last lines from "Casey at the Bat" were quoted by one collegiate paper in describing the situation.

"Somewhere the sun is shining. Somewhere people are happy. But in Ann Arbor (Michigan) the vets have been struck out!"

Norris, Ernest Haycox, and R. C. Swank.

Postal Card Campaign to Urge Subsistence Increases for Vets

Increased subsistence payments for GI students will be urged upon Congress in a postal card campaign to be launched on the campus next week by the University chapter of the American Veterans Committee.

The write-your-congressman appeal will be directed in support of H. R. 870, a bill which, in addition to boosting subsistence allowances, would also raise ceilings for on-the-job training and would extend indefinitely the time limit during which educational privileges may be utilized.

Chairman Compton

The drive, directed by AVC Chairman Jack Compton, will get under way Monday and will center around three booths, to be located at the Co-op, John Straub hall, and the veterans cafeteria. Free postcards will be distributed and information on the house of representatives measure will be available at the booths. Addresses of congressmen from the various districts will also be supplied.

The campaign is part of a national effort by AVC to bring the bill out of committee onto the house floor, where it was introduced at AVC's request by Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers, chairman of the house veterans' affairs committee.

Dorm Raises

The local action has been given stimulus by recently announced increases in University dormitory board and room rates. University officials have explained that these are necessitated by unavoidable higher costs.

In testifying on the bill before a house subcommittee, Chat Patterson, AVC's national legislative representative, proposed that monthly allotments be raised to $100 for single veterans and $125 for married veterans. An over-all national survey by the organization showed "basic living expenses" averaging at $104 and $152 for single and married students respectively, he said.

Total Costs

No similar statistics are available to show the average burden upon Oregon veterans. Total living costs are in general somewhat lower than the national average. It is known, however, that allowances are inadequate to cover the
