R.L. Neuberger to Speak Before Group Tonight

Richard L. Neuberger, one of Oregon's foremost writers and lecturers, will be guest speaker at the annual Matrix Table former banquet sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national professional women's journalism honorary, at the Eugene hotel tonight at 6 o'clock. Invitation replies are to be filed at the journalism school before 5 today.

Junior and senior women in journalism are annually invited to the banquet, and because of this tradition, have not received individual invitations. All juniors and seniors planning to attend must sign at the school of journalism office today.

Neuberger will be introduced at Matrix table by Mrs. George Turnbull, Theta Sigma Phi adviser. Neuberger's topic will be "Freedom of the Press." A former Emerald editor, Neuberger is addressing Matrix table preceding a trip to Alaska.

He has written many articles on Oregon for national magazines such as the Saturday Evening Post, and was at one time a member of the state legislature.

Marilyn Sage, president of Theta Sigma Phi, will introduce the new Theta Sigma Phi pledges and the outstanding freshman and sophomore women in journalism. Journalism majors with high scholarship and service requirements will be in line for such honor.

The Matrix table program will consist of Neuberger's address, and the introduction of prominent persons present. A musical interlude will be supplied by Jeanne Simmonds, entertainment chair-

Rallyers to Discuss New Plans Tonight

The rally squad and Webfooters will hold their last meeting of the term at 7 p. m. tonight in 105 Journalism building. Plans for honoring Bill Hayward will be discussed and awards for the past year's activities presented.

Plans for next year's organization will be outlined.

All members of Webfooters and all those who served on the rally squad at any time during the past year are asked to attend.

Go Ahead Given Ads for Bids On Building of New Dormitory

The State Board of Higher Education Tuesday authorized the advertising for bids for the construction of a new women's dormitory at the University of Oregon. The same AP dispatch stated that a bond issue to finance the building had been approved.

The project has been planned for months but calling for bids had been delayed until figures could be obtained on the building. These, although higher than a year ago, were within revised estimates.

Bond construction and bond bids for the project will be sought on two bases, one calling for a building of 234 capacity to cost approximately $1,275,000, and the other for a building with a 480 capacity to cost approximately $2,000,000.

Also approved at the board meeting was the taking up of options on

Weed Killer Spoils Tastiness of Sod

Nibbling on grass from the campus lawns must stop!

This caution will come as a blow to those students who were in the habit of supplementing three meals a day with a succulent snack of the sod.

However, Oregon appetites will have to be restrained, W. R. Matsler, landscape architect for the University, announced yesterday for 2-4-D weed eradicator has been sprayed on lawns throughout the campus, and, taken internally, could harm the hungry student.

Welfare Work Open for Grads

Miss Margaret White, personnel administrator of the Oregon State Welfare commission, is on the campus today to interview students concerning welfare jobs following graduation, according to Dean Karl W. Onthank, director of the graduate placement service.

Students may contact Miss White at the sociology office in room 203 Oregon hall any time today.

Any Grads Eligible

Interested students who will graduate in June or within the next two years are urged to contact Miss White, Dean Onthank said. He stressed the fact that graduates from any school or department in the University are eligible for the positions, although some work in sociology is desirable.

A wide range of jobs is open including child welfare, relief, dependent families, and others.

Miss White and J. Warrington Stokes, member of the state welfare staff, spoke before classes in the sociology department yesterday.

Plans to Hatch At SDX Meet

Members of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, will discuss final plans for their spring initiation and picnic in a meeting in room 104 Journalism building at 4:30 p. m. Thursday.

Steaks and all the trimmings will be a feature of the picnic, according to Jack Billings, chairman of the committee on eats.

The initiation ceremony will be held at 10 a. m. Sunday in Gerlinger hall. The picnic will be held that same day, starting at 12 noon from the Journalism building.

Ad Honorary to Show Film on Printing Today

The film on lithography, to be shown to the advertising classes today at 4 p. m., will be given in room 101, PE building, rather than in Chapman hall.

All those interested in the technical side of printing are urged to attend. The film is being sponsored by Gamma Alpha Chi, women's advertising honorary.

Faculty Members Differ On High Rebate Issue

By BOB FRAZIER

The University Cooperative store will offer a 30 per cent rebate on purchases made in the 1946-1947 school year, Marilyn Sage, chairman of the Co-op board, announced yesterday. Customary rebate is 5 per cent.

Decision to make the 500 per cent increase in rebate was made by the Co-op board, with all student members favoring the increased rebate and all faculty members dissenting. Faculty members of the board, Dean James H. Gilbert of the college of liberal arts, and Dean Orlando Hollis of the law school objected to the increased rate on the grounds that it was "not sound business policy." M. F. McClain, manager of the store and non-voting member of the board, also objected.

13 Per Cent

Reasoning of the board was that profit on the anticipated $350,000 sales volume this year could be computed at 13 per cent, giving the store a profit before taxes of $45,500. Cash register receipts will have been given out on approximately $190,000 worth of merchandise, the board reasoned, the rest being accounted for by G. I. book sales and by "account receivable," on neither of which receipts are given.

Past experience has indicated that approximately 40 per cent of the receipts given out will be turned in at the end of the year. On this basis they expect $76,000 worth of receipts to be turned back.

Half Year's Profit

At this rate $22,800 will be returned to students, leaving the store $22,700, or approximately half the yearly profit. The board has already pledged $5000 to the student union fund, still leaving more than $17,000 to the store. Taxes must be subtracted from this. Taxes, however, are charged only on net profit, and cannot be charged on profits turned back to members of the cooperative.

Co-op receipts must be turned in to the Co-op before (Please turn to page six)

Campus Music Fete to Feature Chamber, Band, Choral Music

The second day's schedule of the Festival of Contemporary Music will begin at 10 a. m. today with a talk by Dr. Arnold Elston, chairman of the festival and assistant professor of music, lecturing on "Tension in Music."

A student concert will follow the lecture.

The program, which features University student performances, consists of "Chorale for Organ," by Roger Sessions, played by Patricia Heinrichs; "Sonata for Clarinet and Piano," by Leonard Bernstein, played by Julia Warner, clarinet, and Johnette King, piano; Ingolf Dahl's "Intermezzo, from Music for Five Brass Instruments," played by Marvin Nelson and Ellsworth Huffman, trumpet, Donald Frear and Tom Kellis, trombone, Lorraine Cheney, French horn, with Arnold Elston conducting.

Sonata Featured

Albert Marshall, flute, and Sylvia Killman, piano, will present Everett Helm's "Sonata for Flute and Piano." Concluding number of the morning's program will be "Finale, from the New Dance for Two Pianos," by Wallinford Rieger with Robert Feller and Jack Hannam performing.

A program of chamber music will follow a lecture by Dr. Edmund A. Cykler, associate professor of music at Occidental college, commencing at 2 p. m. The lecture is titled "The American Composer and His Social Milieu."

George Boughton will play the opening number, "Elegie for Unaccompanied Violin," by Igor Stravinsky, followed by "Sonatina for Violin and Piano" featuring Saga Collin Boughton at the piano and George Boughton, violin.

"Trio for Oboe, Clarinet, and Piano," will be played by Jean Girts, oboe, Margaret Holm, clarinet, and Jack Witter, piano. Boughton will perform again with Mary Kapp Allton in "Sonata for Two Violins, Op. 56."

The afternoon's program will (Please turn to page six)

New Safety Device Slated for 13th Ave

Neon traffic-control signs will replace campus barricades on Thirteenth avenue at University and Kincaid street intersections when installation can be completed by the University this summer. Two signs were furnished by the city of Eugene and have been delivered to the University, D. L. Lewis, superintendent of the ephratty plant, reveals.

The signs measure about 2½ by 6 feet and will hang horizontally over Thirteenth avenue, suspended from metal poles. Red lights synchronized with the campus bell signal system will stop auto traffic during the established ten-minute period of each hour when classes pass.

The installation of the new traffic system awaits the placement of poles and wiring. These already have been ordered, Supt. Lewis reports, but inauguration of the new control system is not expected until summer session.

Committee Chairmen Not Donators of Award

Mr. and Mrs. Berkley Snow of Portland were chairmen of a scholarship committee raising money for the $100 supplementary scholarship awarded Thelma Chaney instead of the contributors of that amount, Mrs. Golda Wickham, dean of women, announced yesterday.
