Car Accident Kills Freshman

Glenn D. Bostwick Misses Road Turn

Glenn D. Bostwick, 19, freshman in business, was fatally injured Saturday night when the car in which he was riding left the Corvallis-Albany highway after failing to make a turn and crashed into a telephone pole.

The driver, Andrew Chrystall, junior in liberal arts, suffered severe lacerations and a broken hip. Gilbert Tummy, freshman in liberal arts, received minor injuries. Following the accident the three men were taken to the Corvallis General hospital where Bostwick died.

Bostwick was an outstanding high school football player at Medford in 1944 and 1945. He played on the University football team during the 1946 season.

The three University men were members of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and had gone to visit friends at that fraternity's chapter at Oregon State.

According to friends of Bostwick, the funeral will probably be held in Medford tomorrow.

Senior to Present Piano Recital at 8

Mrs. Chase, who is president of the campus chapter of Phi Beta, national fraternity of music and speech, will present a varied program that includes Bach's "English Suit, No. 1. Op. 3, G-minor," Beethoven's "Sonata, Op. 31, No. 3," Chopin's "Ballade, No. 1, Op. 23, G-minor," and "Impromptu No. 2, Op. 36, F-sharp," Ravel's "Valse Nobles and Sentimentales," and Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 10."

The pianist has been active on the campus as well as in the school of music and has been a member of Kwama, Phi Theta Upsilon, and Mortar Board, honoraries. The recital tonight will be her last presentation of the year.

Buildings to Feature Home Atmosphere in Small Independent-Operating Units, Two Rooms Each

Bids on two proposed dormitories for women will be called for today, Dr. Will V. Norris, supervising engineer, has announced. Authorization of the call for bids was made Tuesday in Portland by the state board of higher education.

The first structure, plans for which were approved by the board at a previous meeting, is to house 234 girls. The second proposed building is an enlarged dormitory housing 480 girls.

Bids for both buildings will be called for today and will be due July 22, Dr. Norris said.

The small one-wing building, which will also include the dining room and kitchen unit, is estimated to cost $1,250,000. The larger completed dormitory will contain both wings and the central unit at an estimated cost of $2,000,000.

Bids returned on the buildings will probably determine which of the dormitories will be built, the engineer indicated.

The dormitory, complete or in the single-wing unit, is planned so that a home atmosphere has been retained with small independent-operating units although built as a large unit of operation.

Each floor will be divided into four units, each accommodating 14 girls and will have its own facilities for storage, washing, and living.

Rooms will be either single or double, with toilet facilities between each two rooms of a unit. A living room, showers, hair drying facilities, and candy kitchenettes will be a part of each unit.

The enlarged structure would be built on a site between the alley just off Onyx through to Beech street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. It would be one and one-half blocks in length.

The single wing unit would cover the site between Emerald and

Summer Term Sign-up Dated

Advance registration for the first summer session will be held on May 26, 27, 28, and 29 for all spring term students who intend to continue into summer classes, according to Dan E. Clark, director of the summer sessions. This announcement is of particular interest to veterans, who must register early to insure the continuance of their subsistence pay.

Registration will be issued to students from the registrar's office in Johnson hall during this four-day period. Students should consult advisers in their offices during the four days indicated and secure their signatures on their study programs. Undergraduates must then secure the signature of the dean of men or dean of women and graduates the signature of the dean of the graduate school. After payment of fees at the cashier's office, registering students will file all their cards, including class cards, with the registrar's office. Class cards will be mailed later to all instructors.

Additional information on summer registration may be obtained from the information office at Johnson hall or from Dr. Clark, room 3, Oregon hall.

Crystal Ball, Cards to Set Mortar Board Mood

A large crystal ball, cards, tea leaves, and palms will transform McArthur court into a Gypsy Fortune teller's dream for the Mortar Board ball Saturday night. The decoration committee has elaborate plans for setting this gay and festive Gypsy mood in the Igloo. Unique lighting arrangement is in the hands of Howard Ramey.

The band of Art Holman, well-known to students for many years, has been signed to provide the music. The committee, desiring a local group, chose Holman's band with the belief that he plays the most danceable music for a formal event.

Price of admission has been set at $1.80 including tax. Tickets will be sold in women's living organizations and in a booth at the Co-op on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

This annual girl-date-boy affair is in honor of the newly-tapped women who comprise next year's Mortar Board, and programs have been designed in the shape of the identifying black mortar board with a gold tassel.

At intermission, the Kwamas will tap 30 freshman women for membership. They have been chosen

Infirmary Declares Funds Insufficient

Doctor Answers Letter Printed in Emerald; Relates Difficulties Borne by Health Service

By MARGUERITE WRIGHT

Lack of funds sufficient to give "complete" service and a limited staff were the reasons given Monday by Dr. Fred Miller, director of the University health service, for the alleged refusal of the infirmary to treat the broken leg of a varsity baseball player last week.

Attention was called to the situation by a letter to the Emerald from Bill Lerner (published May 17) in which the health service was criticized for inadequate service to the students. The letter stated that Trainer Tom Hughes telephoned to ask the infirmary to x-ray Outfielder Pat Wohler's broken leg at about 4:30 Thursday afternoon; that Hughes was told it was after hours and no x-ray would be taken. The health service offered to place hot compresses on the leg, the letter said, but Hughes decided to take the injured player to the Sacred Heart hospital where the leg was cast.

Cornell Objects

University Athletic Manager Anson B. Cornell told the Emerald Monday that he believed injured students should be treated by the infirmary regardless of the time the injury occurs. He said the athletes paid the same health service fee paid by other students and should receive adequate service. "An injury received at 5 p. m. is just as important as a 9:30 a.m. injury," he said.

Cornell said the official team physician, Dr. G. F. Guldagger of Eugene, usually took care of athletic injuries, but that he was not available for Wohler. He said the athletic department spent nearly $2000 annually for medical expenses incurred by members of the athletic teams. When players request treatment by their own doctors, he said the athletic department usually pays the hospital bills although the athletes are asked

1947 Honorary Awards Made

Armin H. Gropp, research associate in chemistry, and Charlene L. Thurston, sophomore in liberal arts, last night received the 1947 awards of the University chapters of Sigma Xi, national science honor society, and Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honor society.

Thirty-six new members were welcomed into the two chapters at the annual banquet in the Osburn hotel by John Stehn, Phi Beta Kappa president; and A. L. Soderwall, Sigma Xi president.

Responses on behalf of the 20 Phi Beta Kappa initiates by William J. Moshofsky, law student, and the 16 Sigma Xi initiates by Hans Heymann, assistant professor of chemistry. This year's guest speaker was Sidney W. Little, dean of the school of architecture and allied arts, who spoke on "The Humanities and Architecture."

Miss Thurston won the Phi Beta Kappa prize consisting of books to the value of $25 which she will choose in consultation with a chapter committee. The award is made annually on the basis of scholarship and promise to a student completing lower-division work.

Dr. Gropp is the recipient of the Sigma Xi graduate research prize of $25. The campus chapter recognizes each year the outstanding work in its membership fields, including anthropology, biology, chemistry, geology and geography, mathematics, physics, and psychology.

This spring Dr. Gropp became the first graduate student to secure a Ph.D. in chemistry at the University of Oregon.
